McCredie's trust in Klawitter was not misplaced, for the Southerner pitched splendid ball, keeping the six hits scattered throughout five innings. He held the Oaks at his mercy in the pinches, and incidentally boosted the Beavers out of the cellar.

Gregory, the Sharpe moundman, held Beavers to seven swats, but two couver. of them came in the fatal sixth inning, and these hits, both converted sacrifice bunts, coupled with a walk and the hurler's wild heave to first, gave the Beavers three runs and the

When he took his station at short in the next inning he was determined to even up for the lapse, and took full advantage of the first opportunity. He picked Zacher's drive off his shoetops and took one step to second to force Hoffman and complete a double play.

Notes of the Game.

Krueger's double was the result of Zacher's misludgment in the second inning. The "Dutchmism" dreve the ball to deep center and the canterfielder waited until too late to go after it.

Despite Bancroft's failure to touch first, his spiendid double way carned a hand when he stepped to the plate in the next huning.

when he stepped to the plats in the real inding.
Leard, Patterson and Rodgers were the two-hit men of the afternoon.
Redgers had a chance to start a double play in the fifth, but he lost the bail in tagging Mixe between first and second and two runners were safe. However, the Beaver captain made two splendid cutches, evening up for the error.
Tiedemann was seed in to hat for Sharpe in the ninth inning, but grounded to Rancroft, forcing Retling at second.
Higginbotham will probably pitch for the Beavers today, with Ables his opponent. The game starts at 4 o'clock.
