EX-SERGEANT COLE'S ACTIONS CLOSELY WATCHED.

Manse Is Dedicated.—The new twostory manse erected by the First English Evangelical Church, at the corner of East Sixth and East Market streets, was formerly opened and dedicated Tuesday night by the pastor, Rev. F. B. Culver, and the congregation. Talks were made by Rev. Mr.
Culver, Albert Bittner, Edwin Thayer.
A. J. Windnagle, D. E. Johnson, X. O.
Barker, Mrs. H. E. Hornschuch, Mrs.
L. D. Johnson and Miss Huida Siewert.
The building is a two-story seven-room residence, and was erected at a cost of $1950, but much of the work was donated, as well as some of the material. It could not be duplicated for much under $3000 in the opinion of builders. It satioins the church which was built last year.

Patronman Halts Runawat.—An ac-Rushlight Declares Officer Was Transferred So Probe Could Be Applied to Infamous Houses.

That Mayor Rushlight personally visited the police station on numerous occasions to determine for himself, as occasions to determine for himself, as far as possible just what grafting was going on, was his statement yesterday to the jury in Judge Morrow's department of the Circuit Court, which is trying E. W. Cole, former police sergeant, for grafting from a woman of the underworld named Alife Bell.

The Mayor testified that ex-Sergeant Cole was transferred to the East Side to give the Mayor an opportunity to apply the probe among the houses from which he heard Cole was accepting graft.

from which he heard Cole was accepting graft.

"After a certain amount of work I was satisfied in my own mind that Cole was in on the general grafting." said the Mayor. "While I was gathering this evidence, Cole came to the office one day to give me a statement of conditions in the South End. I didn't expect the evidence I then had to be made public until I had enough evidence, and then I expected to present it to the grand jury."

builders. It adjoins the church which was built last year.

Patrolman Halts Runawal.—An accident that might have resulted fatally was averted yesterday by Patrolman Rablor when he stopped a runaway team at the brink of a gulch toward which it was speeding with wagon and driver. About $130 o'clock the runaway started north on Union avenue from Madison street. Although the driver was making desperate efforts to control them, he was unable to do so, and it appeared certain that they would dash into the gulch. At the edge of the gulch, Rabior jumped in front of the team, and succeeded in checking their progress by throwing one of the horses. His hand was slightly cut and his arm was severely wrenched. The team belonged to Joe Gattucelo.

W. C. T. U. Work Appractation—Mrs. E. Dalgleish, state superintendent of work among soldlers and sallors, spoke at Central Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday. She spoke of the work carried on for the sallors and of a plan to make 800 comfort bags for the marines on the battleship Oregon and of the appreciation felt by these men for help extended to them by the W. C. T. U. She told of the evil of the Army canteen when heer is furnished of the efforts now being made to restore it and quoted from Colonel Mott and General Fred Grant in opposition to its return. Mrs. Wilson, from Kansas City, Kan., told of the strict enforcement of the-prohibition law and its beneficial effects.

The Mayor then told of Cole's removal from the department, saying the immediate reason was that he went over Chief Cox' head in asking Mayor Rushlight to return him to the West

E. S. J. McAllister, attorney for Cole, started to read a list of 140 disorderly houses in Portland, which he said are open and unmolested at the present time, when he was cut short by objection of the District Attorney. "The state has made much of its outerable state has made much of its estantible desire to enforce the law," said Mr. McAllister. "I want to show that as to these places the law is not being enforced, which tends to show Cole's prosecution is for political reasons." Florence Jacobs, a woman of the un-derworld, said she presented Cole with two sofs pillows, artistically worked.
