

LA FOLLETTE THOUGHT OUT, SAYS JOHNSON

California Governor Explains Transfer of Allegiance to Roosevelt.

SUPPORTERS' HOPE GONE

"Dreadful Friday Night" at Philadelphia Recalled—After That Friend and Foe Agreed That All Was Over.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 4.—Governor Johnson gave out a statement today explaining the action of the La Follette League of California in transferring its support from Senator La Follette to Colonel Roosevelt and also a summary of the events in the East that led up to that action.

Accompanying the statement were copies of telegrams, including one signed by Gifford Pinchot, Representative Kent of California, Medill McCormick and Ames Pinchot, which give further details of meetings in the East between Walter L. Houser, manager of Senator La Follette's campaign, and "Progressive" leaders, at which times it is said, Roosevelt "was one of the first to urge that in the interest of the progressive movement Senator La Follette should withdraw in favor of Colonel Roosevelt."

La Follette Thought Out of Race.
"It was not until after La Follette's friends had been assured by Mr. Houser that in his opinion Senator La Follette was entirely out of the race and that Roosevelt was the only candidate that could advance the progressive cause that they joined in the movement to secure the nomination and election of Colonel Roosevelt," say the signers.

Telegrams confirming Governor Johnson's statements, from George L. Record, of New Jersey, and John D. Packler, president of the Progressive Republican League of Ohio, are also attached.

In concluding his statement Governor Johnson repeats: "There is no candidacy on my part for the Vice Presidency."
Governor Johnson's statement follows:
"So much misrepresentation has been indulged in concerning the attitude of the progressives of California in this campaign that reluctantly I make this statement of the facts. In doing so, I want to make plain that I shall not permit this contest to be transmuted into a personal controversy, nor shall I again, unless it is imperative demanded to refute falsehood, discuss this matter. I do not attempt in this statement to detail all that might be presented, but the relation of which I only corroborate what is here set forth."

Fight Given Up by Henry.
"I left California for the East January 28. In Chicago I was met by Francis J. Heney, perhaps one of the closest and most intimate friends of Senator La Follette. Mr. Heney, with regret, in detail explained to me the political situation. He stated that La Follette was not favorably known throughout the East; that a misapprehension existed there in regard to his work and character, and that La Follette and all of his leading supporters had agreed at the time he became a candidate that he should make a vigorous and extended speaking campaign; that a personal campaign was absolutely essential to get the progressive principles before the people; that La Follette had agreed to such a campaign as early as the first week of October, and to continue it vigorously until the date of the Chicago convention; that instead of doing this La Follette had put in his entire time getting out an autobiography and that in consequence thereof his candidacy had lost its vitality."

Philadelphia Speech Last Straw.
"In New York I met in conference repeatedly the most prominent progressives of the Nation, men like Gifford Pinchot, George L. Record, Medill McCormick, Gilson Gardner and others, all of whom were actuated by one purpose, the success of the great cause. They felt keenly that the candidacy they had espoused had not progressed as they had hoped. Then came the dreadful Friday night at Philadelphia, when La Follette spoke to the periodical publishers, and there were present representatives of the principal newspaper periodicals of the country, after that speech it was taken by friend and foe alike that his candidacy could not continue."
"The meetings subsequently held, with which, of course, Senator La Follette was familiar, are detailed in the subjoined statement, and the attitude of those who represented him, presumably with his knowledge and consent, is set forth in the statement appended by Gifford Pinchot, Ames Pinchot, William Kent and Medill McCormick. From the statement it appears that Houser, representing La Follette, said that he had the intention of ending at an end, and that the advocates of La Follette should follow the leader who could best advance the progressive cause. It is manifestly the purpose that the man who is still the campaign manager of La Follette acted without the knowledge of La Follette himself.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—President Taft submitted to Congress today a message in which he made strong recommendations bearing upon greater efficiency and economy in the methods used in transacting the public business of the various executive departments and other governmental establishments. He approves the changes recommended by the commission appointed to study the question and continues: "I have several times called attention to the advantages to be derived from placing in the classified service the local officers under the Department of the Treasury, of the Postoffice, of Justice, of the Interior, and of Commerce and Labor. In my message submitted to the Congress on January 17, I referred to the loss occasioned to the Government because of the fact that in many cases two persons are paid for doing the work that easily could be done by one."

Salary Expenditure Too Large.
The President says the loss on this account had been shown to amount to $10,000,000 annually. "For example," he adds, "it appears that a very substantial economy would result from putting experienced and trained officers in charge of the first and second-class postoffices, instead of selecting the postmasters in accordance with the present practice."

"As the annual operating expense of the first and second-class offices aggregate the enormous sum of more than $20,000,000, undoubtedly if the Postmasters of these offices were embraced in the classified service, the annual savings would eventually represent many millions of dollars. The saving in salaries alone, not taking into account any savings due to increased efficiency of operation, would amount to about $4,500,000. In the case of Postmasters at offices of the third class a large annual saving could be made."

The message said nearly $2,000,000 could be saved annually by placing the pension agents in the classified service.

"Greater economy and efficiency would result from the abolition of the pension agents in the classified service, and from the adoption of a plan in accordance with which pensions would be paid by the pension office in Washington."

The message said that the field service of the greater land office "could be more efficiently and economically operated if it were provided by law that the office of receiver of district land offices be abolished and the duties transferred to the register, assisted by a bonded clerk, and the register placed in the classified service."

It has been estimated that the adoption of this plan would cause an annual saving of $200,000.

Greater Civil Service Proposed.
A direct saving in salaries and an indirect economy through increased efficiency would follow the transfer of the internal revenue and customs officers, now political appointees, to the classified service, the President says, and continues:

"It would be desirable also to place all marshals, deputy marshals and assistant attorneys in the classified service, although but little direct economy would result therefrom. Inspectors in the steamboat inspection service and the members of the field service in the Bureau of Fisheries should be placed in the classified service."

The message says the commission, after a detailed investigation, concluded that all the duties now being performed by the revenue cutter service can be performed with equal efficiency by other services, and that a great economy will result by having these classes so performed.

Referring to "travel expenditures" of Government officers and employees, the commission reported that all allowances in the classified service should be discontinued, and that the actual cost of transportation be paid: that in lieu of payment of actual cost of other expenses commonly known as subsistence, which would include lodging, a scale of per diem allowances be established by the President for the
