

WAITERS ON STRIKE MAKE HEAVY GAINS

Every Restaurant and Hotel in Metropolis May Be Seriously Affected.

CHAMBERMAIDS MAY QUIT

President of Hotel Men's Association Declares That No Recognition Will Be Accorded to Rebellious Employees.

NEW YORK, May 31.—In sympathy with the 2500 union waiters and cooks now on strike it was said tonight that the chambermaids of the hotels affected would walk out today.

With the ranks of the strikers increasing hourly New York may see every waiter and cook in the city quit their employment, before the fight for higher wages, shorter hours and recognition of the union is adjusted. Leaders say they will order a general strike.

This order, according to Edward Bloehinger, financial secretary of the union, would call from their places cooks and waiters in every hotel not already affected and extend the walk-out also to employees of hundreds of restaurants and "quick lunch" establishments.

Negroes May Be Secured.

Approximately 1000 negroes are in readiness to be brought into the city from Southern points to break the strike, the principal hotel managers say. The negroes have been recruited, it is said, from hotels and employment agencies in Florida, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, St. Louis and other Southern cities. At the Plaza Hotel, where the waiters quit last night, negroes have taken up their work.

Most of the demands of the strikers have been granted by the hotel men, but recognition of the union has been refused.

Waiters at the Marie Antoinette and Great Northern Hotels joined the strike today. Last night union waiters, cooks and kitchen help in six leading hotels and two of the largest Broadway restaurants joined the strike. Thousands of diners had given their orders and some had been served the first course when the hotel employees deserted. In some hotels strikers were placed in the dining-rooms and service continued with slight interruption.

Reed Stands Firm.

The hotels affected by last night's walk-out were the Plaza, the St. Regis, the Astor, the Prince George, the Imperial and the Gotham, and Shanley's and Louis Martin's restaurants and the Elks Club.

There will be a 230 trotting event and a 225 pace race, with purse of $100 for each; a quarter-mile dash for ponies under 14 hands, purse $50; half-mile dash and three-quarter mile dash.

NOTED ZOOLOGIST DEAD

Dr. Woodworth, Grandson of Author of "The Old Oaken Bucket."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31.—The death of Dr. William McMichael Woodworth, of Harvard University, an authority on zoology of world-wide reputation, was announced today. Dr. Woodworth was the grandson of Samuel Woodworth, author of "The Old Oaken Bucket."

He was born in San Francisco 48 years ago. His father was Selma Woodworth, who fought with Admiral Farragut at Mobile and New Orleans and who retired with the rank of Commodore. Commodore Woodworth was one of the California pioneers and was president of the famous "vigilantes."

NIECE AND NEPHEW WIN

Payment of $300,000 Made to Settle Will Contest.

AURORA, Ill., May 31.—The suit of Walter D. Crooman, of Aurora, a nephew, to break the will of the late Mrs. Elmita Stone, widow of the late C. P. Stone, former mayor of Seattle, has been settled by a payment of $300,000 to Crooman and a like amount to a Chicago niece of Mrs. Stone by Mrs. Florence McPherson, of Pasadena, Cal., the chief beneficiary under the will.

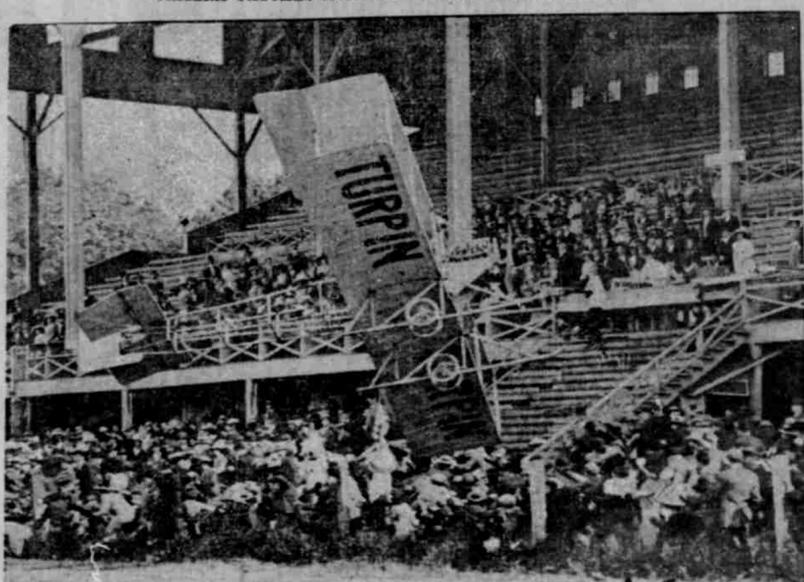

Undue influence was the charge made by the plaintiffs in the suit, which was filed at Seattle last fall.

Mrs. Stone was a son of John C. Mayor of Aurora. The estate he left his widow was worth about $500,000.

CORONER PROBES TODAY

Search for Foolhardy Photographer Who Caused Disaster Is On.

Third May Die and Aviator Turpin May Lose an Eye.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 31.—(Special.)—Raymond Chapman, 9 years old, whose skull was fractured by the propeller blade of Turpin's aeroplane, when the machine tore through the crowd at the Meadows Thursday, died shortly before 9 o'clock tonight at the County Hospital.

With the death of George Quinby and of Raymond, two fatalities have so far resulted from the aviation accident. The doctors have little hopes for the recovery of Mrs. E. R. Lang, whose left hand was severed and who also suffered a fracture of the skull.

Information which may disclose the identity of the foolhardy photographer whose daring caused Turpin to swing his biplane into the grandstand in order to save the venturesome photographer's life has been given to the public. However, no arrests have been made as yet.

The man is believed by the authorities to have been doing amateur work of his own accord.

The coroner has summoned a large number of witnesses and the entire day may be consumed tomorrow in completing the inquiry. J. C. Turpin, the aviator, though badly hurt, will appear at the inquest tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and will relate his version of the affair.

Turpin's hand was badly bruised and his face and forehead were so seriously cut that he may lose the sight of his right eye.

HARMONY AFTER THREATS

tentative provision setting out the respective courses of the two schools, but it even developed that the two members of the committee were not altogether satisfied with any attempts on their part to limit the curriculae of the schools, inasmuch as they were opposed to attempting to dictate the technical features, which they believed should be accomplished by men who were familiar with those phases of the situation.

The tentative bill recommended that all disputes and conflicts which might arise be decided by the State Board of Education, acting in conjunction with the presidents of the two institutions.

J. of a Mill Thought Too Much. Superintendent Alderman objected to the feature of the bill providing for a mill, declaring it too much. This was also the contention of Master Spence, of the State Grange, who stated that a mill appeared to be an equitable feature and would provide sufficient funds.

President Kerr, of the Agricultural College, urged that an investigation be made as to all of the conditions surrounding higher educational institutions and to base the taxes raised along scientific lines, rather than to select some figure hit or miss and adhere to that.

Discussion of whether or not to adopt the resolution of the special committee which met in Portland and which named Judge R. S. Bean, of the university, and Judge Weatherford, of the Agricultural College, as a committee to draft a bill to place the question of a millage tax before the people, ensued the meeting at the morning session. Opposition cropped out as to defining what the levy should be, and also as to what times a reapportionment should be made.

That one way to allay the agitation throughout the state against the two schools was to incorporate into the bill a provision against duplication of the courses of studies, was the opinion of R. F. Irvine, a regent of the Agricultural College. He said that the schools are now asking for a millage basis, which will mean more money for the institutions. The people of the state, he said, are asking for consolidation.

"The reason for this," said Mr. Irvine, "is that the institutions are duplicating the studies and at the same time making a request from the taxpayers for more money. I do not think the voters will be satisfied with this and it seems to me we should make some provision

MANY DEBTS UNPAID

Army Captain Accused of Forgeries in Suit.

FELLOW-OFFICERS TESTIFY

Reams Leaves Wife and Children Penniless, but Members of Company, Themselves Among Victims, Give Them Aid.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—United States Army officers testified in a Justice Court here today that Captain James E. Reams, until last January commander of Company H, Thirtieth Infantry, U. S. A., had left unpaid between $500 and $800 in promissory notes when he disappeared early this year. The company fund, amounting to about $500, which represented the savings of privates in his company, is said to have disappeared at the time of his departure.

Wife and Children Deserted.

According to the army officers, Captain Reams left a wife and two children penniless. His fellow officers collected $400 and soldiers of his company $150, which sums were given his wife, who went to New York.

A note for $200, bearing the endorsement of Captain Ode C. Nichols, is said to have been taken down. Captain Nichols declares the signature was forged.

Money Lender Brings Suit.

When P. Schalmann, a money lender who advanced the money, sought to collect, Nichols refused payment. Schalmann brought suit. The testimony of Captain Nichols and other officers was taken today, as their regiment will sail for Valdez, Alaska, tomorrow.

Savant Buys Red Vest

Garment to Be Worn with Frock Coat in Liberia.

Vociferous Cravat Also Proper, Professor Starr Finds, at State Functions in Monrovia.

CHICAGO, May 31.—(Special.)—Professor Frederick Starr, of the faculty of the University of Chicago, anthropologist of worldwide fame, is buying clothes for his coming visit to Liberia, where he will investigate the political, social and economic conditions of the descendants of the American slaves who founded a state in Africa. He has made enough study of the country in advance to ascertain what must be worn if he would be received in the best circles in Monrovia and have access first hand to the information for which he seeks.

First, there must be a frock coat and a high silk hat, Professor Starr told his class. This is a custom handed down from slavery days and adopted in imitation of the manners of the negroes who settled Liberia.

And then a red vest. This Professor Starr believes to be just the outgrowth of the black man's innate love of color. The same is true of the necktie that goes with the upper part of the costume. It positively cannot be too "loud," Professor Starr has learned. He confesses that he has had trouble finding in Chicago one that he believes will measure fully up to his ideal—or, rather, the ideal of the Liberians.

The United States are relatively somber, and it may be that both the waistcoat and the cravat will have to be especially constructed.

"The Liberians," said Professor Starr today, "are sticklers for etiquette, and I shall not knowingly offend them. When in Monrovia do as the Bo-I mean the Monrovians—do is going to be my motto. To do otherwise would be folly for a man on a mission such as mine."

Ridgefield Is Host Today.

RIDGEFIELD, Wash., May 31.—(Special.)—The committee of the first annual Horse and Colt Show to be held here tomorrow, reports everything in readiness for the exhibition. The committee has secured judges from outside this locality. They have been fortunate in getting Messrs. Goddard and Horn, of Portland, and F. Hooker, of Vancouver, the Monrovians—to be on the grounds by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. At this time there are over 50 entries. The Ladies' Improvement Club will serve a strawberry shortcake dinner in the Commercial Hall.

RESCUERS ARE GUESTS

CARPATHIA CAPTAIN AND SURGEON AT ASTOR HOME.

Widow of John B. Thayer Also Present at Luncheon Given as Expression of Gratitude.

NEW YORK, May 31.—(Special.)—Captain Arthur Henry Roston, commander of the Carpathia when she went to the rescue of the survivors of the Titanic disaster, and the Carpathia's surgeon, Dr. Frank McGee, were the guests of Mrs. John Jacob Astor at a luncheon at the Astor home, 440 Fifth avenue, today.

Mrs. John B. Thayer, of Haverford, Pa., whose husband, like Mrs. Astor's, lost his life in the disaster, was the only other guest.

Mrs. Astor, in her delicate state of health, was an object of special solicitude on the part of Dr. McGee during the trip to New York and he also ministered to Mrs. Thayer.

They would have liked to meet every officer and every member of the crew, they said, but this was impossible, so they arranged an informal luncheon for the captain and surgeon to show their appreciation and to extend to the guests of Mrs. John Jacob Astor a request from the taxpayers for more money. I do not think the voters will be satisfied with this and it seems to me we should make some provision

WOMAN IS DIPPED IN BARREL OF TAR

Officials of Maryland Town Accused of Connivance With Ruffians.

YOUNG SON FIGHTS VAINLY

State's Attorney Orders Investigation by Sheriff—Scandal Mongers Busy Prior to Aggravated Assault.

OCEAN CITY, Md., May 31.—(Special.)—Worcester County is still stirred to its center by the action of a band of ruffians who abducted Mrs. Mary Holzman in her home, dipped her into a barrel of tar in the presence of her 11-year-old son, who fought valiantly to protect her, and after threatening her with death, drove her out into the night. They pursued her for a short distance and she was compelled to take refuge in the home of a negro who lived near by.

The fact that the lights of the town were out when the attack took place is a feature of the affair that has aroused suspicion and has caused resentment at the authorities. The woman who is being sheltered by a friend who lives several miles out in the country, threatened to sue the sheriff as soon as she could receive assurances that she would be protected she would return to Ocean City and prosecute the men who were guilty of the assault. She declared that she heard one of them say that the town authorities would not do anything about it, and that they would be glad to have the woman "run out of town."

The attitude of the authorities has been one of deep regret that the incident, which threatened to place the town in the same unenviable light that once enveloped Lincoln Center, Kan., has become public, but they have begun to realize that it will not do. So Sheriff Harrison, acting under instructions from State's Attorney Johnson, visited the woman, and it was arranged that she should be taken to Snow Hill, the county seat of Worcester. She demanded an investigation of the assault and the incidents leading up to it.

Woman Suspects Town Officials.

"Some of them grabbed me around the neck and others by the arms," she said, describing the assault. "They also caught my feet and, holding me in this way, they started from the house. My son screamed when I was first struck. They boxed his face and threatened him. One man waved a pocket-knife, the kind sailors carry. He threatened to run it through me if I did not keep quiet. Another had an oiler. He said he would knock out my brains. They rushed with me from the house to a barrel of tar, in which I was dipped. They forced me down. It until my whole body was covered. Some of it still clings to me."

"The lights were out," continued Mrs. Holzman, "but I felt as usual. After I had been in the tar barrel for perhaps ten minutes they dragged me out, threw me on a drying board close by and walked slowly away, evidently satisfied that nothing would be done about it."
