WORKERS IGNORE I. W. W.

Mill Employees Refuse to Leave Jobs in Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 19.—So far as can be learned, there was no response today to the "proclamation" of the Industrial Workers of the World calling on the employees of the lumber industry in Washington to strike today. The collapse of the strike on Grays Harbor and the failure of the attempt to tie up a big Tacoma mill have injured the prestige of the Industrial Workers among the millworkers.

COLONEL ASSAILS KANSAS MEMBER

Campbell's "Bleacher" Speech Is Roosevelt's Text as He Crosses State.

PEOPLE CALLED MASTERS

Candidate Appeals for Support on Ground That His Cause Is of Vital Concern to Future of Whole Nation.

WICHITA, Kan., April 19.—Kansas welcomed Colonel Roosevelt today. All the way across the state he was met by demonstrative crowds. "I feel at home here with you Kansans," said he. "I think we are going to carry Kansas and Nebraska, too."

In his speeches through the state and tonight in Wichita, Colonel Roosevelt appealed for support on the ground that the cause which he represented was of vital concern to the future of the country. He said that if Kansas had a direct Presidential primary it would "make things hum."

Bleacher Speech Assailed. The Colonel repeatedly assailed Representative Campbell of this state. He said Mr. Campbell had argued that the people were not fit to manage their own affairs, and that if they did not agree with him they should vote against his theory.

"I want to take issue," he said, "with one of your fellow Kansans—Congressman Campbell. The other day in a speech in New Hampshire, he announced, in connection with a proposal of mine for dealing with the judiciary, that he did not sanction an appeal to the bleachers."

People Also in Game. "I asserted that where the public servant acts as he ought not to act, we should be able to take an appeal from the public servant to the people, who are his masters. And Mr. Campbell said that was taking an appeal from the umpire to the bleachers."

"In other words, Mr. Campbell felt that the attitude of the people in reference to politics ought to be that they sit on the bleachers and paid the price of admission, but had nothing to do with the game."

"Now, if you accept that as an accurate description of you, vote on Mr. Campbell's side. You are entitled to say that he drew your portrait correctly if you want to; but if you do not, then see that Kansas records herself overwhelmingly against the theory for which Mr. Campbell stands."

8 INSTRUCTED FOR T. R.

ILLINOIS DELEGATES-AT-LARGE NAMED FOR COLONEL.

Convention Cheers Mention of Both Taft and Roosevelt—President's Forces Don't Oppose State.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 19.—Eight delegates-at-large to the National Republican convention instructed for Roosevelt were unanimously chosen by the convention as follows:

Governor Densen, Chicago. Roy O. West, Chicago. H. A. Eckhart, Chicago. Colonel Chauncey Dewey, Chicago. L. Y. Sherman, Springfield. R. D. Clark, Peoria. L. L. Emmerson, Mount Vernon. Walter A. Rosenfeld, Rock Island. The Taft adherents did not oppose the slate.

Cheers greeted the names of both Taft and Roosevelt when they were mentioned by Chairman Doyle as he called the Illinois Republican convention to order today.

Chairman Doyle announced the appointment of the various committees. When the committee retired, a motion to adjourn for an hour was voted down.

The committee on credentials reported no contests and the sitting delegates were declared the regular delegates of the convention. Charles S. Densen urged party harmony and predicted victory for the Republican ticket in November.

took possession of a push car used at the sawmill near the town and were riding down grade on the mill's stub track when they ran onto a trestle. They struck a dog on the track and the car was pitched down to the ground a distance of 55 feet, with the result that a boy named Hansen had one arm broken in two places and his brother had his arm broken once. Another boy had his ankle broken. The dog was killed.

WHERE THE BLAME LIES

An Opinion: Better One Happy Child Than Six Failures.

A Mother in the Woman's Home Commission.

I have always felt that I could never be truly happy with less than six children. Nor has my feeling changed. Still, I am the mother of one boy. His father adores him, but he would adore a dozen no less. No old-time father worked harder or sacrificed more for his 10 children than he for the one child. We are giving up the few luxuries we had before he came, paying more rent than we can justify affording, that he may have plenty of light, and air, and sunshine. Give the average middle-class salaried man of New York the offspring of his grandfather, and he must needs dwell in an East Side tenement and breed a stekly, pallid race.

I have five brothers and sisters; there were also four who died in infancy. My husband spends more in a year than my father spent in two, and yet it will be by straining every nerve that we will educate our boy as well as father educated six of us.

My son's father is rather more domestic than was my father. He is home-loving, hard-working, optimistic, child-loving. He is not an exceptional father. Among our acquaintances are a dozen young married people whose cases are similar. We go to the theater about every other month; we entertain a friend at dinner, and are entertained in return; we take trolley rides and go on top of the bus—such is the extent of our social life. The taxi-riding, restaurant-frequenting, butterfly wife undoubtedly exists; I have met her; but she is only the froth on the sea of luxury, and the life led by the majority of New Yorkers.

Apartment life and hotel life is no more a demand of the American man and woman than is the children's life. We hate them, we dwellers therein; but we can't escape. We are too proud to ask for pity, but please don't blame us. Don't ask if our husbands are failures—poor dears—nor censure us poor penny-pinching wives. Why not ask, "Is America a failure?"

How Montana Vigilantes Dealt Out Quick Justice.

Langford's "Vigilante Days and Ways." A certain George Shears, a member of the notorious Harry Plummer gang of outlaws, had been apprehended on charges of murder and horse-stealing. He surrendered without resistance and fervently. The taxi-riding, restaurant-frequenting, butterfly wife undoubtedly exists; I have met her; but she is only the froth on the sea of luxury, and the life led by the majority of New Yorkers.

"I knew," he said, "I should have to come to this some time, but I thought I could run another season."

"There is no help for you, George," said Pitt. "You must suffer the same fate as your companions in crime."

"I suppose I should be satisfied," replied the ruffian, "that it is no worse."

He was conducted to the barn, where a rope being cast over a beam, he was requested, in order to save the trouble of procuring a drop, to ascend the ladder. He complied without the least reluctance. After the preparations were completed he said to his captors: "Gentlemen, I am not used to this business, never having been hung before. Shall I jump off or slide off?"

"Jump off of course," was the reply.

"All right," he exclaimed, "Good-bye!"
