

LIQUOR RAMBLES IN HANFORD CASE

Concentration on Intemperate Habits of Judge Almost Failure.

NIGHT SESSIONS IN ORDER

Attorney and Former Tobaccoist Testify That Jurist Dozed in Court and Was Intoxicated in Cars—Others Appear.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 11.—The House judiciary sub-committee which is investigating the alleged misconduct of United States District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford rambled from one subject to another all day, making an effort, however, to concentrate on an inquiry into the judge's alleged intemperate habits.

Any mention of the Sullivan will case or the Heckmann and Hanson bankruptcy, however, took the committee off the track.

The first of the night sessions was held tonight.

Lawyer Says Judge Dozed.

The first witness this afternoon, Frank A. Paul, an attorney, testified that Judge Hanford dozed on a stoppage on June 11, 1911, when witness was in court, dozing off occasionally, did not always rule immediately and sometimes was addressed a second and even a third time before he responded.

On another occasion, witness testified, he had seen Hanford on the street several times, and might have been intoxicated, witness testified.

Hanford Caught Asleep.

J. G. Zonig, a former tobaccoist, testified that on one occasion he entered a streetcar, seated himself and noticed the odor of whisky, looked around and observed Hanford seated behind him.

On cross-examination witness admitted that he had been fined and imprisoned by Hanford for violating the internal revenue tobacco law.

L. C. Turner and Ira C. Bronson, attorneys, were examined concerning the proposed disbarment of Attorney Jeremiah Hinch for making charges against Richard A. Ballinger.

A newspaper reporter was examined concerning an article written by him in which it was said to be Hanford's belief that he was being pursued by a white slave syndicate.

PIONEER OF 1859 LIVES AT EUGENE WITH THREE MORE GENERATIONS.

EUGENE, Or., July 11.—(Special.)—Mrs. Catherine Norton, a pioneer of 1859, is now making her home in Eugene, near her daughter, granddaughter and great-granddaughter.

Mrs. Norton came to Oregon from San Francisco in 1859, shortly after she was married. She had reached San Francisco by way of Panama on a trip made memorable by the death at sea of between 300 and 400 of the passengers and crew from the ravages of cholera.

Included in the number who died was Mrs. Norton's sister, who was married just a few days before leaving for the West.

Mrs. Norton's daughter, Mrs. W. L. Hetich, is a native Oregonian, having been born in the John Day country.

Mrs. Hetich's daughter, Mrs. L. C. Aya, was born in Portland, and the little one, Mary Margaret Aya, first saw the light of day at Eugene.

OLDS CASE NEAR END

Judge Hinkle Gives Instructions to Jury Body.

TESTIMONY IS RIDICULED

Attorney for Prosecution Declares Witness Who Said Dead Doctor Boasted of Right to Beat Wife "Told Lie."

SPOKANE, Wash., July 11.—(Special.)—Testimony of the actions and conduct of Dr. W. H. Olds prior to the alleged homicide should not be considered as a justification or excuse of the act charged, but has been permitted to show the condition of the mind of the defendant and the deceased.

It was 11:15 o'clock this morning before Judge Hinkle had finished instructing the jury and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney R. L. McWilliams began immediately his opening plea.

Mr. McWilliams ridiculed the story that Dr. Olds went to the races in an automobile with Spokane men.

He referred sarcastically to the discrepancies in the testimony regarding the amount of whisky consumed on the trip.

"The man who told that Dr. Olds had said, 'If I cannot beat the races, I can beat my wife,' told a lie," he shouted.

Making his announcement good in part, he pictured Della Olds as a ragging fury and Dr. Olds as a meek, obedient husband, with the one fault of drinking at times.

THROUGH FILLS STREETS

at no time was the way blocked nor the parade interfered with.

Whenever the line bled the police were there quickly and the files automatically reeled and straightened.

Portland's streets were not big enough to hold the throngs, and every vantage point held its hundreds and thousands.

The roofs, windows and fire-escapes of every building along the route of the parade in the business center held their hundreds and thousands, and on Grand avenue, on the East Side, buildings similarly were crowded. Hundreds of children and even their elders clung precariously to telegraph poles.

Hot of Color Flutters.

The watching throngs were brilliant in a medley of colors, royal purple and white predominating. Pennants fluted bewilderingly through the maze.

confetti was tossed broadcast, colored paper streamers cob-webbed the entire line of march, and from several of the big grandstands the spectators showered the marchers with rose petals.

The crowds were tenuous yesterday. They cheered the bands more than generously, and "rags" were their favorites.

It was impossible for them to find vent for their enthusiasm in mere applause. When some band would play "Everybody's Doin' It," "O, You Beautiful Doll," or some other popular favorite, they wanted to dance, but sardines can't "rag," and that's like what the average person packed in with 325,000 others felt yesterday.

They could sing, though, and when the police band, heading the parade, halted at Sixth and Washington for half an hour and played "Everybody's Doin' It" the crowd sang.

Food Places Fill Quickly.

When the parade had passed the throngs remembered that they were hungry. The hotels, restaurants, cafeterias and every place where food was to be had, were filled in an amazingly short time, while hungry hundreds stood outside impatiently awaiting their turn.

There seemed to be no limit to the vocabulary and lung capacity of the onlookers. When there were no more flowers or colored streamers to throw the province of the court to declare the act invalid or void. ROADWAY GETS FINE START

With $17,000 in Fund Franklin County Lets Contract.

PASCO, Wash., July 11.—(Special.)—The county commissioners of Franklin County met yesterday for the purpose of letting a contract for building a paved roadway, the first to be paved in this county.

The state road fund available for this purpose and the contract was let for $17,000. As the property owners along the route of the new road have agreed to pay 15 per cent of the cost of building, it is thought that two and a half and possibly three miles of road can be built.

The road will commence at the corner of the corporation limits northwest of town and extend up the Columbia River. The contract was let to the Inland Empire Paving Company of Spokane. It is expected that the road will become a part of a permanent hard surface highway to the Coast.

Mention of Black Bear at Fishing Stream Is Disconcerting.

WAHIAKACUS, Wash., July 11.—(Special.)—Today about noon a bunch of elk were seen coming over an old Indian trail a mile below here. The trail where they were seen the Indians account to be more than two centuries old. Near by the late Chief Wahkiakus says he killed with a bow and arrow in King George's reign a primitive elk that had been wounded upon the nearby Mount Sah-lee. The FOOD OFFICIALS AGREE ON UNIFORM MEASURE.

Necessity of Co-operation Between State and City Officials Emphasized at Seattle.

SEATTLE, July 11.—The American Association of State and National Food and Dairy Departments today adopted a uniform cold storage measure which will ask the Legislature of every state in the Union to enact into law.

The act relates to the regulation of all cold storage and refrigerating warehouses and the sale of meat kept in them. One paragraph provides for compulsory labeling of all cold storage food, with the date of its entry into storage. Papers were read this morning as follows:

"The Necessity of Pure Food Laws," by A. N. Cook, of South Dakota; "The Necessity for Co-operation Between State and Municipal Food Controls," by William H. Carter, of Indiana; "Should Laws Governing Food Sanitation Be Enforced Through Food and Drug Control or Through Other Agencies," by H. E. Barnard, of Missouri; "The Food Control Laws of the United States," by J. B. Bailey, of Oregon.

Food analysts in their section listened to papers as follows: "A Method for the Determination of Starch in Meat Food Products," by F. M. Fretz, Bureau of Animal Industry; "The Analysis of Catsups," by Alfred N. Cook and H. E. Bishop, South Dakota; "Compound Mustards," by E. E. Barnard, Indiana; "The Analysis of the Composition of the Oyster," by H. E. Barnard, Emma Crandall and Charles Coffin, Indiana; "Formic Acid in Fruit Products," by F. L. Shannon, Michigan; "The Determination of Fat in Ice Cream," by A. R. Mehlert and G. R. Stewart, California; "Duties of a Food Chemist as a Witness for the State," by William F. Fear, Pennsylvania.

STATE EXPECTED TO WIN

Action Against Morson May End in Victory in Deschutes Deal.

SALEM, Or., July 11.—(Special.)—Attorney-General Crawford declared today that he is confident the state will be able to carry its point in the case against the Deschutes Land Company and J. E. Morson, and that the company will be enjoined from selling assignments of interest in its land on its Carey Act project near LaPine.

"It is plainly the intent of the Carey act that no lands shall be sold or interests in lands sold under that act until reclamation is completed and the land is ready for production. This, I think, applies to the Morson project and I believe the courts will hold that the company has no right to sell options or assignments of interest."

Mr. Crawford also said he is banking on his contention that the judicial power cannot encroach on the legislative power to win the University of Oregon referendum suits for the Secretary of State. He declares that when the Legislature passes an act, even though its passage is permeated with fraud and it is put through that body by bribery and corruption, it is not in
