

CAMORRISTS FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Verdict Against Nine Principals Unanimous—Long Sentences Given.

PRISONER SEVERS THROAT

Convicted Men Scream and Rage in Cage When Judge Pronounces Doom—One With Piece of Glass Tries to Die.

VITERBO, Italy, July 8.—The Camorrist who have been on trial for nearly two years on the charge of having murdered Gennaro Guoccolo and his wife in June, 1906, were today adjudged guilty in varying degrees. Verdict declares Corrado Sortino guilty of both murders; Nicolo Morra, Antonio Carrato and Mariano Di Gennaro guilty of the murder of Guoccolo and Giuseppe Salvi guilty of the murder of Guoccolo's wife.

Enrico Alfano, the alleged leader of the Camorristi; Giovanni Repl, Di Marinis and the others are convicted of being instigators of the crime and members of a criminal organization.

Long Prison Terms Ordered. The president of the court sentenced the condemned men, Sortino, Corrado, Salvi, Morra, Di Gennaro, Alfano, Repl and Di Marinis were sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment each; Di Mattio to ten years and six months; Vitozzi, the priest, seven years' imprisonment and two years' surveillance.

When the accused were placed in the iron cage to the court, Di Marinis suddenly drew forth a piece of glass and cut his throat. The other prisoners screamed and shouted invectives and imprecations. Ralph shouted: "The innocent blood is crying for revenge."

Prisoners Rage in Cage. Alfano raged around and recalled the death of his brother, who he cried was a "victim of injustice and a man who had suffered the martyrdom of innocence."

Vitozzi knelt weeping and praying. All the prisoners acted like maniacs and the carabinieri had difficulty in forcing their way into the cage to maintain order and carry out the wounded Di Marinis.

The pronouncement of sentence was received with uproar of protest from the condemned men. One of them shouted: "We are innocent. This is legal assassination."

Some took their hats at the judge and others tore at the bars of the cage. They attempted to jump over the bars and were thrown back by the carabinieri.

In addition to the police and carabinieri within the building, a battalion of troops with fixed bayonets was drawn up outside. It was feared an attempt might be made to rescue the prisoners.

Prisoner Insists on Death. Di Marinis is in a serious condition. The glass with which he attempted suicide severed an artery. It was tied, but Di Marinis, the moment he was left alone, tore off the bandages and reopened the wound. Surgeons again dressed his injuries, but the wounded man declared that he was determined to die.

The verdict as a whole proved a surprise and all are agreed that the severity of the sentences is the last blow to the Camorra, which virtually has been annihilated since the arrest of its leaders.

The verdict in the Camorra trial today is the culmination of the trial which has lasted nearly two years and has stirred the world by the ramifications of the criminal association known in Italy as the Camorra.

The direct accusation was the murder of Gennaro Guoccolo, one of the members at Torre del Greco, and of his wife, Maria Cuccinelli Guoccolo. Their deaths were supposed to be executions ordered by the Camorra.

The leader of the Camorra, Enrico Alfano, known as Enrico, was arrested in Brooklyn, N. Y., and taken to Europe by Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino, a New York detective, and handed over to the Italian police at Havre, France. Lieutenant Petrosino afterwards was assassinated at Palermo and the crime laid at the door of the Camorra.

The Italian prosecuting authorities found it difficult to obtain evidence, but one of the Camorristi, Gennaro Abbatemaggio, turned informer, and his evidence finally led to conviction. More than 700 witnesses were heard.

LEECH TELLS WEATHER
Actions of Insect in Jar Will Tell Just What to Expect.

Answers, London. A leech kept in a glass jar of water is an excellent weather prognosticator. The jar should contain about three gills of water, which should be changed once a week in summer, every ten days in winter.

When the leech lies at the bottom of the jar and curled up in spiral form you may reasonably rely on fine weather. If, however, it creeps up to the top of the jar and remains there, rain is coming.

When the leech darts about its lodging with great swiftness, it is not suffering from a pain, but is telling you to look out for wind.

If a hurricane is on its way the leech will be more out of the water than in and will have convulsive movements. The jar, by the way, should be only partially filled with water, while the top should be covered with muslin.

When Jack Frost is going to pay a visit the leech behaves as when foretelling fine weather. He lies at the bottom of the jar; but when snow is coming he climbs right up to the mouth of the jar and sticks there.

Tobacco as Medicine. At one time tobacco was very largely prescribed in medicine, and even today considerable quantities are so made use of.

General Chapman records that he was cured of a severe sprain simply by a poultice of tobacco leaves. As an external remedy for wounds and bruises and sprains, a wet tobacco poultice is commonly used in all countries where tobacco is grown.

In sore throat, erysipelas, scalds and swellings of various kinds, tobacco good effect. It seems to increase the pain for a few minutes, but afterward acts as a sedative and allays the suffering. It may take as much as two hours to produce the soothing effect, but the result is usually that the sufferer is enabled to sleep and inflammation entirely subsides.

Moist tobacco is one of the best cures imaginable for the bite of any poisonous insect. Ordinary leaf tobacco well soaked and tied over the bitten spot takes the pain away rapidly and brings down inflammation.—Family Doctor.
