NEW POSTOFFICE DELAYED—Word was received yesterday by Postmaster Merrick from J. K. Taylor, supervising architect of the Treasury Department at Washington, that the new Postoffice building would be delayed two years. Mr. Merrick had explained to the department that he was having trouble in leasing portions of block 8 at the site of the proposed new Postoffice building, for the reason that he could not assure the proposed lessees how long they would be permitted to occupy the property. Mr. Taylor has replied to this that it is not expected the site will be needed by the department for at least two years, so leases for that period may be granted, but without any guarantee. This means that it will be at least four years before the new Postoffice building will be ready for occupancy.

LECTURE IS GIVEN—Mrs. Millie H. Trumbull delivered an illustrated lecture Monday night in the auditorium of the East Portland Library on "Child Labor and Its Effects." The speaker gave a large number of stereopticon views of children who have been working in factories and those who have not been so employed. Mrs. Trumbull contended that to place children in factories or departments where they are to stunt their growth. She argued for open-air schools, recreation centers, play grounds and all the out-of-door life that can be given. She advocated permission to dance for school children, holding that the child must have ample exercise in order to develop morally and physically into good citizens.

DINNER TO HAVE SPECIAL FEATURES—Members of the Portland Commercial Club will be entertained with special amusement features at the table d'hôte dinner in the main dining room tonight. In addition to this several special moving-picture films will be shown. The dinner will begin at 6:15 o'clock. Ralph Modjeski, bridge engineer, will address the club members in the green room at 8 o'clock on "Bridges and Their Builders." His lecture will be illustrated with a series of appropriate stereopticon slides.
