COUNTY TO STOP LEAKS

Orders to Sell Property Must Be Signed by Court.

Tomorrow afternoon, at the Heilig Theater, the last concert to be given this season by the Portland Symphony Orchestra will take place, under the direction of M. Christensen. Musicians forming this orchestra, managed on the principles of co-operation, with all profits or losses assumed by them individually, look on tomorrow's concert as being one of the most important they ever gave, and they hope for a large attendance. They have just demonstrated the great educational advantages of the orchestra in Portland, in such effective fashion and shown conclusively that the need for symphony music exists here to educate the younger generation, that several well-known citizens have guaranteed the sum of $3000 to pay the expenses of next sesson's symphony concerts, with the understanding that all money received from the sale of admission tickets shall be applied to pay the salaries of musicians. Owing to troubles which recently have arison as a result of the sale by county employes of county property without written authorization of the without written authorization of the County Court, a new system requiring requisitions to sell as well as to purchase has been adopted by County Auditor Martin. Hereafter a hlank form authorizing sales must be filled in by the County Commissioners and County Judge and approved by the County Auditor, and this must be prosented to Treasurer Lewis when the money is turned in. Duplicates will be kept in the Auditor's office.

County road supervisors have been in the habit of making sales of rock from the quarries on their own initiative or on verbal orders from the

from the quarries on their own initia-tive or on verbal orders from the County Court, and the only records which the county has of the transac-tions are contained in the monthly statements of the supervisors. Much junk from the old courthouse was sold in a similar manner, the money being turned in to the County Treasurer in diffilets.

The County Court also has been forced to take the statements of employes as to the sums they received. Under the new system the prices will be fixed by the court.

Gentlemen:—I enclose herewith check for three hundred and eleven dollars

Siskiyou street, this city.
You may recall that when I went to you first I asked you to advise what system of heating you would recommend. You strongly recommended a hot-air furnace, if properly piped, as against any other system. It gives me picasure now to say it has given entire satisfaction, both as to distribution of heat and as to economy. There are 12 registers in the building.
The first cost of heating equipment, while not the most important consideration in the selection of equipment, is nevertheless important. The furnace and system you have installed for me cost less than half what either a steam or hot-water system, or the so-called vacuum system would cost. I would not change if the relative cost of the different systems were changed.
Yours very truly.
