

SAD ROMANCE TOLD

Elopers, Charged With Theft, Picture 10 Days Lovefeast.

FOLLY FALLS; MONEY GOES

Haystack and Cattle Barns Provide Pallet at Night and Stolen Chickens Food—Woman Returns to Find Sister Dead, Mother Ill.

By piecemeal, Deputy Sheriffs Leonard Filgate and Bulger yesterday secured from Mrs. Georgia Burchet and Lyle J. Sadler, each aged 19, the elopers arrested Tuesday night at Rainier, Ore., on a charge of stealing a black mare and a buggy from C. Hanson, sexton of Greenwood cemetery, the detailed story of the ten days which they spent in each others' company rambling about the country and sleeping where night overtook them.

The chronicle ended with a description of the girls' return to the home of her parents in Rainier, where she found her 14-year-old sister dead and her mother seriously ill as the result of having given birth to a child last Sunday, and the arrest of the couple after Sadler and a companion had sold to scow swellers of Rainier a quantity of rockers, napkins, dollies and other articles stolen from the summer home of Robert T. Platt, a prominent Portland attorney. The couple will be arraigned in Justice Court today to answer to a charge of larceny preferred by Mr. Hanson.

Romance Starts on Car.

The two first met on a Fulton car Monday, April 22. The young woman was returning to the home of a friend with whom she was living because of the end of the Fulton carline in South Portland. A flirtation started on the car. They got off at the same place and actual acquaintanceship was soon formed. They found their way to Mr. Platt's summer home and occupied it for the next three nights. Thursday the scheme to elope "for keeps" was formed, and the theft of the horse and buggy from the sexton of the cemetery followed late that night. They crossed the road towards McMinnville, driving the greater part of the night. The mare was unhitched and proceeded with difficulty. The sheriff's office in Portland was notified on Friday, and heel marks on the graves in the cemetery revealed the fact that there was a woman in the car. Notices were telephoned to peace officers all around to watch for a couple with a black mare and a buggy the rubber tires of which were badly worn.

The two went first to McMinnville and then towards Salem. They crossed to the east side of the river at Salem and came back to Portland. They went down to Linton, where Sadler pledged the horse for $250, promising to return and claim the animal in a few days. The rest of the distance to Rainier was covered by train, the money secured in Linton being used to purchase tickets. By this time tramp life had pulled on the pair, and they decided to return to their parents. Her 3-year-old child, the product of her marriage to the husband from whom she had been divorced, some time living apart, was with her mother.

Starvation Stares Them.

During their trip across the country, the girl said, they slept in haystacks and barns, and once took a set of harness belonging to a woman who had given them the privilege of her barn. They were followed and forced to return to the car. They got off at the place where they were to be married. At other places they said they were husband and wife. Often they were invited to eat by hospitable farmers, but on one occasion were so hungry that they stole a chicken and cooked it as best they could, eating it half raw and with only one slice of bread between them as accompaniment. The young woman declares that her companion once wanted to steal a horse to replace the one they had, which was about worn out, but that she protested and dissuaded him after the animal had actually been captured in a pasture.

Wan and bedraggled they presented a pitiable spectacle in the County Jail yesterday. That they repent their escapade there is no doubt. It is believed that they have learned a valuable lesson, and it is anticipated that, even if they are convicted for the larceny of the horse and buggy, which seems probable, as they frankly admit the theft, pressure may be brought to bear to secure paroles for them.

Illuminated Marine Parade Promises to Be Spectacular Event.

Members of the Portland Ad Club, at the luncheon at the Multnomah Hotel yesterday, discussed the excursion from here to Seattle Saturday, to attend the installation of officers of the Seattle Ad Club. A big delegation plans to attend the Seattle installation. Several business men have signified their intention of joining the party.

William Hanley, of Burns, and Professor H. D. Scudder, of the Oregon Agricultural College, discussed soil development after the luncheon.

Failures of settlers upon Central Oregon lands have almost invariably been due to ignorance of the methods of cultivation, said Professor Scudder. "These men" said he, "go away declaring that Central Oregon land is no good. Ignorance invites failure, but an understanding of the rudiments of agriculture would insure a crop."

Mr. Hanley outlined the plan for establishing demonstration farms in Central Oregon.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The two western low-pressure areas have practically united and formed a single disturbance which this evening is central over Colorado. The barometer is rising rapidly over the North Pacific States and a large high-pressure area is passing to sea off the California coast. During the last 24 hours showers have fallen in the North Pacific States and in Utah and Nevada. The rain turned to sleet in the Missouri and Mississippi basins during the late afternoon. Showers and thunder storms have occurred in portions of the Mississippi Valley, the Red River Valley of the north and in the Upper Lake Region. It is much warmer in the Missouri and Mississippi Valleys and correspondingly cooler in the Great Salt Lake Basin.

The conditions are favorable for fair weather in this district Thursday, except in extreme eastern Oregon, eastern Washington and Idaho, where the fair weather will be preceded by rain or snow. Light frost will occur in the early morning where clear weather prevails.

PORCASTER.

Portland and vicinity—Fair and warmer; northwesterly winds.
Oregon and Washington—Fair except rain in extreme east portions; warmer in interior west portion; westerly winds.
Idaho—Showers, followed by fair weather.

1000 IN ROSE WAR

Sunday School "Kiddies" to Take Part in Festival.

185 AUTOS ARE DONATED

Illuminated Marine Parade Promises to Be Spectacular Event.

More than 1000 little boys and girls, pupils of the Sunday schools of the city and county, all dressed in natty blue suits and pink and white dresses, will be a leading feature of the decorated automobile parade on Wednesday afternoon of Rose Festival week.

The girls will wear wreaths and garlands of flowers and will take part in the "bottle of roses" which will be held between the occupants of the automobiles and the thousands of spectators in the big grandstand in front of the post-office.

To carry these little enthusiastic celebrants 135 privately-owned motor cars have already been offered for entry in this division of the big parade, which will be made up of hundreds of Sunday schools of Portland and Multnomah County. Some of the schools will drill the merry little children to sing songs and give yells as the loaded motor cars pass through the crowded streets and intense rivalry is anticipated among the individual entries in the way of dressing up the cars in the competition for the cups and trophies which will be offered by the Rose Festival.

Event Attracts All Autolists.

Oliver K. Jeffrey, who has acted as chairman of the automobile parade for the past two or three festivals with great success, will serve in the same capacity this year. The big parade will be conducted under the auspices of the Portland Automobile Club and will be participated in by a majority of the car owners of the city which they are affiliated with the club of not.

A special section will be devoted to the huge motor trucks which are easily converted into huge floats of all sorts of spectacular and attractive designs. Both commercial and pleasure cars of every size and description will have a chance to contest for prizes. So far more than 80 privately-owned autos not listed with the Automobile Club have been listed with the parade committee.

The Seattle "Golden Pothatch" will have one section in line and the Tacoma "Montezuma Fests" has written to the festival committee stating that a large delegation representing that organization and city will motor over to Portland and bring their own decorations with them. The cars will be put up at local garages for the installation of the decorations.

Should the "Flying Legion," the famous organization of motorists of the San Francisco exposition visit here during the Rose Festival, as now seems probable, a special section in the automobile parade will be reserved for them and for the officials and delegates of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, which is planning to come here by a special train.

TI Motor-Boats Entered.

Up to yesterday, 71 motor-boats had been entered in the illuminated marine spectacle and parade, to take place on Thursday night of the festival. These boats are all private craft and form only a portion of the pleasure-boats that have been entered to take part in the same event. Divisions in the water parade will be reserved for gasoline launches, power-boats of all kinds, and for the large and small steamers that ply in local waters. In addition to these there will be several warships to make up the naval section and it is hoped to have a flotilla of the large steamers operating in the coastwise traffic also in the line.

Electric lights, red fire, reflective torches and pyrotechnics will be used in the illumination effects to heighten the brilliancy of the marine spectacle on that occasion.

Captain J. Speier, harbor master, is assisting the Rose Festival in arranging the preliminary details for the celebration on the river.
