BURNS FAILS TO WIN FROM COULON

Bantam - Weight Champion Gets Decision at End of Fast 20-Round Bout.

OROWD DISLIKES VERDICT

Macciators at New Orleans Ringside Believe New Jersey Lad Should Have Had Draw. Both Fighting Hard at Bell.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—John Coulon, of Chicago, was still the ban-tariweight champion of the world at the end of his 20-round fight with Frankle Burns, of Jorsey City, here this after-

The fight was fast and clever from the first to the last round, Coulon carring the fighting to Burns. He was met with such an onslaught, however, that a number of Burns' supporters hought he should have had a draw. The crowd which packed the arena was loath to leave after Referre Harry stout had ruised Coolon's giove. The Stout had raised Conlon's glove. The selling was deafening, but the decision stood and the crowd finally filtered through the exits.

Coulon was credited with only one knockdown, which came in the first minute of the last round. The champion landed a left hook to the law just as Eurns' foot slipped. Burns dropped but was up in an instant and fighting hard. Coulon Is Confident.

Coulon was confident and started the fight with a rush after feeling his man fight with a rush after feeling his man out in the first round, which was most-ly sparring. The champion, according to the sport writers, was credited with nearly every round up to the eleventh, when Burns gradually began forcing Coulon to break ground, getting the better of the in-fighting. In the second, Coulon rapped Burns reneated to on the stomach, getting sav-repeatedly on the stomach, getting several labs to the face and law in return. Burns landed a stiff lab on the chin at the beginning of the third, following it with a short right to the stom-ach. Coulon braced, forcing Burns to ach. Coulon braced, foreing Burns to the ropes, working rights and lefts in midsection. In this round Coulon grabbed the top rope with his right and shot in a heavy left to the stomach.

The fourth round found Burns eager, the Jersey boy doing most of the fighting, with Coulon apparently resting. Burns repeatedly uppercut Coulon in the fifth, getting sliff jabs to the stomach in exchange. In the sixth and seventh Coulon rushed his man, landing repeatedly on the stomach and wind.

Burns Forced to Ropes. In the eighth, ninth and tenth, Coun forced Burns back to the ropes wit right and left swings, boring into the stomach with short-arm jabs that Burns found hard to get away from Burns proved the cleverer at infighting in the eleventh, forcing Coulon to break ground. They fought toe to toe in the thirteenth, neither apparently having the advantage. Burns annexed the fourteenth and fifteenth rounds by hard fighting in the clinches, varied by hard folts to the face. Coulon brought blood from Burns' nose in the sixteenth with a left hook and Burns appeared worried.

Beaver Pitching Staff to Be Strongest in History of Club, Says Manager.

Portland to Carry Six Twirlers. Only Two of 1919 Champions, Krueger and Rapps, to Be With the 1912 Pennant Chasers.

BY ROSCOM FAWCETT. Walter McCredle, manager of the Portland Coasters, yesterday gave out the news that a deal will be closed within the next two or three days for two new pitchers for the champions. Mac hasn't entirely settled the details and shuns publicity in the meantime, but did vouchsafe that both are young fellows of strapping build, and that he expected to start the season with as good a pitching staff as he had at the close of the 1911 pennant face. Last Spring at the opening of hostilities he had only Koestner, Steen and Scaton of his regulars, Henderson, Harkness and Lamline being added to the string in mid-season.

"Til have a 2-to-1 better staff of heavers than a year ago at Spring training time," said Mac. "The fans will be tickled when I announce my prospective newcomers. Both are youngsters in their prime and that's the brand I want. None of your major vaterans—Dolly Grays and that sort—for Portland.

I don't expect him at the start of the season, anyway, and I don't know as I will be able to use him at all after my sextet gets in working order."

W. W. McCredie, president of the local club, believed that his wen better. with the pennant habit will have an even better team this year than the one which copped the flag in 1916 and one which copped the flag in 1916 and again in 1911. He points out that the eatching staff is about on a par, the pitching staff superior, the outfield stronger if anything, and the infield well supplied. He says Stieger, the new pitcher, is rated as a crack first baseman and batter and, in view of this, he entertains no fears of Bill Rapps kicking over the traces.

Only Two of 1910 Team Left. A recapitulation of the Portland lineups for the past two or three sea-sons backs out the Portland leader's argument for the younger element, for, argument for the younger element, for, while it may sound surprising, Mac now has only two of the great coterie of stars who won the pennat for the Beavers in 1910, a little less than 17 months ago—Bill Rapps at first base and Artle Krueger in the outfield. In spite of the kaleidoscopic switching of playing talent, however, the Beavers came back with a second bunting in 1911, so even without the services of Pitchers Steen and Seaton, Catchers Murray and Kuhn, Infielders McCredie Talks of Trade.

Walter McCredie, of the Portland Beavers, believes both Washington and the New York Highlanders benefited by the trade of Jack Knight, of the Yanks, for Catcher Street, whose ad-

"I do not figure this Street a good receiver, but Wolverton needs a second catcher to relieve Sweeney occasionally, so I guess it's all right from both angles," said the Portland expert. "Kuhn is a better man than Street, however," added Mac. "When with the Seals Street was slow on his feet, and his pitchers at Washington tell me he is not the receiver some of the writers seem to think."

Mac figures that Pittsburg got all the best of the trade of Vincent Campbell for Mike Donlin, for the ex-aberdeen player has been warbling retirement for months, and Boston may be shy one romper almost any time.
