

REVOLUTION HELD TO BE NEAR

John Vert, of Pendleton, Tells of Meeting Rebel Leaders in Mexico.

CAUSE IS BELIEVED JUST

Americans Not Molested and Accounts of Battles Are Declared to Be Exaggerated—New Industry Is Developing Rapidly

Mexico must either undergo another successful revolution or a decided change in administration before it can become settled on a sound, safe and substantial basis of government.

Mr. Vert, who formerly was connected with the First National Bank of Pendleton, and who is a heavy land owner in Umatilla County, traveled for both business and pleasure, and reports that although he passed through some of the territory in which the present revolutionists are most active, he was not once molested and that business conditions generally are little disturbed.

Dispatches Are Exaggerated. The press dispatches of fighting and trouble in Mexico are greatly exaggerated, he said.

It was my fortune to meet personally the three leaders of the revolutionary movement—Generals Orozco, Campa and Salazar. They are highly educated, intelligent and capable gentlemen, who are fighting what they believe to be a just and rightful cause.

Peons Warship Orozco. The opinion seems to prevail among Orozco's followers that he has not been treated fairly by the Madero government.

The Mexican peons warship Orozco and will not be satisfied until his ambition to overthrow Madero is accomplished.

Orozco does not want to be president. His friends are of the opinion that he has no chance for the office.

Maduro's Offer Comes Too Late. I stopped at San Antonio, Tex., where General Gomez is living temporarily.

Mr. Vert crossed the border at Juarez last January, 48 hours before the capture of that city.

At Mexico City Mr. Vert attended a number of bull fights and cock fights, which continue to be national pastimes.

He also visited the mining district of Zapata, as well as Pueblo and the pyramid of Teotihuacan.
