regards Taft as sure second choice, and would support him in preference to all others were Cummins not in the race and asking for the state's endorsement.
As to conditions in the Democratic party, it is plainly evident that many members of the majority in the House are smarting under the caucus gag that has been applied by the party leaders to force them to vote for measures in which they do not believe. Considerable ill-feeling is growing up because of opposition to the legislative program mapped out by these same leaders. The division of sentiment over the probe into the so-called "money trust" and the fact that many Democrats were of the opinion that such a probe should be postponed until after the election, is indication that Democrats are looking to Wall Street for financial support, and that a radical Congressional programme will shut off such aid.

Democratic Rivalry Bitter.

The tumpus stirred up by Henry Watterson has engendered much bitterness among Democrats, and regardless of the effect it may have upon the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson, it portends trouble. The Champ Clark-Joe Folk controversy in Missouri is another breeder of trouble; the Bryan-Harmon strife is also likely to prove helpful to the Republicans in Ohio, and so on down the list. There is very keen rivalry among Democratic candidates for the Presidential nomination, and this rivalry may last after the nomination is made.

Country Will Approve Vetoes.

All this is satisfactory to the President, for he is confident the country will sustain him in all vetoes of tariff legislation that is not carefully drafted and worked out on the basis of facts and conditions. The assurances received at the White House have satisfied the Administration that last Summer's vetoes were popular, even with that element of the people who want to see a downward revision of the tariff. The President believes the people want revision based on findings of the tariff board, and will be content with the revision of only such schedules as have been considered by that board, provided revision keeps pace with the board's reports.

BRYAN TO BE FIRST
"MONEY" WITNESS

Committee to Ask Nebraskan What He Meant by Treading on Members' Toes.

PUJO PROPOSES NEW PLAN

No Mention Made of Trust in Resolution by Member Who Declares Issue Is Scientific, Not Political, One.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—William J. Bryan will be the first witness to the summoned before the House committee on banking and currency to testify in the "money trust" investigation which the Democratic caucus, repudiating Mr. Bryan's demand for a special committee, referred to standing committees of the House.
Mr. Bryan trod on the toes of the Democratic members of the committee when he recently declared the "money trust" thought it could control the committee. The committee insists that Mr. Bryan explain what he meant, notwithstanding that Mr. Bryan's adherents in the caucus Wednesday offered a resolution, which was adopted, expressing confidence in the integrity of their colleagues on that committee.

Trust Accusation Omitted.

The Pujio resolution was approved by the majority members of the committee to which the Democratic caucus referred most of the inquiry. Representative Vreeland, ranking Republican member, first ineffectually attempted to have the Republican members invited into the committee hearing.
The Pujio resolution was referred to the rules committee. It sets forth that the "committee is desirous of securing full and complete information regarding the banking and currency conditions of the country for the purpose of determining what legislation is needed."
There are no specific references in the resolution to control of money by financial groups and their domination of railroads, industrial corporations, National banks and the New York Stock Exchange and Clearing-House.

"Loose Talk" Depreciated.

"This resolution has been introduced by me upon my own responsibility and reflects only my personal opinion and the opinion of Democrats. There has been much loose talk by uninformed persons about monopolistic control of financial conditions in this country. Should such conditions exist, no doubt legislation along proper lines not only will be recommended by the committee on banking and currency, but will be enacted by the public.

Salesmen

LAST week I advertised for 10 salesmen to make this organization large enough to handle the business.

From the numerous applications received I have just picked six good men.

I want four more right away, because we must get fully organized to handle the Eastmoreland campaign, which I am going to open in a few days—after which we will not have time to hire and break in new salesmen.

If you are a salesman and desire to better your condition I'd be glad to have you come in and talk the matter over with my sales manager, Mr. J. F. Kinder.

WILSON URGES CHANGE

CANDIDATE SAYS "INTERESTS" WOULD BE "TRUSTEES."

Ghost of Privilege Declared to Have Frightened Business Men—Revolution Not Meant.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 9.—Woodrow Wilson expounded his views of Democracy to the Kentucky Legislature this afternoon, giving what he termed "a straight Democratic talk." He spoke tonight at a banquet given by the Woodrow Wilson League of Kentucky. Early in his speech before the Legislature Mr. Wilson brought out his idea of a "system of trusteeship," which, he said, grew out of the power wielded by the big interests in the political world. Charging that representative office-holders were guided by these men, he said that government, virtually resolved itself into a trusteeship.

"These men consider themselves guardians of the country," he said. "They do not believe the judgment of the people is sound, hence the guardianship."
"Privilege—this ghost has captured business. No business is free, and the whole situation shows an artificial advantage. Business men are afraid to talk, and this tremor-clutching business is proof of the grip of privilege."
"Our laws of 30 years ago do not fit conditions today. We stand in the presence of a new order of things. Formerly the privilege was against change, but now they know it is necessary."

Mr. Wilson said he would not attempt to revolutionize the entire body of law at one upheaval, but would try to "clear the channel," giving big business interests a chance to readjust themselves on the theory that big business with privilege is bad, but big business properly operated is good.

Speaking of the "insurgents," Governor Wilson said:

"They have sprung around and around until their principles are ours, with the exception of the tariff."

COLD HURTS GAME BIRDS

Precautions Taken Are Inadequate, Dr. Henshaw Says.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Quail and other game birds suffered severely in the recent cold weather, according to reports from various parts of the country to the United States Biological Survey. Dr. Henshaw, chief of the bureau, said today that much was done through the National Association of Audubon Societies to preserve the birds, but that the measures taken were inadequate. Provision should be made early in the season, he said, for feeding birds in severe weather, and such precautions should be more systematic and thorough.

Japanese Trusts Exclusion Is Eliminated From Dillingham Bill.

HONOLULU, Feb. 9.—Viscount Sotomi Chinda, the newly-appointed ambassador from Japan to the United States, arrived here today on the Japanese liner Shinyo Maru. He will reach San Francisco, February 16.

In an interview published today in the Hawaii Shimpo, Honolulu Japanese paper, the ambassador said that after leaving Yokohama he received a wireless message from his government saying that the provision for Japanese exclusion had been eliminated from the Dillingham bill, now pending in the United States Congress.

"For the continued amity of the two nations, I hope that this is correct," said the ambassador.
