

7000 ENLIST TO AID CITY BEAUTIFYING

Canvass of Greater Portland Plans Association Meets With Great Success.

LARGE FUND IS RAISED

Blast From Countless Whistles Is Signal for Dollar-Gleaners to Begin Sale of Buttons—W. J. Bryan Buys Badge.

A membership campaign which began yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock with a siren blast from a thousand whistles over the city resulted in the addition of 7000 members to the Greater Portland Plans Association...

AD LEADS TO ALTAR

Pioneer Finds Old Acquaintance, Courtship Follows.

AFFAIR STARTS AS JOKE

James Turk, of Mist, and Mrs. Hannah Chapman, of Portland, Wed. as Result of Note in Personal Column of Newspaper.

Partly as a joke and because a friend challenged him to do it James Turk, advertising Oregon pioneer and a prosperous rancher of the Nehalem Valley, whose postoffice address is Mist, Or., two months ago inserted an advertisement in a Portland daily newspaper stating his circumstances and declaring that he wished to correspond with members of the fair sex with a view to matrimony. The advertisement was "blinded"; that is, a box number in the newspaper office was given and the advertiser's identity was not disclosed.

POLICEMEN GET ADVICE

CURFEW GARD ADRESSED BY W. R. GEORGE.

JUNIOR REPUBLIC FOUNDER WARNS PATROLMEN AGAINST 'STOOL-PIGEON' SYSTEM—SIX LECTURES LISTED.

Disregard of parents for the welfare of their children was censured at the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday afternoon by William R. George, founder of the George Junior Republic, in an address to patrolmen recently detailed to special curfew duty. Mr. George arrived early yesterday morning from Tacoma and at noon he was a guest of the directors of the Y. M. C. A. at luncheon. After luncheon he met the patrolmen in the parlors of the building.

CHURCH UNION IS URGED

THIRD AND HAWTHORNE PRESBYTERIAN MAY UNITE.

FIVE MEN ARE INDICTED

Grand Jury Also Returns Two Not True Bills.

CHINESE PUZZLES CHIEF

All Officials but Sloyer Asked to Banquet; 'Min Christian.'

JURY FIXES DEATH BLAME

At Coroner's Inquest Verdict Is Returned on Loss at Hotel Fire.

NEW SKYSCRAPER MAY RISE

Changes Due in Buildings on Sixth and Stark Streets.

NEW SPECIAL FEATURES

OF THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN

What Becomes of the Immigrant?—Every year thousands of these people come to America from Europe to make their homes with us. Just what happens to them in the course of time is ably gone into. Full page, illustrated.

Our Cadets—How military science is taught in the school is made the subject of an important and interesting page; illustrated.

Christy Mathewson—The Giants' star pitcher contributes the sixth of his clever articles on professional baseball. Umpires are taken up, dissected and explained on this page.

Fables in Slang—George Ade keeps up his high standard again this week. The pictures are by Albert Levering.

International Spies—They are a strange lot, are these men who have aroused several European powers recently. A London correspondent supplies an exceedingly interesting half page on the topic.

Leap Year Day—Half a page is devoted to some of the strange and freakish events that February 29 has evolved.

Have Unknown Writers a Chance?—This question, which many a struggling beginner has asked, after getting scores of stories back, is fully answered.

Two complete short stories, illustrated.

The Jump-Ups—They give a coaching party and have another annoying experience.

New Adventures by all the comic supplement people.

MANY OTHER FEATURES

Order Today From Your Newsdealer.

SPACE UNDER SIDEWALKS

Suggestion Made That Rental Is Due the City Therefor.

PORTLAND, Feb. 29.—(To the Editor.)—Some persons are objecting to the city spending $12,000 for bridge lights and $2000 for Greater Portland plans. They claim it deprives outlying districts of needed electric lights. In support, others urge the expenditures will benefit the whole city. Again, it is noticeable that the city is now active in forcing property owners and others out of street corners.

These things are mentioned in order to call attention to a source of revenue neglected by the city for years. Many large property owners use the entire space under sidewalks, exclusively under city control, and pay the city nothing for it, but get large rentals for basements which include this space. If the city received its fair part of the rental incomes for licenses to use ground in streets below sidewalks, there would unquestionably be some additional money to spend on city lights besides helping greatly on taxes. Moreover, there is or should be a large item for use of this ground in the past. Merely, it is right for one class of citizens to derive large benefits from

PRESIDENT GENERAL CONFERENCE, SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS, WHO WILL VISIT PORTLAND.

A. G. Daniels.

A. G. Daniels, president of the general conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, the governing body of the organization, will be in Portland tomorrow, and will speak twice at Women of Woodcraft, at 11 o'clock and at 2 P. M. He is attending union conference sessions throughout the country, and is now on his way to Los Angeles.

He has been in attendance at a conference at Didsbury, Alberta, Canada, 47 miles north of Calgary. He speaks in Vancouver, B. C., last night, will speak at Seattle tonight, and will arrive in Portland at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Many firms purchased large numbers of the buttons for their employees. One firm bought 25 of the buttons in one week. There was much rivalry among the campaigners to see who would sell the largest number. H. D. Carpenter sold 118 and another number sold 107. It is believed that whether Mr. Carpenter holds the record will not be known until today, after the count.

The big campaign day was brought to a fitting close with a mass meeting last night at the Multnomah Hotel. The auditorium at the hotel was crowded with supporters of the City Beautifying plans and they listened with interest to addresses by leading members of the association, including Tom Richardson and C. B. Merrick. The color slides showing the plans in detail were thrown on a screen and were explained by Mr. Merrick. Mr. Richardson explained the benefits of the city beautifying to the future on a specific plan, and not making the mistake which has been made by other cities of building without regard to the future.

V. Vincent Bryan reported the success of the campaign and explained the use which will be made of the money received. It will be devoted to the beautifying of the city, and the public informed as to the progress of the general publicity campaign being carried on by the association. He said that among those who became members of the association by purchasing buttons was William Jennings Bryan.

Soon after he arrived in the city he was approached by an ambitious campaigner, who took his name and address and placed a button on his coat.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

There was some talk of uniting these two churches when Rev. Andrew Mack, minister of the Third Presbyterian Church, accepted the call to the Third Church. It was reported that the consolidation of the two churches into one stone church would be followed by the erection of a $100,000 stone Presbyterian Church east of the present location. But Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church was too loyal to Rev. Nelson Allen, the pastor, to consider the proposition, and publicly declared that it was not a party to any consolidation movement.

Rev. Mack, a detective for the O. W. R. & N. Co. It is alleged that he attacked Mack with a kettle filled with boiling water when the latter sought to arrest him for the alleged theft of wheat from the Albin yards. Other true bills returned were against Charles Rhodes, alias Blondie, charged with a young woman to become an inmate of a disorderly house.

H. E. Eders, charged with the theft of true bills resulted in the cases.

Consolidation of the Third Presbyterian Church and the Hawthorne Park Presbyterian Church, and the erection of a new stone edifice at a new site has been suggested by the pastor of these churches who does not want his identity disclosed.

AD LEADS TO ALTAR

Pioneer Finds Old Acquaintance, Courtship Follows.

AFFAIR STARTS AS JOKE

James Turk, of Mist, and Mrs. Hannah Chapman, of Portland, Wed. as Result of Note in Personal Column of Newspaper.

Partly as a joke and because a friend challenged him to do it James Turk, advertising Oregon pioneer and a prosperous rancher of the Nehalem Valley, whose postoffice address is Mist, Or., two months ago inserted an advertisement in a Portland daily newspaper stating his circumstances and declaring that he wished to correspond with members of the fair sex with a view to matrimony. The advertisement was "blinded"; that is, a box number in the newspaper office was given and the advertiser's identity was not disclosed.

"Just for fun," as she said, Mrs. Hannah Chapman, of 140 Stafford street, a widow of 45, decided to answer the advertisement, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland 19 years ago. While in this city he was for a time a policeman in the employ of the Mount Taylor Street Railroad Company, now a part of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Mr. Chapman had been a widow for 12 years. The acquaintance of the two dates back 12 or 14 years, Mr. Turk said.

There was something in the copy of the marriage license in the County Clerk's office to give the romance away, but a friend of Mr. Turk inadvertently mentioned it in the course of a conversation. Mr. Turk was called over the telephone at the home of his bride on Stafford street, and after some cooing admitted the facts to be as above related.

Mr. Turk is the owner of 500 acres of land near Mist, Or. He went to that district from Portland