

HUNGARY PAUSES AT ROYAL THREAT

Francis Joseph Would Abdicate if Army Demands Were Ignored.

OFFENDING ISSUE DROPPED

King's Right to Mobilize Reserves Is One of Subjects in Question. Politicians Quickly Abandon Their Stand.

VIENNA, April 1.—A sensation was created here Sunday by the announcement that Emperor Francis Joseph had threatened to abdicate unless his wishes in reference to army reform in Hungary were carried out. There has been an acute crisis in Hungary for three weeks on this question, which involved, among other things, the Emperor's right to call on the reservists when necessary, which it was proposed to abrogate.

Premier Angry Summoned.

The Emperor summoned Count Khuen Hederivary, Hungarian Premier, from Budapest on Friday, and learning that the Prime Minister had failed to reconcile the divergent views held by the members of his Cabinet, said to him:

"You know that I have always observed the constitution. I have been on the throne 64 years, for 46 of which I have been constitutional King of Hungary. I have watched her rise and grow with pleasure. She never had a better friend than I, but now they want to attack my sovereign rights and treat me with distrust. If these resolutions are not abandoned nothing remains for me but to abdicate."

Hungary's Efforts Persistent.

The imperial threat was the result of persistent endeavors on the part of the Hungarians to increase their parliamentary control of the national army. The direct issue concerned the King's rights to mobilize the reserves, which Hungarian politicians contend he can do only when Parliament has granted the recruiting contingent for the current year. This matter is one of the highest importance to the whole empire, as in the event of parliamentary obstruction preventing the passage of the recruiting levy, the King would be unable to call out the reserves as a substitute for the recruits, if the Hungarians' contentions were admitted.

GOVERNOR WEST HONORED

Silver Matchbox Presented to Commemorate "Oregon First" Trip.

In recognition of the persistence with which Governor West, while on the Oregon First trip, refused to obey the urging of L. F. Weaver, of the excursion committee, to put on his tall hat and frock coat for the ceremonial at the site selection for the Oregon building, Mr. and Mrs. Weaver entertained the Governor Saturday and presented him with a silver matchbox in the form of a tall hat. It was engraved "Oregon First, March 14, 1912."

Mr. Weaver constituted himself a censor of styles on the trip to San Francisco and carefully instructed all of the men in the party to wear the formal tall hat and frock coat during the ceremony. His earnest advice was taken to heart by everyone but the Governor, who persisted in wearing the simple derby that had already become a notable feature among the tall hats in the Governor's Special excursion. Other members of the party appeared in full formal afternoon regalia.

Fate, however, dealt harshly with Mr. Weaver himself, for after having "rounded up" the rest of his party he discovered that he had forgotten to take with him the frock coat he had so carefully instructed all of his fellows to wear. He saved the day, for himself, however, by wearing his tall hat and enveloping himself in a long overcoat, leaving those who attended the site-selecting ceremony to infer that the frock coat was worn beneath it.

MONTE CARLO DAYS QUIET

Famous Gambling Place Sets Up Cry of Hard Times.

PARIS, April 1.—A correspondent who has just made a special investigation in the Riviera for the purpose of finding out the truth about some of the lately much-advertised huge winnings at Monte Carlo, has heard on all sides complaints that the season has been one of the worst on record, and the play at the Casino was declared by one of the principals to have been on the most timid scale ever known. As a matter of fact, the signs indicate that the popularity of this resort is already on the wane.

A prominent New York broker began rather early in the season in the partnership check with a San Franciscan, but did badly later, and, owing to trouble with a hotel keeper about a dishonored check for $1000, was imprisoned until some fellow countrymen clubbed together to pay his debts.

Of the smaller losses, there have been plenty. One American woman with an income of $1000 was several times this winter obliged to pawn her jewelry to keep herself alive. Investigations proved that several such losses occurred this season.

PEOPLE'S PROGRAMME FINE

Many Special Features at Popular Playhouses Please Audiences.

The People's Amusement Company presented a strong array of attractions Sunday at each of the houses. "The Girl and Her Trust," a Biograph drama of exciting quality, got a hand at each performance, and deservedly, for it had a thrill in each foot of film. Four other varied subjects, neatly blended, made a pictorial programme of much strength. "That Trio" sang a snappy song, which was encored, and the added attraction, the pretty Gladstone sisters, the Yama Yama lassies, with their neat acrobatic dancing stunts, presented a novelty that struck home and sent the people away well pleased.

Four films at the Star were all features, particularly "Nemesis," a tale of rare vengeance; "A Wolf of the Sea," the story of a little stowaway; "The Social Secretary," a drama of heart interest, and a rip-roaring comedy, "That Terrible African Hunter," a satire on those men who hunt wild animals and get no game, but come back to civilization with wonderfully exaggerated tales of their prowess and bravery, were attractive features. Miss Pauline Randall, a singer and imitator of note, was the added attraction, and offered an unusually neat and attractive number. Her performance, in addition to the regular bill, an illustrated lecture, "Behind the Bars at Sing Sing."

The Oh Joy Theater, the Tivoli and the Crystal offered entirely new and standard bills and exhibited to capacity crowds.

An army of men is working day and night at the new Arcade Theater getting everything ready for the grand opening next Wednesday evening.

BY LEONE CASS BAER.

HOT MOM!

A Bonnie Scotch lassie is Lola Glaser, grown stout since her lovely Dolly Varden days, but unchanged in beauty of voice and radiance of smile. The prima donna opened at the Hellig last night in "Miss Duelsack." Right here is a good place to write in that duelsack is German for baggage. Herr Bergman, having had thrust upon him the care of a Scotch maiden calls her little duelsack because she refuses to be a domesticated haus-frou, but chases over the highlands playing on the Scotch instrument of torture, it's a comedy, fortunately of the American type.

Miss Glaser is delightful as an actress, and her role of the care-free little bagpiper was full of charm. She evidences a highly developed sense of comedy and for that reason her work emanates sincerity. Invariably she turned her scenes to good advantage. As a soloist Miss Glaser has full, clear voice of surpassing melody.

She sings with charm and ease, using her voice with musical intelligence and in a manner that requires no exertion on the part of the listening audience.

In Thomas Richards, a singer who affects the slender sapping style and sings with a good advantage, a Highlander, Miss Glaser has her principal support. Mr. Richards has a remarkably pleasing tenor voice, velvet smooth in its lower register and heard advantageously in both solo and chorus. The other voices were more or less of unimportance, save for one rich baritone, that of David Tarsens, heard only with the chorus, but of enough significance that it stood out from the others.

There is a chorus of pretty girls who sing a great deal and dance very little, a half dozen men who drill and march and sing well; and there is an excellent male chorus, which blends itself together in one act—the last one—and sings, without accompaniment, selections from the old familiar Scotch melodies, beginning with "Annie Laurie" and ending with "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton."

The music is tuneful and in spots is positively stirring. The march of the MacHumber is decidedly martial in quality, besides being of the sort of melody that grips and holds.

Of Miss Glaser's support, mention needs must go to Baldy Strang, for his cheerful contribution as Sandy, the MacHumber piper. His bur-r-r-rs and his dry humor went a long way toward making everybody comfortable. Mathew Hanley gave a good character portrait of Herr Bergman with a natural guttural.

Miss Duelsack is well staged and handsome in its color scheme. Three scenes are shown, all with the atmosphere of the heather and bluebells permeating the air, and the Hellig up to and including Wednesday, with a matinee on that day.

JOHN DAY IN NEW YORK

BAD CHECK MAN LOCATED BY GOTHAM POLICE.

Attempt to Cash Paper Leads to Information—Grave Charges Are Filed at Los Angeles.

John Day, former publicity man and promoter here, circulator of bad checks and charged with marrying a Los Angeles girl for her money and then deserting her, has been located at the Imperial Hotel in New York City. The information, coming to the Portland detectives, has been forwarded to Los Angeles, where the greatest of charges against Day are lodged.

The betrayal of the whereabouts of the much-sought promoter came through an attempt to cash a check at the hotel where he is supposed to be staying. The management telegraphed to the Imperial Hotel, of this city, asking if the check was good, and the information was promptly given to the police.

No warrants against Day are extant here, but he is wanted at The Dalles, and by civil creditors in many places in the Northwest.

CAR UPSETS, WOMAN HURT

Mrs. H. L. Camp Suffers Severe Bruises About the Head.

Mrs. H. L. Camp, wife of H. L. Camp, of the firm of H. L. Camp & Co., architects and builders, was seriously injured about the head and lost several teeth when an automobile in which she was riding with her husband and other members of the family turned turtle last night at East Twelfth street and Hawthorne avenue. Five other members of the party were uninjured, except for bruises.

5 COUPLES ARE YET DIVORCED

Persons Thinking Themselves Freed by Court Are in Error.

DECREES NOT RECORDED

Vancouver Cases Are Dismissed After Granting of Decree When Attorneys for Plaintiff Fail to File Them.

VANCOUVER, Wash., April 1.—(Special.)—Somewhere in the country are five couples, who were married and who now no doubt believe that they are divorced. One woman, at least, has re-married. This state of affairs has been brought about by the negligence of the attorneys to have the decrees of the court properly filed.

Lilly M. Thompson March 2, 1911, brought suit for divorce against William H. Thompson. Though the case was filed and Judge McMaster said that a decree might be entered, it was not. This case was dismissed March 18, 1912.

Adeline Gibson thought she was divorced from Harry C. Gibson, having brought suit against him July 24, 1907. This case was not dismissed from the docket until March 14, 1910. In the meantime Mrs. Gibson, thinking that she was free, married George Hutchingson and she recently brought suit for divorce against him. Then she learned that she had two husbands at the same time. Her explanation was that E. M. Green, her attorney, had secured the decree of divorce for her, and that she received a copy from him. This copy, she said, she took to her father's home, where it was burned when the house was destroyed by fire. E. M. Green has died.

Attorneys in many cases have brought suit, tried the case before the court and have been told that they could take the decree and then have failed to file the decree with the clerk of the court. The plaintiffs, being in court and hearing the Judge say that the decree will be, or may be granted, believe that they are free, and have several times most recently paid the attorney and as a result the decree is not filed.

In one case, J. P. Stapleton, an attorney was paid $15 to begin suit. He filed the complaint, which cost $4, paid the Sheriff's fee of 80 cents, and returned the change, 20 cents, to the plaintiff, expecting to receive his fee when the decree was granted. Permission was given to take the decree, but as the plaintiff did not appear, the decree was not placed on record and it was dismissed.

Others who may think they are divorced, but who are not, are: Mabel Harrell and Everett Harrell; Albert Harrell and Edith Harrell; Eldora H. Daly and James L. Daly. In all of these cases had the attorney placed the decree on file and paid the fee after the judge had signed it, the divorce would have been effective. However, all of the cases have been dismissed and to secure divorces again, new suits must be started. The divorce granted in this case was dismissed April 18, 1911.

WOER BALKS AT ALTAR

LOTHARIO FLEES WHEN GIRL'S FAMILY QUIT JOBS.

French Prairie Man Goes to Tacoma Then to Wed Widow but Police Get Him First.

SALEM, Or., April 1.—(Special.)—Because the father, mother and grandmother of his fiancée, according to his own statements, had decided that there would be no more work except for the wedding was set. Pellerin then bought $150 worth of furniture on instalments, with small payment down, and "planted" it as a portion of household goods. He followed his honeymoon bliss. Then the father of his fiancée, on the day preceding the day of the wedding, announced that as a non-lawyer was coming into the family, his working days were over and that Pellerin from then on could care for the bride—and the entire family.

Before he was married, Pellerin's small payment on the furniture was forgotten and he sold his equity in the furniture and fled to Tacoma. He was arrested there, and also was arrested when Mrs. H. E. Harlow, widow of one of the partners in the firm wherein Pellerin had made his furniture investment, before he could get flight he had told Mrs. Harlow to meet him in Tacoma and that there he would lead her to the altar. Last Thursday he took him to the altar and arrived in the Puget Sound city. But she was greeted with the news that Pellerin had been arrested for peculations in furniture which he had ostensibly purchased for his former fiancée. Pellerin is now in jail here and there are a maiden and a widow bereft of a husband and an installment firm which still seeks its recompense.

DONALD STEWART BURIED

Victim of Highwayman's Bullet Is Laid to Rest Sunday.

The funeral of Donald McCloud Stewart, one of two young men murdered by a highwayman Friday night on the Riverdale road, was held Sunday afternoon from the family residence, 212 East Third street North. Rev. S. Earl DuBois, pastor of the Church of the Strangers, conducted the services. The house, porch and lawn were crowded with friends who went to testify by their presence to the high esteem in which the young man was held. In the gathering outside were representatives from the high schools, Portland Academy, Hill Military Academy and Multnomah Club. The floral tributes filled the room in which the coffin lay.

A quartet composed of Misses Wells and Marks and Messrs. Coey and Bowles sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Abide With Me." In the course of his sermon, Mr. DuBois referred to the high character of the young man and his earnestness in which he was held by his

CATARRH EASILY CONQUERED

Germes Destroyed; Discharge Stopped; Sore Membrane Quickly Healed—Often Restores Hearing.

HYOMEI, a pleasant antiseptic germ-destroying, vaporized air breathed over the entire membrane of the nose and throat and deep into the lungs over the bronchial or air tubes will kill catarrh germs; soothe and heal the sore catarrhal spots and stop the discharge of mucus in a few days.

Sprays, douches, snuffs or ointments won't end catarrh because they are not penetrating enough to get where the germs are.

So surely does HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-mey), clear up the head and penetrate into the innermost recesses of the entire nasal tract that it very often drives out the catarrhal conditions in the tubes that connect the ears with the nose and by so doing restores hearing to persons who believed they were destined to be deaf for life.

If you have catarrh, dear reader, do not forget that HYOMEI is a wonderful remedy for catarrh and is free from cocaine, or any other injurious drug.

A complete outfit, which includes a hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs $1.00. If you already own an inhaler you can get a bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents at pharmacists the world over.

employers and friends. He alluded to the tragedy Friday night, saying that if the young men present at the services would devote their energies toward securing the passage of a law which would prohibit the carrying of weapons thereby lessening the probability of being murdered, the young Stewart would not have been lived in vain. The pallbearers were: Bruce D. Stewart, H. L. Tabb, Orme Dowling, Robert McCurray, Denton Caterlin and Jack Day.

The funeral of George Hastings, the second victim of Friday night's hold-up on Riverdale road, will be held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the First Presbyterian Church. Dr. John H. Boyd will conduct the services. Members of the medical department of the University of Oregon will meet in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church, Twelfth and Alder streets, at 1 P. M. today to attend the funeral.

Donald McCloud Stewart was born in Tacoma nearly 21 years ago. He was the son of Charles Stewart, a pioneer grain and flour dealer.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND

MOTHER SAYS SHE WANTED TO FIND WORK TO DO.

Lacking Means to Support Children, She Asserts She Left to Earn Money in Old Home.

OREGON CITY, Or., April 1.—(Special.)—Mrs. Peter Kurnick, who disappeared from her home at Green Point near this city, last Thursday, leaving her three young children alone in the house, was arrested today at Mount Scott and brought to this city by an officer who recognized her from a picture in The Oregonian last Saturday.

Mrs. Kurnick is charged with deserting her babies, and will have a hearing before County Judge Beattie tomorrow morning.

"I left home because I was desperate, being without funds to provide for my children," sobbed Mrs. Kurnick, when asked the reason for her disappearance. "I wanted to find work," she continued, "and I started for Mount Scott, where I used to live, thinking I could get work there. I have worried so much that I didn't realize that I was leaving my children alone. I have worked here in the mills trying to earn enough money to keep the family, but it has been a hard task."

Mrs. Kurnick denied having seen anything of Andrew Jubian, an accountant whose disappearance at the same time as Mrs. Kurnick led it to be suspected that the two had eloped together. Mrs. Kurnick's husband has been in Seattle, but is expected to arrive here soon. Mrs. Kurnick says she has received no help from her husband.

Electric Census of Portland

In order to secure the necessary statistical information regarding electricity in Portland and vicinity, we have engaged a large number of high school boys, carefully chosen and recommended by their principals, to assist our regular force in making a house-to-house canvass of the entire city.

These young gentlemen will visit your homes and places of business, and we hope the result of their efforts will lead to pointing out methods for the improvement of the service.

It is our aim to give Portland the very best electric service possible, and for that reason a census of the users and present non-users will be of great assistance.

We respectfully solicit your kind cooperation in aiding these young men in their work. Each representative will carry a credential card signed by the Sales Manager of the Company.
