Man Who Lost Fortune to "Specialists" Shoots
in Office.

PHYSICIAN WORKED HERE

W. Tuttle Akey, Former Head of Taylor's Institute, Portland, Victim of Murderer Who Uses
Automatic Pistol in Tragedy.

SEATTLE, March 20.—W. Tuttle Akey, a licensed physician and nominal head of an advertising medical office owned by a syndicate that conducts similar offices in all the large cities of the Pacific Coast, was shot and killed today, along with his assistant, Samuel Suskind, by A. A. Anderson, a patient, who then shot and killed himself.

Akey and Suskind were old employees of the syndicate, having worked in offices in other Coast cities. Not much is known of Anderson, who was a miner and logger. When he came to Seattle last October, he brought with him a .38 Smith and Wesson automatic pistol.

Anderson, entering the Akey office with a little .25 caliber automatic pistol, almost concealed in his hand, opened fire on Akey. Dr. W. Suskind, a partner in the medical syndicate and the Japanese office boy fled at the first shot and escaped injury.

Akey was shot three times, in the right eye, in the mouth and just below the heart. Suskind was shot in the head and abdomen. Anderson shot himself once, through the stomach, in the right side, in the chest and in the back. Dr. Akey was an old employee of a wealthy syndicate that owns "medical institutes" in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and other California cities and in Portland, Spokane and Seattle. When the California law went into effect that provided that a medical office must be conducted by a physician, the syndicate adopted the California system in Oregon and Washington also. Akey was then in Portland conducting the "Dr. Taylor Institute." He was transferred to Seattle to conduct the Seattle "Dr. Taylor Institute" under his own name.

Advertisements as Specialists.
Dr. Akey's advertisement contained the following statement:
"I publish my true photograph, correct name and personally conduct my office. I know you will consult a true specialist, who sees and treats his patients personally. I possess skill and experience acquired in the best of other countries and should not be classed with 'medical companies' or 'medical institutes.'"

Such companies or institutes have no license to sell any medicine in Washington or any other state. They are usually advertised with a portrait of a doctor, whose identity or personality, as the case may be, is not a specialist. The income of the office, through substitutes, ordinary doctors with questionable ability, give consultation, examination and treatment."

Notwithstanding this statement, it is said that Dr. Akey had nothing at all to do with the management of the office and received only a small salary for the use of his name and diploma.

Anderson Good Patient.
Entries on the books of the doctors, kept by a system of cards, show that Anderson was evidently considered a good patient. Several notations of "has got money," "keep after him," "won't take" and "wants to rest a while" indicate that the practitioners here appreciated the income that came from their patient. Treatments for Anderson began on October 21, according to the card index. On that day he made a payment of $25.

From that day until February 23 entries of payments were frequently recorded. On the last date named the largest contribution was made of $125. The police authorities believe, however, that many other payments, not recorded, must have been made, as his bank account shows a withdrawal of $500, used by Anderson since he came here.

Four dollars and fifty cents was found on the suicide, the remainder of what to him probably seemed a fortune. The last $10 he used in purchasing a Colt automatic with which he committed the deed.

Anderson Not Talkative.
Anderson was a mild-mannered, quiet man, according to the proprietor of the rooming house where he had lived for the past three months. He seldom talked to any one in the house and some of the men who had been living with him, and for this reason nobody tried to know him.

Anderson was the last man I should have thought would do any shooting," said Mr. Rucker.

What actually took place after Anderson had made his entrance into the office of the practitioners will remain a mystery. Apparently he went after Akey first and shot at Suskind when he attempted to go to his employer's aid. Dr. Akey was shot in the right side of his breast, another bullet entering his mouth and coming out behind his left ear, and the third hitting him in the back, when he evidently had tried to escape from the man. Suskind was also hit three times, one bullet entering his left forearm, one on his right side below the collar bone, and the other hitting him in the right side near the region of the liver. Akey's body was found in the library, for which apartment he ran, and Suskind's was in the operating room.

Suskind Recently Married.
Suskind, Dr. Akey's assistant, had only been in the Seattle office for a short time. He married a young woman and was living with his young 18-year-old wife, a beautiful woman, at the New Washington Hotel. When the news was brought that Dr. Akey had been murdered, Suskind was at the telephone trying to get her husband.

that he knew much about the Anderson case, as he had gone to work for Akey quite a while after Anderson first came to the office.

FOUNDER OF TOWN OF SHERWOOD, OR., IS LAID TO REST.

JAMES C. SMOCK.
SHERWOOD, Or., March 20.—(Special.)—James C. Smock, pioneer, died at his home here on Friday, March 15, and was buried Sunday afternoon under the direction of Sherwood Lodge, I. O. O. F., of which order he had been a member for 40 years. He was born in Nodaway County, Missouri, August 15, 1848, crossed the plains in 1872 and settled near Rex, in the southwest corner of Washington County. When 21 years of age he married Mary Ellen Sebastian, and they had five children, namely, Mrs. Nettie M. Pritch, Mrs. Rosa B. Morbarck, Mrs. Dorra C. Salter, Ira I. Smock and Ray Smock and ten grandchildren.

He was in 1908 that Charles says George killed George Selby, a Dallas farmer. Mrs. Frances Jackson, of Portland, aunt of the Humphry boys, was in Corvallis yesterday and requested Sheriff Hancock to find out if George, who is in the county jail, she did not reveal her identity and her request was refused. While here Mrs. Jackson said that George was the leader of the two and that any trouble Charles was in was due to the influence of the elder brother. She said that Charles is "smart as a whip," but that Charles is not very bright.

Charles' statements of his brother's various crimes were made to Detective Mitchell and L. G. Carpenter of Portland.

Shortly after the Griffith murder the Humphry's asked a Philomath real estate agent to sell their farm, offering it for $500 less than they paid for it. George told the agent that he thought the officers suspected him of the Griffith murder and he was going away quickly and quietly. He said he would leave at once and that Charles could sign the deed.

When the agent told him that both men were grantees in the conveyance to them, George denied it and next day brought in their deed which had not been recorded and in which was partially erased his own name. The agent later secured a new deed from the Humphry's running directly to Charles Humphry.

West Rides With Prisoner.
Governor West was in the same car that brought Charles Humphry to Corvallis and sat opposite Sheriff Hancock and his prisoner, the Governor taking the train at Independence.

The Humphry brothers are of a low order of intelligence, but George, the elder, has a certain cunning that has made him a dangerous man to get away. In the several communities in which he has lived his personality has been colorful and he has been considered a simple, stupid, ignorant, harmless creature.

Eliza Griffith, for whose murder the brothers are held, alone perceived or felt the deadliness of the deed, by the apparent simplicity of the fellow, and had a number of times expressed her fear of him.

George Won't Talk Now.
George Humphry, when arrested and one day after his apprehension, freely admitted that he killed Mrs. Griffith at her home near Philomath, but insisted that he had no accomplice, that his guilt was not known to his brother Charles. He now refuses to discuss the crime.

Charles, with an equal unrestraint, confessed that he had attacked and killed the woman and robbed the house.

George Humphry has been in a sulky mood all day, following his night's attempt at suicide. He has promised his attorneys, George W. Denman and E. E. Wilson, that he will not make further effort to take his own life. The authorities have requested these lawyers to represent the prisoner and they have accepted the respondent responsibility. Denman thought that he had not yet determined the action he and his associate will take.

Mrs. Layton Honkle, living near Philomath, an important witness in the Humphry murder trial, was severely injured this afternoon. She and her husband were driving home from attendance before the grand jury when the team ran away. Mrs. Honkle jumped out of the buggy, breaking her leg and suffering other injuries. The Honkles were near neighbors of Mrs. Griffith.

1911—Attacked and killed Mrs. Eliza Griffith, Philomath, Or.
Charles Humphry, confessed accomplice.

CORVALLIS, Or., March 20.—(Special.)—Confined in separate jails, two brothers, George and Charles Humphry, are awaiting the fate that the machinery of the law may deal them, both being charged with murder. Charles Humphry was brought here today by Sheriff Hancock, of Washington County.

In a second confession today Charles accuses his older brother of slaying his stepfather, William King, near Dayton, Or., about 12 years ago. According to Charles this was George's first crime.

King had quarreled with his wife and left her, going to a cabin on a rented farm. Actuated by a spirit of vengeance and a desire to obtain money he thought his stepfather possessed, George visited the cabin and choked King to death. He secured the money, but was disappointed to find that it amounted only to $5. The neighbors buried the old man, under the belief that his death resulted from natural causes.

Another Murder Attempted.
Charles further says that in August, 1910, George determined to kill one Ole Olson, living in Hayhurst Valley, by choking him to secure some money, less than $100, possessed by Olson. He assaulted Olson, but received a savage beating, and the brothers decided to leave Douglas County. They moved to Benton County, buying a small farm near Philomath.

It was in 1908 that Charles says George killed George Selby, a Dallas farmer. Mrs. Frances Jackson, of Portland, aunt of the Humphry boys, was in Corvallis yesterday and requested Sheriff Hancock to find out if George, who is in the county jail, she did not reveal her identity and her request was refused. While here Mrs. Jackson said that George was the leader of the two and that any trouble Charles was in was due to the influence of the elder brother. the Benton County murderer, and of his brother, Charles, has caused much speculation here as to the probability of the Humphry's being responsible for the strange disappearance of Newton L. Patterson in 1902.

Patterson lived three miles north of this city. The Humphry brothers were his neighbors. The day before his mysterious disappearance Patterson was in Dallas and drew a small sum of money. He left Dallas about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and that was the last ever heard of him, though at the time a rigid investigation was conducted by the authorities.

On the day Patterson disappeared he had come to Dallas intending to receive a considerable amount of money from the Government to cover back pension, the amount being $1800. The money came only after his disappearance, and being a man without family, it reverted back to the Government.

DIMICK ACCEPTS DEFI

OREGON CITY MAYOR WILL DEBATE U'REN ON SINGLE TAX.

As Soon as Tax Roll is Published
Forensic Contest Will Be Heard
Without Personalities.

OREGON CITY, Or., March 20.—(Special.)—Grant B. Dimick, in a letter today to W. E. U'ren, accepts the single taxer's challenge for a joint debate in this city. Mayor Dimick, however, stipulated that the debate must be postponed until a tax roll, which Mr. U'ren mentioned in the debate several days ago at Beaver Creek, is published. He also wants an understanding that all personalities be kept out of the debate and that Mr. U'ren confine himself to the question at issue.

I desire to inform you that I will join you in a debate upon any other place, provided, however, you confine yourself to the question, and do not resort to personalities. I make this provision for the reason that debates of this kind are of little use to the community and an intelligent audience finds little comfort in listening to them.

The alleged facts and figures presented by both the characters in the debate, both being charlatans, are of little value. A few weeks since, after not coming out by recent developments, and being in the city, a misunderstanding, I request that this debate be not held until after the tax roll is published and be voted on in Clackamas County and not in this city. The matter is simple and, as you will see, it is a matter of dollars and cents.

Sincerely hoping that you will cause your tax roll to be immediately published, so that we may have the facts and figures before us in order to present to the citizens a more or less perfunctory nature and his time was limited. Today's visit was arranged to suit the Governor's convenience and his coming has been anxiously awaited in the headquarters of the Oregon Agricultural College.

A military reception was given the Governor by Lieutenant Miller, the commandant of the Oregon Agricultural College cadets. The entire regiment was presented for the Governor's inspection and the student soldiers performed the military maneuver known as the ceremony of the escort of the colors.

Oregon Agricultural College Students Pay Respects to Executive.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, March 20.—(Special.)—Today is Governor West's day at Oregon Agricultural College. This morning and afternoon he is "smart as a whip" and was the speaker at noon convocation. A special programme including musical numbers from the college was heard and arranged by the Governor's convocation and he was received with characteristic student enthusiasm. It has been the desire of local authorities for some time past, to have Governor West address the student body of Oregon Agricultural College but the Governor's previous visits have been a more or less perfunctory nature and his time was limited. Today's visit was arranged to suit the Governor's convenience and his coming has been anxiously awaited in the headquarters of the Oregon Agricultural College.

Conductor Makes Good Farmer.
Mr. Ross, of Probstel, told an interesting story of his life's struggles, which shows that there is far more to be earned on a small farm than working at a good salary for a corporation.

Mr. Ross, who has worked at railroading for 37 years, has decided, at the end of the time he had raised a small family, but he had accumulated but little in the way of property. He decided to try farming and settled on a small tract of 20 acres in Clark County.

When asked the difference between the relative inducement of working on a farm and working for a railroad company, Mr. Ross said:
"There is about a $4000 difference. I worked for 27 years at railroading and did not get ahead any. In five years I have accumulated property worth $4000 and am making a good living."

Prominent Men Speak.
Among others who spoke were: George McCoy, A. E. Pender, of Brush Prairie; A. A. Hay, editor of the Camas Advertiser; M. Hilden, of Vancouver; William Bramhall, of Battle Ground; F. M. Hathaway, chairman of the County Commissioners; J. O. Wing, of Washougal, and Peter Aune, of Yacolt.

CONGRESS DATE NOT SET

Irrigation Meeting at Salt Lake to Be Held in July.

VANCOUVER, Wash., March 20.—(Special.)—H. L. Moody, one of the severest members of the board of governors of the National Irrigation Congress, returned at noon today from Salt Lake City, where he attended the first meeting of the board.

Moody was called to arrange the programme for the coming convention to be held in Salt Lake City this Summer. It has been suggested by the board that while no definite conclusion had been reached, the department is considering the extending of this order so as to include the other states. Sheriff Burns said that now there is as well as other places.

One of the projects to be considered is that of bringing the reclamation service, water users and private irrigators together in a conference to discuss the best method to handle water in the Government projects. The forest service and stock men will discuss matters in relation to pasturing. The question of marketing crops, especially fruits and berries, from irrigated lands will be taken up. Senator Paulhamus, of Puyallup, Wash., has been invited to deliver his lecture on co-operative marketing.

The board of governors, of which Dr. Moody is one, are Dr. W. J. McGee, of the Agriculture Department, of Washington; D. C.; Major Richard W. Young, Mr. Hanchett and Arthur Hooker, of Salt Lake; Douglas White, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Senator Newlands, of Nevada.
