Case of ex-Missionary to India Complicated by New Development.

FRAUD TRIAL POSTPONED

Man Accused of Embezzlement of $100,000 From Estate of Second Wife Now Said to Have Other Spouse With No Divorce.

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—The case spainst Goodham Tufts, Jr., alleged syschic and former missionary in India, charged with having embezzied $100.—

charged with having embezzled $100,000 of the $1,000,000 estate of his wife, who formerly was the widow of A. R.
Hoe, of Fort Worth, Tex., was further complicated today by the arrival here of a woman who asserted she was the man's first wife.

The woman said she had lived in India with Tufts and had suffered illtreatment at his hands. She said her primary purpose th coming to Los Angeles was to try to recover the possession of her two sons, from whom she had been separated six years ago, when they were 4 and 8 years old, respectively.

spectively.

She told the authorities that Tufts deserted her in Liverpool, leaving her penniless. She declared that Tufts had obtained a divorce from her in Illinois but that she had recently succeeded in having the decree set aside on the ground that he had perjured himself.

Tufts was to have pleaded today on charges of having obtained money under false pretenses, preferred by perder false pretenses, preferred by per-sons whom he was alleged to have in-terested in a religious cult he founded. but as his attorney was not ready the case was postponed a week.

gregationalists. Life Work Begun at 40. Miss Barton was 49 years old when first she turned her attention to the great works of humanity which have made her name famous. The Red Cross was established in America in 1881 and Miss Barton was its president from that date until 1904. Before that time she had made a name for herself by her services on battlefields, begin-ning in the Civil War and extending through the Franco-Prussian War. Con-gress recognized her good offices in the first case by an appropriation of $15,000 to be disbursed by her in search for missing men after the various bat-les of the war. Miss Barton's work became more ex-tended with the organization of the American Red Cross and covered the American Red Cross and covered the new field of catastrophes in time of peace. She distributed relief to the sufferers from the Johnstown flood and went to Russia in 1892 to carry food to the famine sufferers there. In the fol-lowing year she was ministering to the destitute survivors of the tidal wave which struck South Carolina and Florida.

Work Covers Many Fields. In 1836 she was siding the Armenian families decimated by the Turks, and when yellow fever appeared among the American troops in Cuba, following the battles around Santiago, it was DYING CASHIER CONFESSES

Red Cross Founder's Death.

ONFORD, Mass., April 12.—(Special.)—In the last years of her life Miss Barton was wrapped up in a new undertaking which she regarded as of far greater moment even than her accomplishment in convincing the Government of the great need and value of the Red Cross. Her neighbors in this place, her former home, knew of her work in inaugurating a movement to equip every railroad in the United States with cars equipped for the aid of persons injured in train wrecks. This movement, which she inaugurated in 1995, when she was 84 years old, had made great headway when she died.

Mann Denounces Scandal,

He shook his elenched fists at the Democratic side as he added: "They have not disclosed any scandal so great as that of a committee of the House retaining within its scope a person who solicits and receives money to use his or her influence in forcing legislation through for the benefit of clients."

Mr. Mann demanded that Mrs. Gray be summarily shut out of the committee and the bureau of Indian affairs.

Representative Hill, of Connecticut, a Republican, protested against the appropriation of any money for a further inquiry into Indian affairs. He denounced the proposed trip to New Mexico as a forerunner of others, "until 100 or 150 subcommittees of investigation are swaggering around the country training their olfactory sense in trying to smell out something to investigate."
