

COLONEL MARK FOR FOLLETTE'S RE

Blame for Division of Progressives Placed on T. R. and His Followers.

USE OF CASH IS DEPLORED

Wisconsin Man Says That Men Notoriously Identified With Big Interests Were Most Active for Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Senator La Follette has written the following editorial in the current number of "La Follette's Weekly":

"Until Roosevelt came into the open as a candidate for the Presidency, five months ago, there was a strong and rapidly growing progressive movement within the Republican party. It was based upon clearly defined principles. It stood forth as the representative of modern political thought on fundamental democracy. It had assumed National proportions. It was united."

"Into this movement, when it gave promise of National success, Roosevelt projected his ambition to be President a third time. He spent weeks carefully planning a 'spontaneous call' for himself. He responded by announcing that he would be a 'receptive' candidate. His candidacy began to drag. He and his friends were in despair. Then came his defeat in North Dakota. He became desperate."

Expenses Said to Be Great.

"An enormous campaign fund was raised. Headquarters were opened in New York, Washington, Chicago and states east and west. Newspaper writers were engaged at large prices to boom his candidacy. Special trains were hired and the 'receptive' candidate started in a frantic pursuit of the nomination."

"In the history of American politics there has never been in a preliminary campaign for a Presidential nomination an approach to the extravagant expenditures made in his campaign. Men notoriously identified with the steel trust and the harvest trust became his most active supporters. Leading reactionaries, standpatters and political bosses of the Hanna and Quay sort became his closest political friends and representatives in many states."

"A number of the new recruits to the Republican progressive cause, men who before 1910, with three or four exceptions, had been either indifferent or opposed to the progressive movement, became the noisiest supporters of Roosevelt, the 'winner.' It mattered not to them that Roosevelt had co-operated with Aldrich on legislation during the entire seven years he was President. They forgot that it was only when Roosevelt was out of office and in Africa, through the united efforts of men who for years had been fighting special interests, that the progressive cause became a National movement. That Roosevelt was for Taft in 1910 when Taft was denouncing all progressives as pirates and traitors; that he waited until little more than a year ago, balancing the chances, before deciding whether to cast his lot with the progressives in this Presidential year, counted for nothing with the class of progressives who wanted to 'win'—not a real progressive victory—just a victory."

Standard States Carried.

"And they did win precisely that kind of a victory. They carried overwhelmingly the great standpat states of Illinois and Pennsylvania. That stamped the Roosevelt candidacy with its true character. No real progressive could have secured anything like such a vote in either of these two states. It had, however, the outward semblance of success, the sort of success that intoxicates—that catches the crowd. It enabled Roosevelt to win in two or three really progressive states. Fortunately it did not enable him to secure the nomination which would have compromised the progressive movement and defeated real achievement for years."

"Upon Theodore Roosevelt and his followers rests the responsibility of having divided the progressives in their first National contest. Stimulated by an overmastering desire to win, they denounced loyalty to conviction and principle as stubborn selfishness. In the convention they put forward no platform—no issues. They made no fight against the reactionary platform adopted. They substituted vulgar personalities and the coarse epithets of the press for the consideration of the great economic problems and for the time being brought ridicule and contempt upon a great cause."

"But the progressive movement does not consist of a few self-constituted leaders. It consists of millions of thoughtful citizens joined together by a common belief in certain principles. They will permit no combination of special interests and political expediency to secure control of the progressive cause, which is ultimately to redeem democracy and restore government to the people."

OREGON BOLTERS SCORED

Tactics of Heney and Johnson Held Responsible for Non-Appearance of "Dark Horse"—Ackerson and Dr. Coe Flayed.

Mr. Ackerson, sat still in their seats and refused to vote.

Colonel's Rules Used.

"While I was then and am still a supporter of Mr. Taft and may be prejudiced to an extent, I can honestly say that after hearing the contests as I heard them I think no honest man can say Roosevelt was robbed or jobbed. All the contests were decided under the rules promulgated four and eight years ago by Roosevelt himself, and if Taft had any advantage by those rules, Roosevelt obtained the same advantages when he had control of the convention."

"The methods adopted by the Roosevelt managers in having Roosevelt appear in Chicago and the bulldozing methods of Heney and Governor Johnson had more to do with the defeat of Roosevelt than anything else. In my opinion Hadley, Cummins or La Follette could have been nominated if Roosevelt had released his delegates and asked them to vote for any one of the 'dark horses,' but the Colonel wouldn't do this. He forced his delegates to sit in the convention and not vote, fearing that if they voted for any other progressive candidate enough delegates would go along to nominate, thereby depriving him of the opportunity of crying 'chief' in organizing a third party with himself as nominee."

"As to Delegates Coe and Ackerson I believe they did more to place Oregon in a false position before the country at large than all other influences. They took special pains to be interviewed by the Chicago papers, and said that in case Roosevelt bolted, the Oregon delegates would bolt with him and the state central committee and the five Oregon electors would go to the third party with him. This statement put Oregon in a false light before the Nation. Coe and Ackerson were the only two Oregon delegates who bolted. The other eight remained and voted. The regular Republican state central committee will not act as a committee support any third-party movement, and, further, I feel sure that the Presidential electors will support and vote for President Taft if he carries Oregon."

Two Refuse to Be Soldiers.

"Messrs. Coe and Ackerson acted more like madmen than duly elected delegates from a great state like Oregon. It is reported that Dr. Coe is to be chairman and Mr. Ackerson secretary of the third-party movement in Oregon and I feel sure that unless they are selected to manage the campaign for Roosevelt in Oregon they will refuse to join the movement. They feel they are great leaders and want to submit to being ordinary soldiers in the ranks."

"They will claim in justification of their refusal to carry out the instructions to vote for Roosevelt that Roosevelt asked them not to vote for him. Roosevelt might have released them from the right to vote for him but he had no power to release them from voting for Senator Borah for Vice-President, which they failed to do."

"Much has been said by Dr. Coe and Mr. Ackerson about being robbed of their portion of tickets to the convention. It has been the custom all ways that each delegate receive one ticket for himself and one for a guest, and each alternate is entitled to a ticket for himself. The National committeeman from each state is entitled to 15 tickets for the reason that he has more calls for tickets than the others. At this convention Oregon had no alternates, so I got 10 additional seats, all of which went to delegates, making three for each. By being on the sub-committee of arrangements I was enabled to get more tickets than were provided in the usual way. I gave to Oregon people, Democrats, Republicans, women, girls and young men of Eastern schools 110 tickets, probably a greater proportion than any other state in the Union. No person living in Oregon applying for tickets was refused. I was glad to do this notwithstanding the fact that I was charged by two self-styled patriots with robbing them of their tickets in order to supply 10 Oregon girls who were visiting Chicago."

"The weather in Chicago was unusually fine. After passing five of the last seven months in the East I am sure that Oregon is the best place on earth."

Democrats Plainly Divided. His View of Situation.

NEW PARTY PLANS MADE

Colonel Declares That Complete Ticket Will Be Prepared for New York, but Procedure in Other States Undecided.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 28.—George W. Perkins, of New York, and a delegation from Brooklyn came to Oyster Bay yesterday to confer with ex-President Roosevelt in regard to the organization of the Progressive party. The Colonel said tonight that plans for the party in New York State were well under way.

"There will be a complete ticket from President down to school superintendent in each district." In other states, he added, it has not been decided what methods will be pursued.

Colonel Roosevelt said today that the Baltimore situation was shaping itself in a way which he believed of advantage to the new party. He expressed the opinion that the course of events in Baltimore had demonstrated the strong influence of the men whom Mr. Bryan designated as the representatives of Wall street.

"If Governor Wilson or some other progressive is nominated now," said the Colonel, "the effect will be largely lost after this long wait. If they had got solidly together at the beginning, behind Wilson or some other man it might have helped them. But it is plain now that they are divided."

William H. Hotchkiss, State Superintendent of Insurance under Governor Hughes, is expected at Sagamore Hill soon to consult with Colonel Roosevelt about the organization of the new party in New York State.

BYRAN BOOMS AS NEW DEADLOCK

With Compromise Efforts in Vain Democrats May Turn Again to Nebraskan.

MANY STATES WAVERING

Delegates From Washington and Idaho Are Said to Be Prepared to Join "Peerless One" if He Gives Signal.

BALTIMORE, June 28.—Again it looks as though the Democratic party might have to nominate William J. Bryan to break the stubborn deadlock that has existed all day. Numerous conferences between leaders have failed to bring about a compromise agreement on any acceptable ticket.

Efforts have been made to bring about a compromise on Kern for President and Underwood for Vice-President, but the Clark and Wilson leaders have rejected such suggestions and the situation tonight is as uncertain as at day-break this morning, when the first ballot was recorded.

Clark has held his strength throughout numerous ballots, today, making gains tonight, which has been a surprise to most of his opponents, as it was thought Clark's following would scatter after the second or third ballot. But while their candidates are holding their own, the Clark and Wilson leaders have not been in a frame of mind to entertain a suggestion of compromise. Each side is holding out in the hope a break will occur in the ranks of the other.

Kern Suggests Kern.

The suggestion of Kern as a compromise came from Bryan, and is understood to be satisfactory to the New York leaders. New York's 30 votes were cast repeatedly for Harmon to hold them together for a candidate having strength outside of New York. It looks now as much as ever as though Bryan would be a big factor in the selection of whatever compromise candidate ultimately may be nominated. While he has not seriously figured in the balloting today, he is known to have a large block of delegates at his command if the deadlock continues—probably more than a third of the convention. With this strength he probably can come close to naming the candidate, if he does not offer himself as that candidate.

Ten of the 14 delegates from Washington and six if not all the eight from Idaho can be counted upon by Bryan when the break comes and there are many other states approaching a condition of mind where a break will be the signal from Bryan to change their votes.

Negotiations for the Kerns-Underwood compromise have not been done, but the fact that the Wilson and Clark leaders are holding out obstinately makes it uncertain.

SOCIETY WILL SEE SPORT

Best Horses of City Entered in Hunt Club's Spring Events.

Everything is in readiness for the annual Spring race meet of the Portland Hunt Club, which will be held this afternoon at the club grounds at Garden Home. Since the recent rain the half-mile track has been harrowed and rolled, and is said to be in good condition for fast going. The grandstand, which will seat about 1,000, has been put in first-class order, and the pretty clubhouse made ready for the reception of visitors.

Fifty or more beautiful saddle horses owned by members of the club have been entered in the various events. They have been in training for three weeks and are in fine fettle. In nearly every instance the horses will be ridden by their owners.

Much interest is manifest in the meet both from a society and a racing standpoint.

Of the seven events four will be for men, two for women and one for junior members of the club. The chief running races will be the five-eighths mile dash and the mile steeplechase. The mile trot and the half-mile tandem trot for women will be among the show features of the afternoon.

Among the special guests of the club this afternoon will be Major Rosa, of Coronado, Cal., one of the most expert polo players on the Pacific Coast. He recently arrived from the East with a splendid string of polo ponies on a tour of the Northwest, and will remain in this city as the guest of the Waverly Polo Club for two or three weeks.

The race began when the first Mr. Campbell was seriously ill aboard the train and had to be removed to a hospital at Salt Lake City. Relatives here have been advised that the condition of Mrs. Campbell is quite serious.

McCusker Due Tomorrow

Oregon Delegates to Chicago Will Return Single File.

Thomas McCusker probably will be the first of the Oregon delegation to the Chicago convention to return to Portland. He is due some time tomorrow, but may not arrive before Monday. Most of the delegates had personal business to attend to following the convention, and this will necessarily delay their homecoming.

H. C. Campbell would have arrived yesterday but for the fact that Mrs. Campbell became seriously ill aboard the train and had to be removed to a hospital at Salt Lake City. Relatives here have been advised that the condition of Mrs. Campbell is quite serious.

Charles W. Ackerson is expected to return Monday. C. H. Carey will be home Tuesday. No word has been received here from either Frederick W. Mulkey, who managed the Roosevelt campaign in Oregon, or Dr. H. W. Coe, radical Roosevelt member of the delegation. Both are presumed to have remained in Chicago a few days for conferences with the managers of Roosevelt, who proposed the third party.

It is not known when the other five Oregon delegates will return. They are: D. D. Hall, of Mosier; A. V. Swift, of Baker; Daniel Boyd, of Enterprise; Dr. J. N. Smith and Fred S. Byrnes, of Salem.

Falls City to Celebrate.

FALLS CITY, Or., June 28.—(Special.)—Preparations are being made to entertain a large crowd that is expected here July 4, to attend the old-fashioned basket picnic planned for that day. State School Superintendent Alderman is expected to make the principal address.
