RULE OF KING ENDS

FREDERICK VIII DIES SUDDENLY AT HAMBURG.

Popular Ruler, Crowned in 1906, Noted for Culture—Illness Ix Traced to Last Winter.

HAMBURG, Germany, May 15.—King Frederick VIII of Denmark arrived at the Hamburger Hotel yesterday and died suddenly during the night.

Christian Frederick was proclaimed King of Denmark as Frederick VIII on January 20, 1906, after the death of Christian IX, the aged King, who was dean of the crowned heads of Europe.

King Frederick VIII was born at Copenhagen on June 3, 1843. He was a popular ruler with the people of Denmark.

Several months ago King Frederick suffered a serious illness. While taking his customary walk, he was seized by a seizure and compelled to return to the palace. Later it was announced that he had suffered a chill, but the nature of his malady was not disclosed.

FIVE POLICEMEN WOUNDED

Fight Wages All Day, With Town Continually Rocked by Explosions and Great Crowd Pressing Near Lair of Gang.

PARIS, May 15.—The career of the last of France's notorious bandit gangs was dramatically ended yesterday, when, after eight hours' battle with police and troops, its leader, Octave Garnier, and his confederate, Vallet, were blown up by explosives in a small villa, Nogent-sur-Marne, where they had taken refuge.

OFFICERS ARREST 21

VAGRANCY CHARGES FACE ALL, INCLUDING WOMAN.

Houses at 269 Taylor and 125 Thirteenth Streets, Raided Previously as Gambling Den, Are Attacked.

Twenty men and one woman, many of them the same who were arrested Monday night at 269 Taylor street and 125 Thirteenth street on charges of gambling, were Tuesday night taken in the same places by a squad under Sergeant of Police Leo Harms, of the first district.

Isidore Strassberg, whose charges of persecution against Market Inspector Singer several weeks ago brought him before the grand jury on an acquittal in court, and Meyer Caplin, who made charges at about the same time against Police Commissioner Coffey, were in the arrests last night, as they were Monday night.

Four women, arrested at the same time as the men, were taken to the moral squad, where they were held for a few days to secure their release. Two were taken in the Uncle Sam's Hotel, run by Sarah Freeman, several times arrested on white slavery and gambling charges.

When the bodies of the desperadoes were dragged into the open the thousands of spectators pressed forward and tried to get from the scene. Automobiles were brought up and the bodies thrown in, but for a few minutes it was found impossible to start the machinery.

One of the most dramatic moments of the battle was when, during a lull in the firing, the woman Valletin rushed into the ruins and discovered the two bandits on the floor in a room.

Garnier was asked save for a few tattered rags. He appeared to be dead. Vallet was dying.

When the police arrived at the villa which was known as the Moulin Rouge, the police and spectators who had gathered on the roof of the house, which was broken in, but the bandits continued firing.

When M. Lepine, the prefect of police, arrived, he assumed command and finally decided to blow up the bandits' lair.

The soubre bugler sounded "Cease firing" and then "Retreat." Word was passed that the villa was to be blown up.

Explosion Shakes Town. The explosion shook the town but when the smoke and the dust cleared the sharp cracks of rifles from the building showed the bombs had failed to accomplish their purpose.

M. Lepine himself had a narrow escape when a bullet passed within an inch of his shoulder and buried itself in a wall.

The prefect requisitioned extra dynamite bombs and cartridges from the military barracks at Vincennes. Several detectives, armed with a new type of steel shield were able to approach within 15 feet of the house.

The arrival of reserve police gave the crowd a chance to cheer. It was evident after the explosion that the bandits had taken refuge in the cellar. Later they mounted to an attic, from which they directed a steady fusillade. By the uncertain glare of torches the scene was dramatic in the extreme.

ALMOST FRANTIC WITH ECZEMA ON HANDS

Began with Itching. Spread Fast. Fingers Fairly Bled. Cried Night and Day. Tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Was Entirely Cured.

Relondo Beach, Cal.—"Eight years ago I got eczema all over my hands. My fingers fairly bled and it itched until it almost drove me frantic. The eruptions began with itching under the skin. It spread fast from between the fingers around the nails and all over the whole hands. I got a pair of rubber gloves in order to wash dishes. Then it spread all over the left side of my chest. I cried night and day. Then I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment, but I had gone so long. There was a marked change the second day, and I was entirely cured. The Cuticura Soap has always kept in our home, and we decided that lesson that it is a cheap soap in price and the very best in quality. My husband will use no other soap in his shaving mug."

THESE SIX LETTERS From New England Women

Prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Restore the Health of Ailing Women. Boston, Mass.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from hemorrhages (sometimes lasting for weeks), and could get nothing to check them. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (tablet form) on Tuesday, and the following Saturday morning the hemorrhages stopped. I have taken them regularly ever since and am steadily gaining."

Letter from Mrs. Julia King, Phoenix, R.I. Phoenix, R.I.—"I worked steady in the mill from the time I was 12 years old until I had been married a year, and I think that caused my bad feelings. I had soreness in my side near my left hip that went around to my back, and sometimes I would have to lie in bed for two or three days. I was not able to do my household work."

Letter from Mrs. Etta Donovan, Willimantic, Conn. Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles causing backache, irregularities, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk up stairs without stopping on the way. I was all run down in every way."
