Medieski brought to the committee Mr. Modjeski brought to the committee meeting preliminary maps and designs for the bridge, based upon the information he had gained as to the peculiarities of building requirements at that point on the Columbia River, by his experience on the steel railroad bridge a short distance down stream from the place where the new bridge is to be brown account.

Mr. Modjeski said that he will have his preliminary survey completed and within 36 days will be prepared to subuit a complete report with estimates of costs, for use in the campaign that will be carried on in the legislative will be carried on in the legislative hodies of both Oregon and Washington to secure a $2,000,000 appropriation to build this bridge which is to be the most important link in the big system of the Pacific Highway.

posed between Oregon and Washing-ton at Vancouver," said Mr. Modieski, "will have a value as a development factor that will offset, within an infactor that will offset, within an incredibly short time after its completion, the $2,000,000 expense to which the two states will go to build it, and I believe that the Legislatures of the two states will be amply justified in appropriating the funds required for it, I cannot say whether the United States Jovernment will be willing to appropriate money to help defray the cost of construction, but I think it will be worth the while of the committee to take the matter up with the proper authorities. Whether the Federal Government gives financial assistance or ernment gives financial assistance or not, I am certain that it will throw no obstacles in our way in the construction of the bridge, but will give all the

Of the 165 passengers who were saved there was only one woman. Many told afterward of the brutal manner in which Yousoff fought with a stiletto seeking to force his way to a raft. The Turk was a veritable giant—6 feet 5 inches tall, weighing 250 pounds.

Charles Labbe, one of the passengers saved, reported afterward that "a moment after the collision. I saw Yousoff at the side of the ship, fighting like a beast for a place in the lifeboat. He had on no lifepreserver and no coat. Finally I noticed that he got on a raft and it began to sink. Yousoff leaped, intending to land on a lifeboat some feet away, and missed his footing, going into the water. He swam for half and hour after that, going down, at last, apparently without any cause, for I noticed particularly than he was a good swimmer."

Mr. Labbe said that he believed Yousoff sank from the weight of gold which he is supposed to have carried in a belt around his body.

"I heard it said," reported Labbe, "that he was loaded down with 30 or 40 pounds of gold, which he was carrying back with him from his wrestling matches."

MILWAUKEE HEADS LOOK OVER PORTLAND SITUATION.

President Williams Says Road Has Been Able to Do Nothing to Get Into Portland.

Officials of the Milwaukee Railroad stem passed yesterday morning in ortland on a general inspection of the situation, with the view, possibly, of determining at what time and in what manner the moot connection between Portland and the new main line to the North Pacific Coast is to be built.

In the party were H. R. Williams, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound line; C. W. Hartness, of Philadelphia, a director of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul system, and a number of Mr. Hartness friends who have been touring with him in California. Mr. Hartness and his party California. Mr. Hartness and his party arrived in the private car St. Paul, and were met here by Mr. Williams, who came from Seattle. They visited the Portland office of the Milwaukee, which is the most pretentious on their entire system, and called on some of their business acquaintances in various parts of the city.

"Business in Portland as well as in other parts of the Milwaukee territory is looking better this year than at any time since our line to the Coast was built," said Mr. Williams. "Maybe that is true, because I believe we reached built," said Mr. Williams. "Maybe that is true, because I believe we reached the bottom last year. It had to get better, and I am glad to see that it is improving. It isn't booming, exactly, right now, but it is growing steadily and substantially. I look for prosperous times ahead."

Mr. Williams modified the recent announcement from Scattle that the Milwaukee is about to build a $5,000,000 tunnel through the Cascades for the purpose of shortening the distance and eliminating curves and grades on the

"This tunnel was in our original plans," he said, "and we intend to build it eventually, but it will be many years before it is completed. We can't quite see our way clear to spend an additional $5,000,000 right on top of our original expenditure and in the face of a business situation that is just recovering from a slight depression."

Last year the Milwaukee drove about 400 feet on the east end of the proposed new tunnel, which will be approximately two miles in length. It is

MURDER, VERDICT FOR WONG SI SAM

Jury in Chinese Slaughter Case Returns Second-Degree Conviction.

OI SEN'S STORY IS FACTOR

Agreement Is Reached After Three Hours Although Attorneys Were Asked to Make Only Brief Arguments.

Second degree murder was the verdict brought in last night against Wong Si Sam, one of the two Chinese accused of the murder of Seld Wah Bing, whose of the murder of Seid wan Bins. Whose dismembered body was shipped in a trunk from Portland to Seattle and discovered three weeks after the crime. The jury, which had been hearing evidence in the case for the past week, retired about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the verdict was returned at noon and the verdict was returned at 8:18 o'clock.

The state's case depended almost entirely on the story of the killing told by Oi Sen, the Chinese woman of the underworld in whose room the murder occurred. She testified that Wong Si Sam and Lew Soon, the man yet to be tried, waylaid Seid Wah Bing in her room after midnight on December 19 and killed him with a hatchet, a Chinese vegetable knife and a razor. The weapons produced in court were identified by her and other witnesses testified that they had been found in the room of Wong Si Sam and that he acknowledged their ownership. She shipped the body to Seattle and left Portland on their instructions, she said.

Portions of the story of Oi Sen were corroborated. Members of the crew of the Balley Gatzert testified that Wong Sam, who was second cook on the Si Sam, who was second cook on the river steamer, took her with him to The Dalles a few days after the com-mission of the crime, as she had said when on the stand. Other parts of her testimony as to events before and after the murder were substantiated by the statements of other witnesses. The defense called members of the crew of the Bailey Gatzert, who swore that Wong Si Sam was seldom absent from the boat. He had a permanent room on it, they said. Their testimony tended to throw doubt on the truth of the state's contention that the defend-ant was away from the steamer on the night of the crime. Attorney Fulton also strove to pick flaws in Oi Sen's testimony on direct examination and put witnesses on the stand to contra-dict statements made by her on cross-

The jury asked yesterday morning that the attorneys confine themselves to 10 minutes each in their remarks. Judge McGinn called attention to the fact that the law requires that they be allowed two hours each for argument and a compromise was reached on one hour each. The jurors evident ly believed that they had intelligently grasped the trend and purport of the testimony and that nothing the attorcould say would be of assistance
