Lively Entertainment Arranged. Interest among the business men of Tillamook, Bay City and other towns in the district through which the excur-sion special will run is fully as strong as in Portland and elaborate prepara-tions have been made for entertaining the visitors who travel on the "Mil-lionaire's Special." as it has been desig-

Few changes have been made in the Few changes have been made in the linerary since it was first announced. Part of the party will go from Tillamook to Bay City tomorrow evening, where they will be joined by the remainder on the following morning. Banquets will be served to both parties at 5 o'clock tonight in Tillamook and in Bay City respectively.

Life-Savers to Give Show.

A new feature announced restorday will be the exhibition by the life-saving crew this evening at Garibaldi beach. This crew has gained an international reputation.

Sides and films will be sent from Portland, which will be used in an illustrated address to be given before the Commercial Club at Tillamook by C. C. Chapman, of the Portland Commercial Club. This feature was arranged through courtesy of the General Film Company.

rail Film Company.

Throughout the trip, a paper will be issued at irregular intervals upon the train. Like the paper that was printed during the Lewiston excursion, this is to be called the Portland Pilgrim. Under its head it bonsts the "Least wire service, biggest circulation." It is to be published "whenever the sprit moves, shourd the Portland Commercial Club excursion train to Tillamook. Fred J. A protest by C. J. Franklin, of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company against a bill of $8.35 for use of water at his East Side house during last month was overruled by the Board Mr. Franklin says his water is on a meter and never before has cost more than 75 cents a month. He was much surprised last month when the bill climbed to $8.25, especially when the house was not occupied during that time. A report by the meter reader of the East Side showed that the meter was correct. He reported that the increase of the bill was due to the fact that a faucet in the house was left running during part of the month.

IMPERIAL 13 YEARS OLD Phil Metschan, Sr., Hotel Proprietor, Recipient of Congratulations.

Yesterday, in the Autumn of an active life, Phil Metschan, Sr., received a surprise when he began to receive congratulatory telegrams from every state in the Northwest. It required state in the Northwest. It required half a dozen telegrams and as many personal calls to make the eld hotel man recognize that he was enjoying the thirteenth anniversary of the birth of the Imperial Hotel. When it dawned on him that it had been 13 years since he retired from the office of State Treasurer, and, with C. W. Knowles, secured control of the old Imperial on Washington street, he immediately declared in favor of an "open house" for the balance of the day. Mr. Metschan not only wanted to celebrate the anninot only wanted to celebrate the anniversary, but is much in favor of a recognition of the virtues of number "13."

Of the employee who helped open the Imperial, the only one remaining is Harry Hamilton, clerk at the desk, who is said to know more Oregonians by their first names than any politician in the state.

TITLE OF RECORD STANDS

Court Refuses to Sustain Railroad Company's Contention.

Title to 143 acres of land in Clackamas County, that became involved in 1870 when Ben Holladay was conducting his railroad operations in Oregon, was settled yesterday by Judge Bean in the United States District Court, when he made a decision in the case of the Oregon & California Railroad Company against Mrs. Marie D'Grubissich, who claimed title to the property through inheritance from Holladay.

The railroad company sought to restrain Mrs. D'Grubissich from claiming title to the property. The plaintiff contended that when the Holladay holdings were transferred the property in question was included in the transfer. There is no record of such a transfer, and Judge Bean decided the title of record, that of the defendant, should stand.

Two Bodies Unidentified. The body of the man found floating in the Willamette River below the North Pacific Mills last Sunday has not yet been identified, and it lies at the undertaking parlors of Dunning & McEntee beside the unidentified body of another man who ended his life with polson in a rooming-bouse in the of another man who ended his life with polson in a rooming-house in the North End last Friday. Unless they are identified this foremoon, they will be cremated. The body of Charles A. Fair, 5 years old, was found in the river yesterday. The lad fell into the river April 5, while at play. His playmates pulled him out once, but when his unconscious form fell back into the water they find to terror. He was the water, they fied in terror. He was the son of Charles A.
