Special Pace Proves Neck-and-Neck Event to Finish-Zonnetta Wins One Heat in Trot When All Other Contenders Brenk.

Guy Light, C. W. Flanders' fast trot. ter, won the Class A trot at the River-Driving Club's matinee at the Country Club yesterday afternoon. sharing the honors of the second day's programme with H. T. Drennen's Miss Attelena. Miss Attelena won the special pace in 2:22 1-5.

King Seal's performance of pacing a mile in 2:11 was not besten yesterday. The fastest mile yesterday was credited to Aldine, owned by C. W. Todd, this mare covering the oval in 2:22.

The Class A trot belonged to Guy Light from the start, but he broke in the second heat, after taking the first by a good margin.

Every horse in the race, with the exception of Zonnetta, broke in the second heat. Zonnetta won the second, and was fifth and third in the other two heats. Hallie B. was the pace-maker in the last two heats, but had to give way to Guy Light.

Special Pace In Close. The special pace also was a pretty race, Miss Attelens winning both heats after a hard race with Dick Hal. The horses raced neck and neck all the two running events, one with five starters, which was won by Latticia, ridden by Copeland. Latticia covered the half mile in 49 2-5 seconds. They finished in a bunch.

The other running event was between Earl Krueger's Trixle and Lloyd Garrison's Babe. Garrison won the race after a wonderful exhibition of horse-manship, riding the horse without a saddle and giving it free rein. He was rison's Babe. As they rank today the veterans are as follows:

As the Beaver's winning percentage is .450 it will be seen that the four veterans have been doing really wonderful work. Henderson leads the tailend of the procession with five losses and no victories, while Steiger, Tem ple. Girot and Gregg have a few wins and losses scattered among themselves.

Cal Ewing of San Francisco does not think the Seals got the worst of the trade of Altman-Noyes and Powell for Wuffil, the young infielder.

Supplies Under Guard Besieged by Combatants-Battle Follows With "Blues" on the Defensive.

Referees Judge Action.

All the horrors of war, excepting real bloodshed were enacted yesterday at the Clackamas rifle range, when real bloodshed were enacted yesterday at the Clackamas rifie range, when members of the Oregon National Guard held a sham battle to test the skill of officers and men in field exercises and outpost duty. The woods were full of scouts and sples; squads of soldiers, occupied positions in ambush behind rocks and clumps of trees; companies of soldiers moved here and there, popping furiously at the enemy; bugles sounded battle calls and the rattle of musketry could be heard everywhere. For more than an hour the battle raged, the opposing armies endeavoring to capture supplies and posts of the other. The soldier boys went to the range at 8:20 yesterday morning, armed with a good supply of ammunition and field equipment for the day's work. Officers had mapped out a battle for the day, making a load of supplies, supposed to be near the Clackamas River, the object of the fray. The river was made the boundary line between supposed hostile states and each territory was occupied by an army in active service. The army on the south side of the river was called the "Blues." At the time the battle was started the situation as arranged provided that the "Reds" had seized the bridge across the river at Gladstone and had troops in the territory of the "Blues." The "Blues" were supposed to have supplies at Clackamas, and the river for the occasion was not fordable.
