

POLICE HAIL PRIZE IN ANNUAL PARADE

Portland Patrolmen Satisfy Superiors by Their Good Showing in Drill.

SLOVER'S WORDS CHEERED

Commissioner Coffey Publicly Commends Officer Hewston During Presentation of Gold Medal for Bravery in Duty.

Portland police, passing in military parade at their annual inspection on the floor of the Armory and through the streets yesterday, satisfied members of the Police Commission and their chief by their good showing. They were in command of John T. Moore, senior captain, and were accompanied by the police band of 50 pieces, which is one of the three police bands in the United States.

The men were congratulated by their superiors, and rounds of applause greeted the remarks of Chief Slover. Speaking to his men, the chief said: "I believe the public is satisfied that the police department has vindicated itself in the matter of the enforcement of the law, and if the people are not satisfied, I know where I can find 250 men who know it."

Charles E. Hewston was publicly commended by Police Commissioner Coffey. A gold medal for bravery was presented to Hewston for his work in the capture of Frank Ryan. After shooting Ryan last December, Ryan was shot down by the policeman. Coffee Commands Hewston. "In the dead of night you risked your life and performed your duty as an officer," said Commissioner Coffey in making the presentation. "You proved yourself a worthy officer, and on behalf of the police department I present this medal. May you ever have cause to be proud of it, and may it be an incentive to other officers to emulate your example."

"Fellow officers," said Chief Slover, "in the course of his speech I have been 14 years in this department. I came here when there were not 60 officers and the position of sergeant had not been created. Men wore high trousers or few trousers as they may fit, in those days, and their right foot could scarcely keep time with the left. But of all the annual inspections that I have seen since that time, the men have the standard of efficiency and discipline equalled that shown today."

Commissioner Coffey told the men that the Police Commission was proud of the department and would back the men heartily in their efforts. He said the Commission was in accord with the movement to better the police, and that for the men, and expressed the hope that they would soon obtain it. By way of admonition, he said: "Always remember that you are the servants of the people, not their masters. When duty compels you to arrest citizens, don't abuse them, and when you deal with them in your duties, don't think them as proud of you as you think of them. Be polite and be rude because you wear a star."

No greater testimony to the recognized character of "The Bridge of the Gods" as a leading attraction of the Portland Rose Festival could be furnished than the order given by President Piper, of the Commercial Club, yesterday for 135 reserved tickets for the members of the Northwest Development League, who will be in Portland Monday.

SILVER JUBILEE IS HELD

St. Mary's Church Celebrates 25th Anniversary.

In commemoration of the dedication of St. Mary's Church, Williams avenue and Stanton street, 25 years ago, a silver jubilee was held Thursday night in Columbus Club Hall, on Morrison street, which was attended by most of the few remaining charter members of the church.

"The Pioneer of Oregon" was the subject of the address at Judge J. F. Kavanagh, in the course of which he paid high tribute to the honesty, hospitality, integrity and sterling character of the Oregon pioneers. He also spoke of Dr. McLoughlin as typical of the fine men who helped lay the mud hills of Oregon and the Northwest. "Goodnight, Goodnight, Blowed," was rendered by Miss Ruby Goslet, Miss Gertrude Kane, Charles Pembroke and Burr Eder. Miss Julia Burko gave a violin solo. Rev. Father George Thompson, pastor of Madonna Church Parish, delivered an address on "Our Forefathers in the Faith." "America" was sung by the audience at the close, Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Bishop C. J. O'Reilly, who was the second pastor of St. Mary's Church, will celebrate pontifical mass and Rev. E. V. O'Hara will deliver the sermon.

ADMEN SEE REHEARSAL

Chief of Indians Takes Great Interest in Production Which Opens Officially Tonight at About 8:30 o'clock.

The travelers could not be accommodated in the grandstand because there is not that number of seats to be obtained, with the exception of the seats tonight, so that a whole section of the four additional rows built in front of the grandstand was reserved in order to accommodate the production.

Admen See Dress Rehearsal. A full-dress rehearsal was held last night with members of the Portland Ad Club as guests of the production company. At the close the guests declared that "The Bridge of the Gods" was the most gorgeous and spectacular drama that they ever had seen west of New York.

The Indians have become an integral part of the production. All day Chief Jackson Spooms ordered the interpreter to tell him the story of "The Bridge of the Gods," and found his tepee the whole tribe gathered while the narration proceeded.

FULTON SAYS HENEY IS LIAR AND CROOK

Ex-Senator Denounces Land-Fraud Prosecutor as Biggest Criminal at Large.

TRUTH MAY BE PUBLISHED

Conspiracy to Discredit Roosevelt Administration Denied-McCourt Declares He Did Not Recommend Pardon of Mays.

Pronouncing Franklin J. Heney a "liar" and "the crookedest crook outside of jail," C. W. Fulton, ex-United States senator, yesterday made a vitriolic reply to an interview given out Thursday night by the ex-Government prosecutor in San Francisco, wherein Mr. Heney charged that Mr. Fulton had conspired to discredit him and the Roosevelt administration by denouncing the pardon of Willard H. Mays and other residents of this state convicted of committing land frauds against the Government.

Truth Frowned to Public. "Then everybody will know what a great many people already know, including Mr. Heney himself, that he is the crookedest crook outside of jail. It is doubtful if the qualification is just to those in jail. That is all I have to say."

When shown the Heney interview yesterday Mr. McCourt made a brief statement setting forth his connection with efforts to obtain pardons for those convicted of land frauds in this state, disclosing that his role in that direction was exaggerated by the statements of Mr. Heney.

Recovery Suits to Be Brought. "I have never recommended a pardon for Franklin P. Mays and have made no recommendation in the case of H. H. Hendricks," said Mr. McCourt yesterday. "I did recommend the revocation of the imprisonment portion of Jones' sentence upon the condition that he pay the fines imposed against him and aggregating $12,000 and the value of the land which it was alleged, he had stolen money orders to the value of $75, but had secured less than $100 on them. Cannon granted the warrant."
