

TAX COMMISSION MEASURES FRAMED

Board Works Harmoniously and Labors Are Completed Early.

INCOME AMENDMENT URGED

Model Inheritance Law and Exemption of Personal Effects in Actual Use Are Included in Proposed Changes.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 12.—(Special).—The programme as outlined in the Oregonian this morning for the committee to prepare tax laws for submission to a vote of the people at the next general election was carried out practically as predicted, although rather than the long session which was expected by the members the unexpectedly completed their labors today.

The programme as outlined includes the proposed income tax constitutional amendment, the model inheritance tax law, an exemption of all household furniture and personal effects in actual use, and an exemption of both unsecured and secured notes from taxation.

The plan of the income tax amendment has been outlined. In form it will be substantially as follows: Article 8, section 12.—Taxes may be imposed on incomes from whatever source derived, and classification may be made based on sources of income; such taxes may be proportional, or graduated, and progressive, and reasonable exemptions may be provided.

This form may be slightly changed, but it will remain substantially as above.

The model inheritance tax law is the law which was adopted by the State of New York and approved by the National Tax Association. The form of the New York law will be used with the same classification of property and rates. It is estimated that this inheritance tax law will increase the revenues from that source several thousands of dollars annually. The New York law was passed in July, 1911. The law recognizes the right of the testator to state county and eliminates the possibility of double taxation.

The exemption of all householders' furniture and personal effects contemplates those that are in actual use. The proposed exemptions for artisans and mechanics' tools and for farming utensils were not adopted, as expected, and the committee feeling that the plan for exemption of personal effects and householders' furniture is sufficient for the time being.

The plan for exemption for secured and unsecured notes from taxation, and all credits where taxation of same would amount to double taxation, covers the much-discussed and the long-ignored system of taxation of mortgage notes. While it is much more extensive than that, members of the committee say that the plan provides for a comprehensive and effective working system of exemption of mortgage notes, and the committee is satisfied that under the bill as it will be passed, those who are opposed to the taxation of the mortgage notes and other unsecured notes as well as credits, will find it to their liking.

These four bills cover the work done by the Commission, and it is probable that no more meetings will be held. The work of framing the bills and preparing them for submission to the people will be left largely with the State Tax Commission, and it is proposed to have the bills printed and probably distributed when they are finally printed and in proper form.

TAX TALK IS HELD TO BE JOKE

Reduction Next Year Not Due to State Board Is Asserted.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 12.—(Special).—The recent statements of Governor West, made both here and in Portland that "the State Board will see that the taxes next year are one-half of the taxes of this year," have been taken as something of a joke about the Capitol, considering the fact that there are probably a half a dozen men in the statehouse who are able now to tell approximately how much of the next year will be. The board has practically no control over the levy, although it makes it.

There are certain stipulated expenditures which must be levied for, and the State Board of Tax Commissioners makes provision for them in the levy. Last year the levy was about half of what it is this year. The same condition will exist next year and the levy will be about half of what it is this year.

Just prior to the legislative session a levy is made which it is deemed will be sufficient to carry the state through for the year. At the end of that year the board makes up a sufficient levy to pay for the excessive appropriations which might be made by the legislative assembly.

Last year something less than $2,000,000 was paid in taxes. This year something over $2,000,000 will be paid, as the legislative assembly made such large appropriations that the levy for this was correspondingly high.

Governor West said that he appreciated the situation as put up to him, and that in his statement here and in Portland he intended more to convey the idea that the taxpayers would have less taxes to pay next year than they have to pay this year.

"However, the State Board does intend to cut down the taxes in the future and we hope, by shaving the appropriations to the lowest notch, to decrease the levy in 1914 as well as in 1913."

NEW INSTRUCTORS SOUGHT

President Foster, of Reed College, to Go East for Six.

Announcement that six new instructors are to be added to the faculty of Reed College was made yesterday by President Foster. Dr. Foster will leave February 21 for the East for a six weeks' visit for the purpose of engaging new members of the faculty. The chairs to be filled are those of ancient languages, romance languages, physical education, history, physics and chemistry.

Dr. Edward O. Sisson, head of the department of education in the University of Washington, who will have the same department in Reed College next September, is to arrive Thursday from Seattle to confer with Dr. Foster concerning the department of education here. Among the questions to be considered are the requirements for admission, courses of study and the revision of the catalogue. Dr. Sisson is to deliver a lecture at Reed College Friday morning at 11 o'clock on "Abraham Lincoln."

At meetings held last week by students of Reed College members of the student council for men and women were chosen. These two councils, consisting of three members each, will act as representatives of the students in all affairs relating to student customs and student projects. These councils will pass upon all questions which may arise under the honor system of conducting examinations, which was unanimously adopted by the student body several weeks ago. The members of these councils are: Men students—W. H. Boddy, J. M. Howes, D. K. Brace. Women students—Ada C.

Dr. Foster says the impression that Reed College would admit only freshmen next year, as in the case at present, is incorrect, as students will be admitted to sophomore and junior standing next September.

Proofs of the first annual catalogue have been corrected and are in the hands of the printer. The completed catalogue is to be issued in a few days.

BRIDGE PLANS ARRIVE

TRANS-COLUMBIA STRUCTURE WILL COST $1,950,000.

Ralph Modjeski, of Chicago, Says Bascule Type of Draw Would Be More Economical.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Feb. 12.—(Special).—The plans and sketches for the proposed bridge across the Columbia River, between Vancouver and Portland, were received here from Ralph Modjeski, of Chicago, by J. P. Stapleton, chairman of the bridge committee, yesterday.

In the letter Mr. Modjeski estimated the cost of the bridge at $1,950,000, which includes the trestle approach on the Oregon side.

"I find that it probably will be more economical to use a bascule type of drawspan in this bridge, on account of the excessive cost of pivot pier and draw protection for swing draws," writes Mr. Modjeski, "and I have assumed that the Government would approve a drawspan opening of the same length as that provided in the Broadway Bridge in Portland."

The drawing shows a bridge of seven spans, 375 feet center to center piers, and bascule span 235 feet, each center to center of pier. Total length of steel structure in the main bridge being 1340 feet. The estimate is based on a 24-foot roadway between curbs.

Toward the close of the registration period women registered in great numbers, indicating deep interest in the moral issue being brought into the campaign.

DEATH THREAT ALLEGED

Girl Involved in Charge Made Against Roseburg Farmer.

ROSEBURG, Or., Feb. 12.—(Special).—Oney Boone, a prominent farmer, residing 10 miles east of Roseburg, was arrested here late today on a charge of attempting to extort $100 from George Adams, a well-to-do neighbor. Following his arrest Boone was arraigned before a magistrate and furnished with a $1000 bond for his appearance in court tomorrow.

According to the story told by Adams tonight, Boone visited his home late yesterday, and after accusing him of a serious crime, demanded $100, and refused to deliver the money, whereupon Boone is alleged to have threatened him with death. Noticing that Boone was armed with an axe, and being afraid that he would carry his threat into execution, Adams hastened from the scene and later came to Roseburg and reported the incident to the officers.

While the officers refuse to make public the entire transaction, they admit that a 16-year-old girl residing east of town is mentioned in the affair and will be closely questioned prior to holding the preliminary examination.

Boone refuses to discuss his arrest tonight, other than denying that he is guilty of the crime charged in the complaint. Both Boone and Adams have resided in this locality for many years, the former being a member of one of Douglas County's pioneer families. Owing to the prominence of the persons involved in the arrest, it is expected that the preliminary hearing will be attended by a large crowd.
