ELECTRIC PRANCHISE PUNDING.—The relinance granting the Southern Pacific Railway a franchise for changing the present steam line through the town of Milwaukie on what is called the Beaverton cut-off into an electric railway, is pending before the Council of that place, and will come up for final passage at the next regular meeting. There is no opposition to the passage of the ordinance so far and it is considered probable that it will receive favorable consideration. Mayor Streib said yesterday that he had been informed that the company wants this franchise so it may electrify that branch of its system. He was not informed how soon the company will branch of its system. He was not informed how soon the company will change to electricity. Mayor Streib also said that no special election will be held, but the $5000 bond lasue for sewerage will be settled at the regular election in November.

COMPANT TO USE POWER DIGGER.—
The Consolidated Contract Company, which is building the Stark-street sewer, is preparing to use a big steam digger in excavating for the trench from East Seventh street eastward. A steam digger has been placed at this point to start work. The company is working from the foot of East Stark street. Car tracks on many streets make the work slow and complicated. The sewer will be built under the railroads within two weeks, after which more speed can be made. Enough material will be taken from the sewer trench to fill up the remaining vacant blocks on either side of East Stark street.

NATEON SERVICE ON SOON.—Service between Springfield and Oak Ridge on the new Natron cut-off of the Southern Pacific will be inaugurated at once, arrangements having been completed by John M. Scott, general passenger agent. A mixed freight and passenger train will be operated each way every day. The distance between the two points is 35 miles. Oak Ridge is the southernmost point on the new track being built south from Natron which eventually will connect with the line being built north from Klamath. When these two lines join they will form the new main line between Portland and San Francisco.

New Bills Open at the Vaudeville Houses

HERE is not a dull act in this week's show at the Empress. From the moment the curtain goes up on the Royal Zanetto troupe of jugglers until it goes down on Fred Karno's company in a burlesque of a London music hall, there is excellent entertainment. The Royal Zanetto aggregation gives some amazing feats of juggling with knives, balls and torchea. Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Reynolds offer an amusing skit in which married life and the suffragette movement are wittily satirized. Mr. Reynolds seems to have the better of it but now and then Mrs. Reynolds gets in a verbal uppercut that keeps the family balance true. Their songs are as clever as their banter.

A thorough-going laugh-raiser is the skit "At the Reception" given by J. Hunter Wilson and Effice Pearson, a couple who know what fun is. Their banter is bright and witty and their songs are no less so. A mock telephone conversation is one of the cleverest things they do. Their dances are also pleasing. Seima Walters and Herbert Frank are others who know how to amuse with their skit "A Woman's Way." Mr. Barrington has become very tired of his wife's honeymon exuberance. After two years he wishes she had more fire and spunk

PORTLAND WOMAN WILL SING TONIGHT AT WHITE TEM-PLE AT 8:30 O'CLOCK.

Mrs. Kathleen Lawler Belcher. Mrs. Kathleen Lawler Belcher.
Of all the Portland singers who have reached home after a vocal study in Europe, there is more curiosity than is ordinarily expressed—and also kindly interest—in Mrs. Kathleen Lawler Belcher, who is to give her first concert in recent years at the White Temple tonight at $::30 o'clock. For nearly two years abe has coached in vocal study with Jean de Reszke, of Paris, a maestro conceded to be the foremost teacher of artistic singing and repertoire in the world, and and repertoire in the world, and she is to proceed in the early Fall to Europe, where she hopes Pall to Europe, where she hopes to sing in grand opera in the French provinces. Hall." The rear of the stage represents two tiers of boxes. As each performer comes in he is greeted with a fusiliade of soft oranges and bananas. There is an inebriated swell, two bad boys and some other trouble-makers who bring on a general rough-house. The concluding scene, a mock wrestling match between the swell and Marconi All, a "terrible Turk," is upreariously funny. roariously funny.

Orpheum.

THERE are two big acts that stand out conspicuously on the Orpheum out conspicuously on the Orpheum bill this week. Well, in fact, there are three. First and foremost is the Great Lester. Certainly he deserves his so briquet, America's or at lease vaude-villia's premier ventriloquist.

Next of importance is a sketch, a gripping vital story, told by capable interpreters and unusual in theme. It is a womanless sketch and no one minds for the four men who enact it fit each into his role as if it were created for him.

The final act is also a fine one. The Holloways, a quartet of wire performers, give exhibitions of daring that put their act away above the ordinary. The opening act is a regular fun-fest, and deserves a better place on the bill. Two tumblers, Wentworth and Vesta, assisted most ably by their "champion" athletic dog, Teddy, give an entertainment that is alone worth the price of admission.

The Aida Overton Walker Company of negro singers and dancers is a much overrated act and deserves any place rather than headliner. Any of the al-ready-mentioned acts beats it all hollow for actual entertainment. Collectively, the singing voices are pleasing, the negro comedian has a well directed voice, and Mrs. Walker herself gives who dance that is really graceful. She carries one or two chorus girls who dance unusually well.

Rosa Roma has come again, dainty, pretty and talented violinist that she is, but her repertoire is not a vaudeville repertoire. It is mostly exhibitions of technique, and when she does depart from the high brow to the Hof-brau elections the audience goes on record as liking it.

and pithy sayings.

The story recites the love of a girl for a man and the love of the man for someone else. Maurice, the painter, is searching for an ideal, which Mephisto tries to supply. Here is where the soul kiss is introduced.

The character work of Lew Harris as Solomon Slevinski, the broken-down actor, shaking with age, was realistic. Lyric.

MERITED applause greeted the open-ing performance of "The Belle of Chinatown" at the Lyric Theater yes-turday affernoon. The production is up to the standard of that popular playhouse. Yesterday's performance, how-ever, marked the reappearance of Edward Allen the comedian. His welcome was cordial. He contributes much to the framaking of the new Keating & Ficed company. TRIAL HINGES ON OI SEN

STORY MAY CONVICT CHINESE OF MURDER.

Witnesses for Defense Contradict Testimony of State-Case Nearing an End.

Shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the defense concluded the introduction of testimony in the trial of Wong Si Sam, one of the Chinese ac-cused of the murder of Seld Bing. The state will offer rebuttal this morning. Argument will probably be reached this Argument will probably be reached this afternoon.

Witnesses put on the stand yesterday by Attorney C. W. Fullon, representing the defendant, contradicted statements made by Ol Sen, the Chinese woman in whose room the crime was committed and who was the principal witness for the prosecution. These contradictions were chiefly of statements made by the woman on cross-examination, the defense having laid a basis for impeachment and did not extend to the main portion of her story.

The jury must decide whether Ol Sen told the truth. The whole case hinges on the estimate which the 12 men in the box have formed of her veracity. The prosecution has bolstered up the evidence of Ol Sen by testimony corroborating portions of her story which did not have to do with the actual murder. Her testimony is the only evidence directly connecting Wong Si Sam with the murder.
