

MAN IS MURDERED; HIS MISSING

Police Think Jealousy Cause of Tragedy at Collins Rooming-House.

OFFICERS SEEK STRANGER

Mysterious Messenger Who Delivered Letter to Girl in Case Believed to Know Something About Alder-Street Crime.

A blow from the nut of a heavy iron bolt, such as is used in bridge construction, yesterday morning crashed in the skull and instantly killed a young man giving the name of W. Tanner, in his apartments at the Collins rooming-house, 503 1/2 Alder street.

The body was found by A. M. Johnston, the landlord. A quiet young woman of about 17 years, who had lived with Tanner during the three weeks of his stay at the hotel and who poses as his wife, is missing. Two suitcases containing the belongings of the two are gone.

The man appeared to be better dressed than the woman. The man wore a brown suit of clothes, tan shoes and a leather belt. Both were identified by a cigar stand man on Washington street as having been frequently seen passing on the street, but he knew nothing more of them.

The woman is about 5 feet 1 or 2 inches tall, between 100 and 110 pounds, has sandy blonde hair and freckles, an irregular scar on the right cheek below the eye, a good complexion, sharp features and gold-filled teeth. She looked like a school girl, and when last seen was wearing a white serge two-piece suit and a short jacket with her skirt hung low behind.

The police believe that she may have become jealous or that jealous lover or an angered brother or relatives may have been responsible. They favor the former theory, however, as the fact that Tanner had apparently just come home at an early hour and that he had his tie and collar fast in his pocket.

Detectives Eppa, Hill, Litherland and Vaughn are working on the case.

"Do you know who they are?" I asked.

"Yes," he replied, "they are a young man and wife."

"I then summoned Mrs. Tanner and handed the letter to her. The caller said that I did not know who the man was, and that he was in the doorway, opened it and read it and craned his neck as if to observe its contents. She then closed the door and he walked down the hall."

"At the stairway he turned back and requested to see the young woman again. I called her and they conversed apart for a moment, but she did not catch any of the words and she appeared perfectly composed."

"Name Assumed, Say Police." The fact that the messenger did not give the name of the couple when he asked for the couple in "room 6," instead of by name, is looked upon significantly by the police. The officers do not believe that the man is the right name. This theory is strengthened by the fact that the initials "A. W. W." are stamped in the hat of the dead man. It is also noted that the identity of the woman is Johnson's statement that he thought he saw the name "Hazel" on the letter delivered by the messenger.

"There were absolutely no papers of any kind in the apartment, and the dead man's person that might lead to his identity."

"From the condition of the body, the police are satisfied that the murder was committed some time after 1 o'clock. Statements of a little boy rooming across the hallway, who told of walking up during the night on the round of police and of remembering that it was just about daylight, led the officers to believe that the crime was committed about 3 o'clock. The boy, Charles Walpole, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walpole, who room across the hallway, told of his experience at the breakfast table an hour before the body was discovered."

"He remarked that Mr. Wilson, referring to one of the roomers across the hall, must have been sick last night," said Mrs. Walpole.

"I heard a awful noise," said the boy, "and I think he must have fallen out of bed. He tumbled on the floor and then he groaned and groaned and groaned, and it was a long time before I could get to sleep."

"When the body was discovered, Patrolman C. G. Boon, of the first night shift, who is on duty at the Collins, was just returning from duty, and took temporary charge of the situation. The position of the body and its condition indicated that the man had entered the room and was struck by someone lying in wait."

"The body was stretched prone near the wide entrance to the bedroom, which is without doors. Back of the entrance, in the bedroom is a closet, and it is believed that the assailant waited in this for his victim. The nature of the injury indicated that the blow had been struck from a distance. Almost in the center of the head, just above the forehead, the skull had been crushed in by the impact of the blow, the wound being about an inch square and nearly that deep. Two slighter injuries showed that other blows were struck, evidently after the man was down, but these did not do much damage."

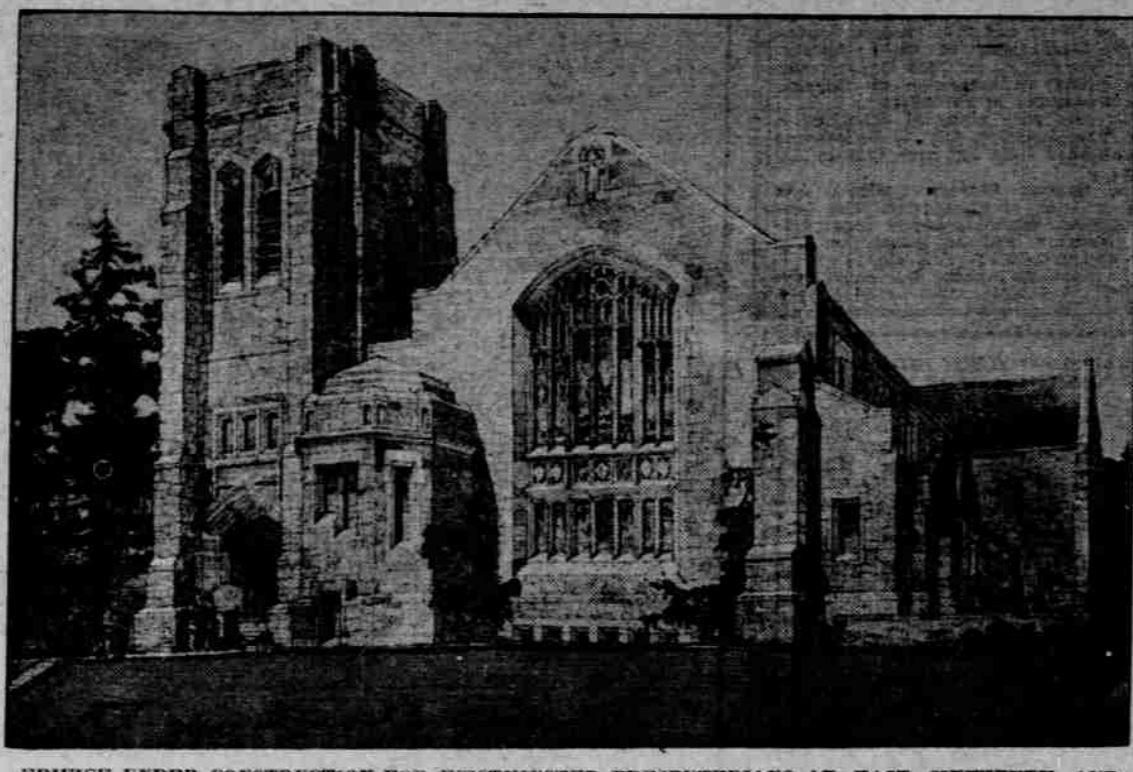

"Pockets Riffed, Face Covered." His head lay in a pool of blood, and beside him lay the fatal instrument, wrapped in a newspaper. The man's hands were bloody and had evidently covered the belt at the time of the murder. A number of the man's pockets were turned inside out, but nothing was found there but a few cents and several towels.

"As the coroner's inquest it was discovered that he had in his pockets several handkerchiefs, one of which was white, his collar and a blue tie, a carpet tatum powder and 25 cents in change."

"About three weeks ago the couple came here with two suitcases and asked for rooms. They said they had come from Albany, and the man said he was looking for work. The man came and went at all hours of the day, but about ten days ago the woman began to leave each morning between 10 o'clock and noon, from which it was judged she was working," said Mr. Johnston.

"The couple said nothing about themselves. They were quiet and orderly, and frequently went out together at night. The shy mannerisms of the woman gave the impression among the neighbors that she was a country girl, and some remarked that they believed the affair to be an elopement. HANDSOME STONE CHURCH BUILDING, FOR WHICH CORNERSTONE WILL BE LAID SUNDAY.

STONE LAID ON SUNDAY

PRESBYTERIAN CONGREGATION WILL PAY HONOR.

Seating Capacity of New Building Will Be 1200—Present Membership Is About 550.

The cornerstone of the new Westminster Presbyterian Church will be laid Sunday at East Sixteenth and Schuyler streets. This will be the second largest Protestant place of worship in the city and its estimated cost is $100,000.

The service will be held at 3 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. John H. Boyd, of the First Presbyterian Church of Portland, and Rev. W. D. Forbes, who 25 years ago established the nucleus of the Westminster church.

The new building will have a seating capacity of 1200. It is to be built of Roger Butte stone and finished in Tennessee sandstone from Washington quarries. Simplicity is aimed at and the intention is to make it one of the finest examples of Gothic architecture in the city.

Twenty years ago in a little shack at the corner of Union avenue and San Rafael street, Mr. Forbes started a small Sunday school. The idea was to develop into the present congregation with a membership of 550. Mr. Forbes housed his little flock here until the present quarters at East Tenth and Schuyler streets were constructed.

In that time the Westminster Church has grown from a little Sunday school to a congregation of 550 members to the second largest Presbyterian church in the city and it ranks in the first class among all Protestant organizations.

The Westminster church is the only Protestant building that will have an entire city block for its occupation. After the church proper has been completed, a primary and Sunday school department will be erected, forming an additional wing on the main building.

It has not been determined who will lay the cornerstones. The ceremonies will be opened with an address by Dr. Boyd. Music will be furnished by the Sunday school and church choir and the services will be given by Mr. Forbes and reminiscences by the first Westminster minister, Mr. Forbes.

BABES SEE PAPA IN JAIL

Deserted Wife to Tell of Abuse by Husband in Trial Today.

Mrs. Ernest Campbell, a frail and delicate little woman of 37 and the mother of four children, the oldest 8 years of age, will tell in County Court today, when her husband comes up for trial on a charge of non-support, that he pawned her jewelry, sold her furniture and left her without a stick of furniture and only such clothing as could not be realized upon, in order to get money to buy intoxicating liquors.

For three months the county has been paying for rooms for the mother and children at 704 Harvard street, near University Park, and been giving her a few dollars monthly for groceries. Her clothes and those of the children have been supplied by neighbors.

It was only recently that Mrs. Campbell was induced to have her husband arrested for non-support. Yesterday the babies cried to see "papa," and she swooned three times. She has been ill for a month and seems to be almost broken-hearted.

Degree Conferred on Rev. J. Corby.

Rev. James Dimond Corby, pastor of the Universalist church of the Good Tidings has received the degree of doctor of divinity. It was conferred upon him by the St. Lawrence University, of Canton, N. Y., from which he graduated in 1888, and of which he was for several years a trustee. This is one of the largest colleges in the United States. Corby has been justly added to its endowment fund. The State Agricultural School of New York is conducted by the university and it has a large law school. Besides the St. Lawrence University, Dr. Corby studied at Chicago University and Union Theological Seminary.

There is every reason to believe that the Northwest Electric Company will get a franchise to establish its plants and operate its business in Portland. The promise of keen competition by its officers has brought to its support nearly all, if not all, of the members of the City Council.

The street committee of the Council has recommended the proposed franchise to the Council for valuation by the Executive Board. This feature will be disposed of at next week's session of the Council, to be held Wednesday morning.

PHYSICIANS TESTIFY AGAINST ROBERTS

Two Doctors Offer Damaging Evidence in Trial for Double Murder.

PROSECUTION RESTS CASE

Testimony Heard Regarding Insanity in Family of Defendant—Motion to Dismiss on 4 Grounds Is Overruled by Court.

That the defendant admitted to them that he killed Donald M. Stewart and George Hastings was the burden of the testimony of Dr. A. E. Tamles, assistant superintendent of the State Asylum for the Insane, and Dr. W. T. Williamson, called as witnesses by the state in the Roberts murder trial yesterday afternoon. After the physicians left the stand the state rested.

The first witnesses called by the defense were Robert Johnson and John Johnson, maternal uncles of Roberts. They testified that they had always considered their nephew insane, and that his grandfather, Josiah Johnson, had died in 1902 in the state asylum at Salem at the age of 82. Special Prosecutor Logan tried to make these witnesses admit that the old man was suffering from senile decay, but they insisted that he had been "queer" for more than 20 years before his death.

The prosecution is confident that the defendant will be unable to establish a degree of mental unsoundness necessary to meet the Oregon statutes covering the use of insanity as a defense for crime. The law in this state requires that it is necessary only to prove that the defendant knew the difference between right and wrong at the time he committed the act.

Physicians' Evidence Damaging. That Roberts was clearly conscious of such a distinction Deputy District Attorney Fitzgerald and Special Prosecutors Logan and Malarkey believe was established by the evidence of the two physicians, who declared that Roberts said he "turned and ran like hell the other way" after the actions and cries of the men in the automobile convinced him that the shot had done serious mischief. The doctors testified that the defendant said he intended to shoot high and merely score the automobile.

From the physicians' testimony Attorney McAllister of the defense, drew admissions that Roberts talked to them in a rambling and disconnected way for five and a half hours. He spoke the words of evil spirits and declared that his enemies had followed him on a "brake-beam" trip from Oregon to Washington, D. C., and back to Oregon, through New York City and Canada, following his release from the penitentiary last summer. The defendant, they admitted, had said that these enemies, chief among whom were the officials of the State Penitentiary, had inhabited physical bodies not their own in trailing him.

Denial was made by the physicians that Roberts had told them that he came to Oregon to kill his enemies, as that was the only way he could ever secure peace of mind or that he had spoken of the enemies preceding him to places which he applied for to remove him from the state. He had not spoken of the enemies preceding him to places which he applied for to remove him from the state. He had not spoken of the enemies preceding him to places which he applied for to remove him from the state.

"I WAS COVERED WITH PIMPLES"

Blotches Got Bigger Every Day, Face Caused Everybody to Look, Had Them Nearly a Year, Got Cuticura Soap and Ointment, Now Cured.

222 W. 12th Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I was covered with pimples. First little red blotches came, and then they got bigger every day, and they would keep me awake every night. They appeared on my face, chest and back. My face caused everybody to look at me. I used everything I thought might cure them, and used to spend over a dollar a week for medicine. I had them for nearly a year, when one day I saw the Cuticura advertisement and wrote for samples. I used them and bought more. I took a bath with Cuticura Soap every day and after taking a bath I would use Cuticura Ointment. The Ointment dried the sores up, and I am cured now and glad of it. I am fine and can see one more." She Scratched and Got No Sleep.

355 W. Greenwich St., Reading, Pa.—"The trouble with my daughter started just like a rash. She was filled with water and itched something awful. She had it on her neck, head, body and her face. She scratched them until they became sore and filled with corruption, and she got no sleep. We first noticed it when she was about two months old, and she had it until she was six months old. Nothing seemed to help but only made it worse. We used Cuticura Soap and Ointment all over, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on and in one month she was entirely rid of it. She has no mark from it at all." (Signed) Mrs. William Pickett, Nov. 30, 1911.

RESTAURANT STAGES RIOT

Friend of Cashier Attacks Japanese Proprietor When Cash Is Missed.

Some glass, crockery and furniture were broken in a free-for-all fight in a Japanese restaurant at 32 Burnside street at noon yesterday. A large crowd quickly gathered and the police were required to clear the street and settle the fray.

The trouble began when S. Yuki, the proprietor, asked Mrs. Fannie Harding, a waiter in charge of the cash register, where the money taken during the morning had gone. Although there had been numerous customers in the place during the forenoon, says the cashier, there was only 30 cents in the till.

S. E. Dalley, a friend of the girl, who was standing by, took exception to the cashier's attitude toward the hearing the commotion T. Oia, the cook, ran out with a frying pan. A general battle then ensued, in which the cashier, the cook and the waiter and anything else that came to hand. Five participants were arrested.

P. O. C. PERFECT TONIC

Something more than an ordinary tonic is required to restore health to a weakened, run-down system; the medicine must possess blood-purifying properties as well, because the weakness and impurity of the circulation is responsible for the poor physical condition. The blood does not contain the necessary quantity of rich, red corpuscles, and is therefore a weak, watery stream which cannot afford sufficient nourishment to sustain the system in ordinary health. A poorly nourished body cannot resist disease, and this explains why so many persons are attacked by a spell of sickness when the use of a good tonic would have prevented the trouble. In S. S. S. will be found both blood-cleansing and tonic qualities combined. It builds up weak constitutions by removing all impurities and germs from the blood, thus supplying a certain means for restoring strength and invigorating the system. The healthful, vegetable ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed make it splendidly suited to the needs of those systems which are delicate from any cause. It is Nature's Perfect Tonic, free from all harmful minerals, a safe and pleasant acting medicine for persons of every age. S. S. S. rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling so common at this season, improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the stomach, acts with pleasing effects on the nervous system, and reinvigorates every portion of the body.
