Congress Next Week to Be All-Oregon Assembly - Big Speakers Announced.

DELEGATES GIVE SUPPORT

W. Wayman, of Willow River Says Work Is Essential Part of Development Dry Farm Lands.

Delegations to the Oregon Irrigation Congress, which will open at the Com-mercial Club in Portland at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday, February 19, are being made up in every part of the state, especially among the commercial organizations of Eastern Oregon and the people directly interested in irrigation in that part of the state. The attendance will not only be very large," says J. J. Sayer, of the premotion committee of the Portland Commercial Club, "but will be exceedingly representative of the most progressive business and political interests of the state. In our letter files we have acceptances from the leading men have acceptances from the leading men in nearly every district of the state. and both state and National officials will take part in the programme."

The programme will be definitely drawn up this week. Monday will be devoted to the work of organisation. Bill Hanley probably will be the presiding officer and speakers for the day will be Governor West, Fresident Piper of the Commercial Club, F. C. Knapp. of the Commercial Club, F. C. Knapp, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and others who are leading in the irriration movement in the state.

Banquet to Be Arranged. A reception and banquet to the dele-ates will be held at the Commercial Rub Monday night. Tuesday and Wedusiness features of the session.
A special meeting of the Rend Com-sercial Club was held February 8 and
O. Hunter, W. D. Shrader, W. D. Cheney, V. A. Forbes, Clyde McKay and Judge H. C. Eills were elected delegates to the congress. J. E. Sawhill also will come from Bend, as a representative of the Central Oregon Development League. Many delegates will be sent from the Water-Users. Association on the Central Oregon Irri-ration Company's segregation.

Representative of the interest that has been aroused in the congress among farming people in Malheur County is a letter received at the Portland Commercial Club from W. W. Weyman, of the King Hill and Willow River Irrigation projects near Brogan. He says that Malheur County men will be eager to give every assistance in their power make the congress a success. Mr. syman himself will endeavor to attend the congress if he can leave the project at that time, although the res project at that time, although the reservoirs have just been completed and it may be necessary for him to remain to superintend their filling. Mr. Wayman emphasizes the need of further study of irrigation problems in the state, and points out some of the difficulties that he has had to combat in projects in Eastern Oregon.

Method Study Important.

"After over 20 years' experience in frigation work," he says, "there are a few points that appear to be absolutely essential to the development of an irrigation project, the first of which is good same construction, the very best of service by the operating department and a continual educational campaign demonstrating by deeds and serks how to apply and conserve the moisture, bearing in mind at all times to give water the greatest possible futy. To handle successfully irrigated land it is essential that the farmers understand thoroughly idry-farming methods and use them in conjunction with irrigation. Less water and more dultivation should be the slogan in all terigated communities.

"In this portion of the state we feel the lack of co-operation from the State of Oregon and we are inclined to often turn to our neighboring state of Idaho for assistance and co-operation. We recently held a farmers' institute here, it being attended by representatives of the Corvallis School.

"Our company has invested over $2,- $60,000 in this project and has changed the value of land so that today the samebrush land above the canal is worth $5 to $10 an age and the land below the canal and susceptible of ir-rigation from $200 and over an acre."

below the canal and susceptible of irrigation from 1300 and over an acre,"

MISSION WORK DISCUSSED

Progress of Church in China Recited at Methodist Meeting.

The work of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society in Central China was told by Miss Jennie Hughes at the meeting of the Methodist ministers in Taylor-Street Methodist Church Monday morning. Miss Hughes has worked as a missionary in China, being in the United States on a furlough. She said the revolution has brought the empire in closer touch with Christianity, and made the work of the missionaries more effective.

Dr. Thomas Nicholson, general secretary of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, said that the Methodist Church is only holding its own, that it is losing the note of urgency in its message, and that it is on trial in the United States. He told of the progress made in ruising the on trial in the United States. TILLAMOOK PLANS MADE Southern Pacific to Improve Terminals, Lay More Tracks.

Improvement of the terminals at Tillamook is contemplated by officials of the Southern Pacific Company, who have been passing the last few days in an inspection trip over the line recently completed into that city. D. W. Campbell, general superintendent returned yesterday from Tillamook and expressed himself as highly pleased with general conditions in that part of the state. While in that city he presented a request to the Council for the privilege of laying additional tracks paralleling the present line along the water front. He declares that the im-Improvement of the terminals at water front. He declares that the improvement is necessary to accommodate the growing traffic in that city.

A. L. Burkhalter, chief engineer;
John M. Scott, general passenger John M. Scott, general passenger agent, and Harvey E. Lounsbury, gen-eral freight agent, accompanied Mr. Campbell on the trip. Mr. Scott and Mr. Lounsbury will remain at Tilla-mook for several days.

FARMER ELUDES ROBBER

While Returning From Church Man Near Lebanon Is Held Up.

LEBANON, Or., Peb. 13,-(Special.) A lone highwayman attempted to hold up Clyde McClain, a young farmer, on the county road two miles west of Lebanen, at 10 o'clock Sunday night. Mr. McClain had been in Lebanon attending church.

Mr. McClain's first knowledge of robbery was when a man stepped from the shadow of a cluster of trees and aimed a pocket fiashlight toward his face and ordered him to halt.

The young man whipped up his team and left the would-be holdup in the road. A bullet whizzed after him, passing through the side curtain of the buggy. No clue has been found as to the identity of the robber.

Just before this incident, the Schaw-Batcher Company, contractors on Bull Run conduit No. 2, filed claim to extras on that work, which ran over $1,000,000, in the sum of $175,000. Mr. Wilcox characterized this one as "prepostereus," but Attorney McNary, appearing for the company, explained that his clients believed they could justify their claims in the eyes of the Board members if given a chance. Consequently, a special meeting may be held to thresh out the details. Chief Engineer Clarke recommended that $3000 be paid for the extras for which the contracfor the extras for which the contrac-tors are asking $179,000.

At a recent meeting the Water Board had asked the Wakafield Company to file a detailed statement, but instead of that, it filed what Mr. Wilcox termed "a six-line letter," simply claiming a balance due it on the Mount Tabor reservoirs of $414,000, giving no explanations whatever.

JUDGE MORROW CALLS HALT ON PERSONAL GIBES.

Court in Trial of ex-Sergeant Cole Also Forbids Criticism of Administration.

Circuit Judge Morrow yesterday warned Deputy District Attorney Page appearing for the state, and E. S. J. McAillster, representing the defendant, in the trial of E. W. Cole, a former police sergeant, on a charge of grafting from women of the underworld, that he will not permit personalities to be indulged in or aspersions to be cast on the city administration or any persons during the progress of the hearing. He intimated that the attorneys would be punished severaly for contempt of court if they overstepped the mark.

The remarks of the judge were occasioned by frequent and bitter clashes between Attorneys Page and McAllister. Mr. McAllister accused the Deputy Prosecutor of seeking to inject prejudice into the minds of the jurors of the commits and referred in his opening statement and referred to Waldemar Seton, who is special prosecutor, as "the hired man of Mayor Rushlight sent here to assist in the paraecution of his defendant."

Mr. McAllister objected to Mr. Page being allowed to tell the jurors that the state would prove that the defend-ant had taken several bribes before and after the one al-leged in the indictment, con-tending that each of these alleged bribe takings was a crime in itself, making Cole Hable to indictment.
