

DARROW TRIAL MAY HAVE ABRUPT END

Attorney Rogers Threatens to Quit as Chief Counsel for Defense.

REQUEST CAUSES TROUBLE

Defendant's Lawyer Asks That Labor Leaders Be Called to Clear Up Point and Prosecution Makes Objection.

LOS ANGELES, June 14.—The participation of Earl Rogers as attorney in the McNamara prosecution confronted him in today's trial of Clarence Darrow for jury bribery.

This was the construction placed upon District Attorney Fredericks' declaration that the prosecution would not proceed if Rogers won his point with the court, which will be settled finally tomorrow morning.

Labor Leaders May Be Called. Rogers asked that Olaf A. Tretimon and Anton Johannsen, San Francisco labor leaders, be placed upon the stand immediately in order to clear up a point of divergence between Rogers and his client arising out of the Caplan matter, which came into evidence yesterday and which, according to Rogers, involved the preservation of Darrow's rights.

The request aroused a storm of protest from the prosecution. Rogers argued that unless evidence was produced at once showing his part in the Caplan matter while engaged in clearing up the Times explosion conspiracy, it would be impossible for him to proceed and place in jeopardy the interests of his client. He described his position as intolerable and said that only the immediate appearance on the stand of the witnesses indicated would relieve his embarrassment and permit him to continue.

The prosecution contended that Rogers' request was unbecomingly in court procedure, and that the point of ethics involved concerned only Darrow and Rogers. District Attorney Fredericks said that unless the state was allowed to proceed with its evidence as planned, irreparable harm would be done the prosecution.

Authorities to Be Quoted. Judge Hutton granted permission to the District Attorney to cite authorities in support of his contention, before final ruling by the court.

Before court convened this afternoon moving pictures were taken. It was said to have been the first time in history that moving pictures of a trial were taken in this country.

MAN, AGED 84, IS VICTIM

After Playing Pool With Stranger He Is Beaten and Robbed.

EUGENE, Or., June 14.—(Special)—J. H. Baily, a transient supposed to have followed the circus in, is under arrest on a charge of assault, and arraignment will be delayed until the extent of the injuries of his victim, H. W. Golt, are ascertained.

Golt, who is 82 years old, was investigated across the river from Springfield Wednesday night, beaten over the head with a bottle, and otherwise injured, and then robbed. He is now in the Springfield Hospital, and his age is against his recovery.

Baily was arrested in Eugene and later identified by Golt. Galt has a small market garden near Springfield. Wednesday morning he sold some chickens, and was seen playing pool with Baily several times during the day.

The City Council of Seward has sent, with the approval of the Kodiak relief committee of Seward, the following dispatch to Major Gallagher:

"Six hundred people at Kodiak and Woody Island village are being cared for by the cutter Manning. Eight hundred people on Afognak, Otnika and near islands and 200 on mainland probably as much in need as inhabitants of Kodiak. Cannot ascertain extent of disaster or necessity for removal of refugees. No transportation available."

The abundance in the harbor of Seward of species of salmon that inhabit Cook Inlet waters and spawn in rivers tributary thereto is taken to mean that the streams are choked with ashes and the fish are seeking new spawning grounds.

Friday I saw a dense column of black smoke rising above Katmai and smaller clouds were issuing from Redoubt and Illiamna. The dense clouds spread over the sky, the sun appearing through the smoke like a ball of fire. Before we left Port Graham a white ash, tinged with yellow, began to fall. I noticed the ash contained much sulphur and before long the brasswork aboard ship began to show the effect of the acid.

of the foot of the volcano on the mainland. The fishing company's wireless station at Nanknek was spoken today, but the people there had no news of conditions on the east side of the peninsula.

The wireless men here are hopeful that definite news from the distressed district will be received within the next 24 hours, as the relief vessels equipped with more powerful wireless instruments than those carried by the revenue cutter should reach the vicinity of Katmai soon.

No Loss of Life Reported.

ASTORIA, Or., June 14.—(Special)—Astoria companies owning salmon canneries at Chignik Bay and Nushagak and Kogginging Rivers, Alaska, have received indirect word that while a few ashes from the erupting volcanoes fell at Chignik, the showers were not sufficient to destroy property, and there was no loss of life.

All private advices received here indicate that the damage at Nushagak and Kogginging was light. The ashes from the volcanoes were carried westward, and this would take them away from both Nushagak and Kogginging.

Earthquake Has Ceased.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—The Alaska Packers' Association received today the following dispatch from Seward, Alaska, under date of June 13: "Earthquake has ceased; no damage done at Karluk, Chignik Bay, Alitak or Bristol Bay."

Officers in Millionaire Company Want to Find Why They Had to Wait in Vain.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 14.—(Special)—Whether one is a millionaire or a man in a million, the same rules apply in the United States. Charles N. Kirkbride, City Attorney of San Mateo; Harry E. Stiles, a lawyer of San Mateo; Edward C. Ordwell, banker of the same place, and R. L. Ross, a San Mateo contractor, members of the smart 11th Company of the Coast Artillery Corps, emphatically agreed with Burns that "a man's a man for a that."

These officers in the "millionaire company" becoming surfeited with the diet of beans, coffee, hardtack and other foodstuffs served them at their encampment at Fort Winfield Scott, where the militia men of the National Guard are going through their annual maneuvers, visited a downtown cafe in quest of less plebeian nourishment.

Filing into the restaurant, they took seats at a table and for the first five minutes perused the menu in search of various piquant delicacies, then they sat back in pleasant anticipation of the spread that was to be.

The spread never materialized; ditto, the waiter. After a lengthy wait an apologetic manager informed them that he was sorry, but service was out of the question, as the table had been reserved for other patrons. The three puzzled guardsmen fled out, seeking enlightenment. They got it from an employe, who informed them that soldiers were not desired for patrons.

This is the reason that Attorney-General Webb is in receipt of a complaint from Captain Wagoner of the Kenai Company, asking that action be taken against the cafe owner, and also why four militia officers are going to continue a fight of their own when 495 other companies and subdivisions "strike camp" next Saturday afternoon and return to peaceful vocations.

ROMANGERS RETURN ON MONEY TANGLE

Comely Widow and Physician Create Scene in Fordham Apartment.

BROKEN TROTH PLAYS PART

As Policeman Arrives Portly Doctor on Bended Knee Pleads With Young Woman, Object of Coast-Wide Pursuit.

Mrs. Josephine Gilbert, a young, wealthy and comely widow, according to police officers who saw her, and Dr. A. M. Walker, a portly and personable physician, hailing from Toronto, but said to be well known in Oakland, Cal., were the principal actors in a scene which occurred at the Fordham apartments, an exclusive residence at Twenty-third and Washington streets.

A broken troth, an unpaid note for $1000 and a coast-wide pursuit, with telegrams at the rate of two a day, are said to play a part in the preliminaries of the drama, on which the curtains were rung down suddenly yesterday afternoon by the united refusal of the participants to talk.

Summoned by a hurried appeal from Mrs. Gilbert, Portly Doctor went to the apartment-house yesterday afternoon and found Dr. Walker standing guard in the entry. As the officer proceeded to Mrs. Gilbert's apartment, Walker followed and broke into the room, brushed the officer aside and caught Mrs. Gilbert fiercely. Then he went down on his knees and grasped her skirts before he was dragged away by the officer and landed at the station, charged with disorderly conduct. He gave bail of $100 and started to leave.

Money Cause of Trouble. "Nothing but a little misunderstanding over money matters, my dear fellow," said the plausible physician, when asked for his side of the story. "Didn't you threaten to kill Mrs. Gilbert?"

"Positively nothing of the kind; she's a very sweet little woman and I couldn't think of such a thing." "How long have you known her?"

"Oh, quite a while. You must excuse me now, as I couldn't think of discussing the affair, even to set myself right," and the plausible doctor caught a passing streetcar.

Equal unwillingness to discuss the affair was shown by ex-Senator Fulton, who acknowledged that he was acting as attorney for Mrs. Gilbert and would represent her in any court proceedings that may be necessary. The attorney pleaded professional confidence. Mrs. Gilbert did not answer calls at her apartment last night.

Note for $1000 Figures. As placed together today his is that the two parties were once fond of each other, but Dr. Walker's conduct was questioned in Oakland and an estrangement followed. Since the time he followed Mrs. Gilbert from place to place and when not attempting to force his presence upon her she bombarded him with telegrams.

That a note for $1000 plays a part in the case is admitted. Mrs. Gilbert owes the money to Dr. Walker and the cash is to be in the hands of her attorney. The creditor was so informed, but went to the debtor direct. A scene followed, which resulted in the call for the police.

Dr. Walker is staying at the Mulino, mah Hotel. He gave the station officers deep assurance that he will be in court today, and expressed the belief that if the complainant would appear herself, there would be "nothing to it."

San Francisco Visitor Beats Man Who Annoyed Her With Attention.

Seeing a pretty and fashionable young woman throttling an elderly and well-dressed man, at Sixth and East street, yesterday, a special policeman interfered and after an effort extricated Mrs. Ed Mandelbaum, a wife of a clothing merchant in San Francisco, her husband, and W. F. Smith, who described himself as a retired capitalist, occupying rooms at the Commercial Union Hotel.

Mrs. Mandelbaum asserted that Smith had accosted her, and she retaliated with a slap on his face. Then her husband took a hand, quickly followed by the officer's interference.

At the station Smith, who intimated, made one languid effort to find ball and then told the police they might as well put him in a cell. He is held under $1000.

Mandelbaum is a member of the firm H. M. Henneman Estate, 130 Bush street, and he and his wife are on a visit to the Rose Festival.

Injured Man Wants $40,000.

ALBANY, Or., June 14.—(Special)—Alleging that he was crippled for life by an accident on the Corvallis & Eastern Railroad bridge in this city, August 28, 1911, William Costello, of Albany, has sued the Corvallis & Eastern Railroad Company for $40,000 damages. Costello recites in his complaint, which was filed in the State Circuit Court for Linn County, that at the time of the accident he was employed by the railroad company in rebuilding the railroad bridge which spans the Willamette River at this city. He asserts that when some falling timber struck him he fell more than 9 feet to the track below. His left shoulder was injured and his pelvic bone cracked, and he was severely bruised and injured about the left hip and left leg.

Lebanon High School won the championship the first year the league was formed and Albany won this year.

The "Lyric" Hornless Columbia Graphophone is remarkably compact—cabinet 13 1/2 inches square, 7 inches high, built of quartered oak throughout. Its quality of tone is beyond improvement and its volume of tone is surprising, until you realize that it has a correct sound chamber, just like that of the high-priced instruments. The cabinets of other low-priced small hornless "talking machines" are little more than empty boxes except for the motor mechanism hanging in the middle. The uninterrupted and acoustically perfect tone chamber of the "Lyric" is shown clearly enough in the diagram. But if you once hear the two types of instruments you won't need any diagram. "Hearing is believing."

Even if you already own an instrument that costs you $200—or whether you do or not—you can get your $28.90 worth out of the "Lyric" the first time you are away from the house and want good music. You can stow it away easily and carry it anywhere—boat, automobile, tent, barn, camp, lawn or neighbor's veranda. The double-disc records that complete this outfit cannot be equalled by any others in surface, in tone, or in durability; and every Columbia record envelope carries that guaranty in plain English.

The only Hornless Instrument under $50 that has a continuous tone chamber

This is an extraordinary $28.90 worth. At $5.00 a month you will have it paid for in a little while—and "all the music of all the world" at your command in the meantime and always afterward. It's going to be the best part of your Summer's fun—and you will find it so.
