

HOME RULE TO BE INTRODUCED TODAY

British Cabinet Puts Finishing Touches on Bill for Irish Government.

CHANGES MAY BE URGED

Control of Excise and Customs by Imperial Parliament to Be Fought by Nationalists--Bitter Argument Foreseen.

LONDON, April 10.—The members of the British Cabinet put the finishing touches today to the home rule bill which Premier Asquith is to introduce in the House of Commons tomorrow.

The members of the government and the few Nationalist members who have been taken into the confidence have been taken into the confidence have been taken into the confidence...

The measure is expected to follow closely that which was proposed by William E. Gladstone. Until quite recently the Nationalists have shown no opposition to the suggestion that the Irish excise and customs should remain under the control of the Imperial Parliament...

American Tariff Agreement Plan. One reason advanced for this is that Ireland desired to make a tariff agreement with the United States. Among many forecasts, that which suggests that the Imperial government retain control of the customs and excise of Ireland for a certain number of years, after which it should pass to the Irish Parliament, is accepted generally.

While the interest in Premier Asquith's speech does not compare in any way with that aroused by the late Mr. Gladstone's efforts, there will be a full attendance of members and the House galleries will be filled to capacity.

Bishops May Be. A big conference has come over from Ireland including several bishops who will be seated in the distinguished strangers' gallery if the Irish members are successful in the ballot for seats in which members take part.

With the exception of two members who are now in Australia the Nationalists will be present in full force. At the conclusion of the speeches of the Liberal and Unionist leaders tomorrow, the debate will be adjourned until Monday and the division of the bill will be held on Tuesday.

MANY INDORSE MICKLE

Forest Grove Man Favored for Dairy and Food Commissioner.

A committee consisting of representatives of the state organizations of farmers, dairymen and consumers have come out with a voluntary indorsement of J. D. Mickle for the office of Dairy and Food Commissioner.

The text of the letter favoring Mr. Mickle's candidacy follows: Casting aside every political or selfish reason, it is imperative that a man be nominated and elected to the office of State Dairy and Food Commissioner who will make the office mean what it should to the people of this state.

After canvassing all candidates, we find ourselves in a position to recommend one. The record of J. D. Mickle is such that we are confident if he is elected to the office of Dairy and Food Commissioner, he will honestly and impartially serve the interests of the whole people—producers, consumers and distributors.

We believe he will see by practical methods to advance the dairy industry in this state along progressive lines. We believe he will see by practical methods to advance the dairy industry in this state along progressive lines.

Mr. Mickle is a practical dairyman at Forest Grove. Last year his cows averaged for him $128 a head. He has tried the best pure milk laws in the state. He has raised our diseased animals and makes his herd more profitable as well as insuring the milk will be produced in a safe and clean manner.

He is not a theorist, but a practical example of the method and policies that, applied to the office of Dairy and Food Commissioner, will produce greater service to the people of Oregon than ever before.

Operators Desire Peace. Mr. White said the anthracite miners, considering the hazard and importance of the work, were the poorest paid laborers in America.

Mr. Baer said no one desired peace more than the anthracite operators. "All of us, I think," he said, "are big-hearted enough to desire to give to our working people the highest wages possible under sound economic laws."

Visiting the mill of the Pitchless Lumber Company in the forenoon, Mr. Evans had not intended to give a speech, but the owners of the mill suggested that he take the opportunity of addressing the 300 men in their employ, and the mill was closed for about 20 minutes while the man gathered about him and listened to what he had to say.

ROMANCE TOLD AT GRAVE

Young Woman Tells of Engagement to Youth Buried Monday.

CENTRALIA, Wash., April 10.—(Special).—A romance was unburied at the funeral of Albert N. Bannister, in Portland, Monday, the Centralia boy who was a member of the Marine Corps and who was drowned in that city Friday. A young woman in mourning was noticed by Centralia relatives at the services and later at the cemetery, form who "kiss" had been sounded, and the body of the young marine lowered to its final resting place, the young woman was questioned as to her identity. She refused to give her name, but stated that she was engaged to be married to the deceased youth. She said she was 17 years of age and would fall her $5000 on her 18th birthday, on which date she and young Bannister had planned to be married. She left the cemetery hurriedly after talking to the relatives, and all efforts of Mrs. J. S. Roberts, the young man's mother, to find her Monday night, proved unavailing.

FROM THE CITY TO THE SANDY

Our only problem is to have you know the Powell Valley as we do. We are running against this problem every hour of the day. Scores of office callers make statements like the following:

"Your advertisement attracts, I know your firm is reliable and that the large number of sales at Pleasant Home shows that your land appeals, but I dislike to buy land or lots that I cannot see for myself or have some friend examine for me, and I can't get away during the week."

We know our new townsite, Pleasant Home offers opportunities in business and home sites far out of the ordinary, that the prices lots are sold for are far below those they will be held for in the near future; that stores and homes are being planned for; that Pleasant Home will be one of the best towns close to Portland.

We know that the acreage surrounding the town has soil equal to the best and superior to most the soil around Portland; that it will profitably grow fruits, berries, vegetables so profitably that the small tract owner can either continue in his present employment, materially cut down his living expenses, secure independence or, devoting all his time to his land, enjoy a paying business.

These are solid, undeniable and cold-blooded facts. If you are looking for a lot in a new town or for acreage for a home or farm, in a district where all conditions are favorable, take a trip Sunday. Judge for yourself.

Special Train Sunday, April 14

NEW LINE IS ASSURED Steel Rails for Terminal Road Reach Marshfield.

MARSHFIELD, Or., April 10.—(Special).—That actual work on the construction of the Terminal Railroad is to begin this Spring was made certain by the arrival of steel rails. The Terminal company is a corporation formed by the C. A. Smith Lumber & Manufacturing Company, the Simpson Lumber Company and J. W. Bennett and W. S. Chandler, bankers.

The City Council of Marshfield has granted to the company a franchise for building a terminal on the waterfront over which steam trains can run and over which all roads coming into Coos Bay are to be allowed to run. The franchise also allows the construction and maintenance of an electric line on other streets. A franchise in North Bend has also been applied for, but cannot be granted until a special election is held this Spring to amend the charter of the city.

It is stated that the Terminal company expects to complete this Summer that part of the road from the C. A. Smith mill to the north boundary of Marshfield. The arrival of the rails created an assurance of work starting soon on the construction of the road.

W. D. Fenton, attorney for the Southern Pacific Company, will be the principal speaker at the regular weekly luncheon of the Portland Transportation Club at the Imperial Hotel today. H. E. Vernon, general agent for the Santa Fe lines, will be the chairman. For the last six weeks the club has been meeting in the big private dining-room at the Imperial, but attendance has grown so that the main dining-room may be used in the future. Preparations are being made for a smoker on the evening of April 19, when election returns will be read.

Leaders Much Disappointed.

The Chicago women, who had hoped that Illinois would be the next state to grant women the right of the ballot, are keenly disappointed at the result and ascribe it to the influence of the Roosevelt forces. The Colonel has on numerous occasions said from the rostrum that if he favored suffrage at all he was only "tepid."

He was asked to aid the cause in California last Summer and on the occasion of his visit here when he was giving the series of Earle lectures at the Greek Theater in Berkeley. At that time the fate of suffrage was in the balance and things looked blue for the brave women who were battling in the face of many odds and numerous disappointments.

Aid to Cause Refused. They felt that if Roosevelt would help the cause, if only incidentally, they would win, for his glory had not been dimmed by the corrosion of a third-term ambition.

No, he said, he would not speak for suffrage, for he was only tepidly in favor of it.

San Francisco women who had followed the suffrage cause in Illinois are today bitter in their denunciation of the man who brought about defeat with his own victory.

WOMEN NOT DISCOURAGED

Agitation to Be Kept Up, Notwithstanding Chicago Vote.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Promoters of the woman suffrage movement in Chicago, who hoped at yesterday's primaries to prove that the men voters of this city were in favor of votes for women, began to consider tonight what the prospects were in the future.

It was discovered that not a single ward in the city voted in favor of the movement.

"Suffrage has received a setback so far as any immediate prospects of getting it in Chicago are concerned," was the general opinion of voters, but the women were more hopeful, declaring it their intention to keep up the agitation. The vote of 125,410 against the proposition to let women vote and 71,254 in favor of it was regarded as significant.

In the University of Chicago districts, the suffragists broke almost even, but in some other places, the vote against them broke 2 to 1. In the ward which embraces Hull House, of which Miss Jane Addams, a leader of the suffragists, is the head resident, the vote was 245 against, 112 for.
