"Boys Flying Kites Haul in Their White-Winged Birds But You Cannot Do That When You Are Flying Words"

We learned this in school, and long years of experience have impressed it so deeply upon us that we have applied it to our advertisements. Every word is carefully weighed. Our ads are simple statements of things as they are. When our adman's words fly through the medium of this paper to hundreds of thousands of readers—they are true and we would not haul them in if we could. Therefore we insist upon honest advertising, and back up our advertising with honorable business methods and reliable merchandise.
