INTO CHARTER

Committee of Nine Unanimously Agree on Point Affecting 1000 City Employes.

AUDIT PLAN IS PROBLEM

Decision Reached to Make Office Elective, With Independent Experting of Books Once or Twice Each Year,

Citi service, as at present adminis-tered and safeguarded, will be incor-porated into the proposed commission harter, now being drafted by a com mittee of nine men, according to a de-cision of those present at last night's

This is one of the big points, concerning which there has been much concern, especially among the more than 1000 employes of the city who are vitally affected. There was not a dissenting vote in the committee. It is regarded by the members that civil is regarded by the members that civil service, with the amendment voted two years ago, is all right; that a worthless years ago, is all right; that a worthless employe can be easily discharged for the good of the service, as a large number of them have been in the past year. There have been no reinstatements of discharged civil service employes since the passage of this provision.

Auditor Problem Goes Over. Much of the time of the committee Much of the time of the committee was consumed last night in earnest discussion as to whether there should be an elective Auditor, who should act as a check on the Mayor and four Commissioners, provided for in the tentative draft now before the members. A tile yets by the six members present tive draft now before the members. A tile vote by the six members present forced acting Mayor Baker to decide for the time this important point. In view of all arguments presented, he voted that it would be better to have an independent audit of all books, in a manner to be determined later.

Suggestions by W. F. Woodward, P. L. Wills and R. W. Montague that the Mayor and Commissioners should name the Auditor, as well as other officers now elective, and that an indefluers now elective, and that an inde-pendent audit of the books be arranged for, struck Mr. Baker as a good idea, but he said later that he is perfectly willing for the whole subject to go to the people for a decision, as other parts of the charter must go.

People to Decide Question "If the people shall decide that they prefer to elect the Auditor or other officers, besides the Mayor and four Commissioners, then I say, let them do so, for they pay the bills," said Mr. Haker. "Of course, that would not be Raker. pure commission government, but it would be what the whole people say they want and would be final."

City Attorney Grant and Deputy City Attorney Benbow were unable to be present last night, and the six regular members who were there were evenly divided on the question of election or appointment of the Auditor. Messrs. Montague, Woodward and Wellis said that they favored appointment of the Auditor, as they felt that an independent Auditor might hamper the work of the Commission and cause serious trouble. Deputy City Auditor Grutze, City Engineer Hurlburt and W. B. Ayer said they could see excellent reasons for having an elective Auditor who sons for having an elective Auditor, who Independent Audit Provided For. The committee finally instructed its ib-committee, of which Mr. Montague is chairman, to draft provisions for an is chairman, to draft provisions for an appointive Auditor, as well as other officers, such as City Attorney, Treasurer and Judge, and a pian for an independent audit of the Commission's books once or twice a year. This might be done by certification of a list of accountants by some first-class organization, such as the clearing-house or by the Circuit Judges, it was suggested. Some felt this would meet the objections of those who are oposed to the appointment of the Auditor and other appointment of the Auditor and other officers.

The sub-committee has instructions to bring in, within 30 days, a tentative draft of the proposed charter, when the Mayor will call the committee together and the work will be completed. The entire committee is agreed that it will submit to the Council for reference to the people all points upon which the members are not agreed, so that the people may decide.

Man Who Assaulted Teacher Who ELKS TAKE ACTION AGAINST FAKE SOLICITORS.

> Publisher of Official Programme Under Contract Not to Solicit Advertising.

So numerous have become promoters of so-called "programmes" for the Elks National convention in Portland next July that members of the Ad Club and of the Elks' reunion commission have found it necessary to send warnings to merchants in Portland and to commercial bodies in various parts of the state who may be solicited for advertising under the pretense that a part or all of the proceeds will accrue to the Elks.

A. A. Schell, chairman of the Ad Club's committee for the elimination of fraudulent advertising, prepared a letter yesterday which he is sending to interested parties in all parts of the state calling attention to the fact that the Elks receive no benefit whatso-ever from any programme, official or otherwise, for which advertising may be sought by solicitors. In making arrangements for the con-vention, the Elks' commission deter-LOWELL, Mass, March 26.—A general strike which leaders asserted would result in at least 5000 more of the 20,000 cotton mill operatives in this city failing to report for work today, was declared by the Industrial Workers of the World last night.

Today 1200 operatives in the Apple ton and Merrimac milt. made whereby the publisher is required to pay the treasurer of the commission $1000 in cash and to deliver to the commission 50,000 copies of the programme. In consideration for this, the publisher will be furnished with the necessary information pertaining to the convention and given the privilege of calling the mublication the "official" are-already had subscribed liberally to the entertainment fund, and it was desired to protect them from further contributions.

It seems, however, that a number of enterprising solicitors have been canvassing the city during the last few weeks representing themselves as agents either of the official programme publisher or of other advertising schemes undertaken for the purpose of exploiting the Elks convention. While the Elks and Ad Club realize while the Eins and Ad Chib realize that they are powerless to prevent anyone from preparing a programme of the convention and soliciting advertising therefor, they believe that many persons will be led into patronizing such schemes under the false impression that by so doing they will be helping the Elks. So persistent have cering the Elks. So persistent have cer-tain solicitors become during the past few weeks that the Retail Merchants' Association recently sent a letter to its members warning them not to adverties in any Elk publication

ATTORNEYS CONTEND BANKING ACT IS LIMITED.

Attempt to Obtain Extradition Papers Bitterly Fought by Lawyers. Hearing Resumed Thursday.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 26,-The court which is hearing extradition pro-ceedings in the case of Bernard F. O'Neil, formerly president of the State Bank of Commerce of Wallace, Idaho, and now under indictment in Idaho on charges growing out of the failure of the bank, listened today to arguments of counsel and adjourned the case until next Thursday, when more witnesses will be heard.

Counsel opposing the taking of O'Neil to Idaho assert that none of the offenses alleged in the extradition papers was an extraditable one. They maintained that the issuing of a They maintained that the issuing of a false report, while an offense under the Canada banking act, is not an offense under the criminal code, and that as no evidence of fraud is required to convict under the act in Canada, proof of the issuing of a false report does not therefore carry with it the evidence of fraud.

They further contended that the Canadian banking act, being the out-

Canadian banking act, being the out-come and a corollary of the Canadian banking system, is limited in its op-erations to Canada, and that the Idaho authorities cannot avail themselves of it to secure extradition for an alleged offense committed outside of the Dominion.

The Idaho authorities maintained that the Canadian banking act was drafted with the obvious intention to cover all cases and on the theory that the greater always includes the less, a charge under it did not relieve the accused of the implication of fraudulent conduct.

County Attorney Wayne, of Shoshone County, Idaho, gave evidence in support of the deposition contained in the extradition papers.

Since coming to Vancouver last Fall G'Neil has entered the lumber business.
