Where Will Products Exhibit Exhibit, Is Plea.

PRIZE WILL BE AWARDED

Great Red Apple Given to Locator of Location for Pacific Northwest Display to Be Held Here November 18 to 23.

Wanted-A location. This is the plaint of the board of directors of the Pacific Northwest Land Products Show.

Anyone who can locate a location should communicate with them at once. Probably a liberal reward will be paid for one, if delivered to Secretary Bond at the Commercial Club. No ordinary little location will do. It must be of the hand-picked, fullsize variety and must, moreover, be conveniently placed so as to be easily reached by Portland people, as well as by the thousands of visitors who are expected to be in the city November 18-23.

A number of places have been suggested to the special committee on lo-cation appointed at a recent meeting of the board of directors. These men have under consideration the Gipsy Smith Auditorium, the Armory and a block of ground downtown, where, if block of ground downtown, where, it necessary, it is possible a temporary display pavilion might be erected for the week of the land show.

There are objections to all these places, and to settle on the best place to hold the exposition of soil products the profile Northwest states prom-of the Pacific Northwest states promises to be the most vexing problem with which the directors will have to deal. They have their minds fully made up as to the purposes and scope of the show and have taken steps to location is causing worry in the minus of all those interested.

This subject was discussed at the meeting of the board of directors yesterday at the Commercial Club and it was the consensus of opinion that a big red apple should be given to the one who could suggest a solution of the problem of where to hold the land show.

The time was more easily disposed The time was more easily disposed of. Dates were fixed for November 1s-22. E. L. Thompson was added to the board of directors, and the Press Club, the Ad Club, the East Side Business Men's Club, the Rotary Club and the Progressive Business Men's Club were added to the list of organizations backing the show, it having been learned that the above clubs are been learned that the above clubs are heartly in sympathy with the exposi-

It was decided to have a publicity committee to arrange stunts and at-tract attention, and J. Fred Larson was named chairman, while the remainder of the committee will be appointed later. Chairman John S. Beall pre-sided at yesterday's meeting, and there was a full attendance of di-
