

CALIFORNIA HEIRESS TO WED EASTERNER

Miss Jennie Adeline Crocker, to Be Bride of Malcolm
Douglas Whitman.

PRESENTS WORTH $50,000

Valuable Gifts Under Heavy Guard.
Whitelaw Reid Sends Beautiful
Diamond and Pearl Tiara.
Ceremony at Noon.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—At high noon on Tuesday, July 14, Miss Jennie Adeline Crocker, wealthiest of California heiresses, will become the bride of Malcolm Douglas Whitman, of Brookline, Mass. The wedding ceremony will be in the St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in San Mateo, and will be attended by the most notable assemblage of representatives of fashionable families ever seen in the state. Bishop William Ford Nichols, assisted by several members of the clergy, will officiate.

At Miss Crocker's request the church decorations will be simple, but the grounds of the old Tavis estate near Burlingame, recently purchased by the bride-to-be, will be gaily garlanded.

Presents Under Heavy Guard.
A wedding breakfast will be served to 150 guests. More than $50,000 worth of wedding presents have already been received from friends in the East and in Europe, and they are being guarded by a carefully-picked corps of detectives. At a society event four years ago Miss Crocker lost a diamond necklace valued at $30,000, which it is believed was stolen from her. One of the most beautiful gifts to the heiress is a diamond and pearl tiara sent by Whitelaw Reid, United States Ambassador to England. It is estimated that the value of the presents to be given Miss Crocker will reach $100,000.

The bridesmaids are to be the Misses Janet and Harriet Alexander, of New York; Miss Julia Langhorne and Miss Marjorie Josselyn, of San Francisco; Mrs. Walter S. Hobart, of San Mateo, will be matron of honor. Harold Fitzgerald, of New York, is to be best man. Mr. and Mrs. William Whitman, parents of the groom, will be present.

Honeymooners to Go Fishing.
Fishing licenses have been procured for the couple, and they will spend the first 10 days of their honeymoon tracking game in the mountains back of Castle Crags, Shasta County, California. In October they will take up their residence in New York.

The future Mrs. Whitman is the daughter of the late Fred Crocker and the niece of William H. Crocker, the San Francisco banker. Her grandfather was Charles Crocker, who was associated with Col. F. Huntington Leland, Stanford and Timothy Hopkins in the founding of the Southern Pacific Company. On her mother's side she is a cousin of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid and a grand niece of the late D. O. Mills.

WIVES STORM CITY HALL

Four Hundred Women Angered Because Husbands Keep Drunk.

MILAN, July 6.—(Special.)—Gallo, a small Sardinian town in the neighborhood of Cagliari, has attained to fame owing to the charge of the wives' brigade.

Four hundred women, exasperated at the slothfulness of their spouses in face of increased local taxation, resolved to make an impression on the authorities. They stormed the town hall, broke down the doors, and proceeded to ransack the archives. The small force of Carabinieri were unable to resist the onslaught, and dispatched a patrol in hot haste over the countryside to mutter as many rebel husbands as possible to the scene of the conflict.

The wives' brigade, however, yielded only when the men had actually constituted themselves a deputation of protest and had been marched by their better halves to the threshold of the Prefect's office.

DEATH COMES IN COFFIN

Rich Manufacturer Commits Suicide in Deliberate Manner.

MILAN, July 6.—(Special.)—Angelo Milani, a wealthy manufacturer of Modena, has committed suicide in some of the most original fashion. He bought a coffin, took it home, and, setting fire to some carbon in his room, took his place in the coffin to await death.

On the following day, when his maid went to call her master she found a card on his door, on which was written: Bring the undertaker to take away my body.

The police were summoned, and, entering the room, they found the coffin closed. Mr. Milani was inside wearing his decorations. His arms were folded, and lying at his feet was a document directing the manner of his obsequies and granting a gratuity to all who attended his funeral.

AGED SALEM WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Elmira Weller, 90 Years Old, Succumbs to Injuries.

SALEM, Or., July 14.—(Special.)—In her 90th year Mrs. Elmira Weller, who had been a resident of Salem since 1874, is dead at her home here at 626 North Liberty street. Her death was due to a fall sustained about a week ago.

Surviving her are the following children: Mrs. Rose Chamberlain, Miss Elmira Weller, Charles and Edward Weller, all of Salem, and Mrs. Mary Patton, of Portland.

The funeral will be held Monday from her home, the Rev. H. T. Babcock officiating.

CALLS MADE BY HUNDREDS

Social Obligation in Fashionable Circles of Paris Arduous.

PARIS, July 6.—(Special.)—According to a social statistician, the number of calls paid each season by the most fashionable people in Paris oscillates between 200 and 600. The number rises to a thousand for official personages. On the other hand, it is said that the most popular figures in society leave as many as 1200 cards on New Year's day and the following fortnight.

The much-sought-after young man receives 200 to 400 invitations each season, which is awfully like work.

SISTER OF MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR, WHOSE ENGAGEMENT TO YOUNG BROKER IS ACCEPTED AS FACT.

MISS KATHERINE FORCE.

MISS FORCE TO WED

Mrs. Astor's Charming Sister Reported Engaged.

GIRL POPULAR IN SOCIETY

Prospective Bridegroom Is J. C. Harnickall, Young Brooklyn Broker Who Has Been Constant Attendant.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(Special.)—The engagement of Miss Katherine Force, the beautiful sister of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, whose husband went down with the Titanic, is reported in New York society circles, where it has aroused much interest. The bridegroom-to-be is said to be J. C. Harnickall, a young broker who lives in Brooklyn and is only moderately well-to-do.

While Miss Force for a time shone in the society of the metropolis, chiefly under reflected light, and became known to the head of the Astor family, she since has won appreciation in her own right, for, though extremely young—being not yet 20—her beauty is remarkable and she has combined with it rare tact and the social qualities that make for advancement in a social way for the person who has acquired like an even start. The elder Forces were not particularly popular, even after their daughter's marriage into one of the socially leading families of the land, but the position of young Mrs. Astor was such that she could not be ignored, and before the great tragedy which impelled the retirement of her sister, Miss Katherine was seen much at social affairs frequented by the exclusive "set." It was here that her individuality as well as her beauty began to count in her favor, so that now her reported engagement is received with as much interest as if it were that of one of the uttermost inner circle itself.

Miss Force and Mr. Harnickall have been seen together much recently and the engagement, while not formally announced, is taken for granted by those in a position to know. The date for the wedding is said not to have been decided upon.

EXPRESS IS WRECKED
any way to blame for the accident. I know that the blocks were set against the train. I know that it was not I that set them.

Three trains instead of two passed the signals in violation of all rules, although it may have been that the engineers did not see the blocks. The first, I heard No. 4, a train in no way connected with the wreck, pass. Then in a few minutes No. 2 thundered by. I began to try to knock something to do to stop the trains from running the blocks. But before I could get my wish enacted, No. 8 had sped by. The statement does not fix the blame. The statement says:

"It was a foggy morning, and while the block signals were properly handled by the operator, the accident was due to the fact that the engineer of train No. 2 ran the signal for stop at Western Springs, and stopped his train about 850 feet east of the wreck. The next block to the west being thus cleared, train No. 3 followed, and the engineer of this train likewise ran by the signal at Western Springs, which was set at standing still, there being an interval of about nine minutes between the two trains passing the block signal tower.

"Preliminary investigation indicates that had the flagman on train No. 2 properly protected his train, No. 3 would have been stopped, but a more thorough investigation may show that the fault lies entirely with the engineer of No. 8, who was killed in the wreck. It was so foggy it was difficult to see signals until right upon them."

BRIDE THINKS OF HUSBAND

Mrs. Pohlmann, Dying, Pleads for Aid First for Spouse.

CHICAGO, July 14.—(Special.)—One cry that greeted the ears of the physicians was: "Don't touch me, doctor. Help my husband first." It was the plea of Mrs. E. G. Pohlmann, of San Francisco. Suffering the agony of a crushed back and crushed legs, the young woman waved away relief for herself and besought attention to her husband, who lay a short distance away.

As the physicians passed along they came upon Mrs. Pohlmann lying on the gravel of the roadway. The first to touch her was Mrs. Pohlmann. Hastily pulling a bit of a charred blanket over the lower part of her body and concealing her crushed limbs from view, she bade the physicians go to her husband, declaring with an attempt at a smile that she was not severely hurt. "I am only nervous from the wreck," she said. "I will be all right in a few minutes. Just take care of him."

Mr. Pohlmann was found to be suffering from broken legs and an ugly scalp wound. After his injuries had been temporarily cared for, Mrs. Pohlmann drew off the blanket and disclosed her mangled legs. It was her last conscious act. She swooned as doctors tried to raise her from the road, and stimulants were administered without avail. She died on the way to St. Anthony's Hospital. It is expected her husband will recover.

MRS. POHLMANN SOCIETY GIRL

San Francisco Victim Married Only Eight Months Ago.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—Mrs. E. G. Pohlmann, who was killed today in the wreck near Chicago, was Miss Ethel Sherman, a prominent society girl of this city, until her marriage to Edwin C. Pohlmann, of Santa Rosa, eight months ago. She was the daughter of Frank P. Sherman, president of the Carson-Currier Silk Company. Her husband is traveling representative of the Illinois Glass Company. She was 25 years old.

The couple were on their way to New York to take charge of the body of Pohlmann's father, who died there two weeks ago en route from Porto Rico, where he owned extensive coffee interests. Mrs. Pohlmann was a granddaughter of John Wieland, the Pacific Coast brewer.

DILLON GIVES CENSURE

MAYO CONSTITUENTS SHOW IN-DISCRETION IN CHARGE.

Farewell Address to Young and Popular Irishman Is Cause for Lawmaker's Action.

LONDON, July 13.—(Special.)—John Dillon, Member of Parliament, has found cause to administer a severe reprimand to a number of his constituents in County Mayo over what he regards as a serious indiscretion likely to prejudice the chances of home rule.

A young and popular Irishman, an official of the Order of Hibernians, had decided to emigrate to the United States. His friends thought the occasion demanded some token of respect and admiration, and they prepared to express their appreciation of his services to the Nationalist movement in the shape of an illuminated address, wherein were extolled all his virtues in words of "learned length and thunderous sound."

With the exception of one paragraph no one could find fault with the general tone of the document. But in this paragraph his friends expressed the hope that "he will soon return with thousands of our exiled countrymen to see floating over our Parliament House in College Green not the rival flags of Celt and Saxon but the united ensign of Ireland and America."

This document, which the recipient, who bears the picturesque name of Boetius MacDillendy, is carrying with him across the Atlantic, is inscribed with the names of the Mayo officials of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which gives it added importance and will cause Irish Unionists to fasten on it as an illustration of the kind of loyalty England may expect under home rule.

What has annoyed John Dillon most is that the "address" does not emanate from light-headed, irresponsible young men, but bears the signature of men of substance and professional standing in the county.

Lese Majeste Is Charged.

PARIS, July 13.—(Special.)—A manufacturer named M. Schatz, of Sarreguemines, in Alsace, is being prosecuted for lese majeste. The police maintain that at a meeting of the society called "Le Souvenir Francais," in a local cafe M. Schatz seized a bust of the Kaiser and turned it face to the wall, accompanying his action with a torrent of abuse in French against the German Emperor.

JUAREZ GARRISON TO BE EVACUATED

Mexican Rebels Plan Evacuation of Town and Running Flight to Coast.

PLACE USELESS AS BASE

Point Opposite Douglas, Ariz., to Be Next Goal—Orozco Has Many Offers of Aid in Making His Escape.

JUAREZ, Mex., July 14.—Bullet-scarred Juarez, once the battleground where Maderos won his revolution against Diaz, also birthplace of the present revolution and chief cause of international apprehension, may be had for the asking before the end of this week.

All indications today pointed to an early evacuation by the rebels of the border town opposite El Paso. Fewer than 400 men guard the town now, and preparations are being made for their removal 141 miles southwestward to Casas Grandes, the new rebel base on the Mexican Northwestern Railroad.

General Pascual Orozco, Jr., the rebel chief; his father, Colonel Pascual Orozco, Sr., and his nephew, Colonel Jose Orozco, are the only rebel leaders in town. All other officers and their men have been sent to Casas Grandes. The detachments still operating along the Mexican Central south of here are merely occupied with tearing up the railroad. They will ride overland to Casas Grandes when their work is done. General Orozco, it is announced, will go south to join these forces in three or four days.

Aid to Escape Offered Orozco.

Many offers are coming to General Orozco to help him make a "getaway." Several ambitious Americans, believing Juarez has amassed a private fortune of $500,000 in the revolutionary business, have approached him with schemes of various kinds.

There is no charge against Orozco or his family on the American side of the line, but apprehension that an extradition case may be made out has kept the rebel leaders from crossing into the United States ever since the revolution began.

As a port of entry and base of supplies, particularly for ammunition, Juarez has proved of mistaken value. The rebels now are after Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Ariz., and Colonel Castillo Herrera and 30 of his expert ammunition-getters are en route there to fight its way through the State of Sonora toward the American border.

Rebels Will Hit and Run.

When the federals concentrate enough forces to chase the rebels from Agua Prieta, the rebel plan is to evacuate again and run toward the Pacific Coast, taking Guaymas and other ports from which to gain supplies. "The guerilla warfare is intended to be a 'hit-and-run' affair throughout Northern Mexico."

The rebels now are assembling cattle and provisions around Casas Grandes for their westward movement. Stories of loot and confiscation in that region continue to come in.

INSURANCE ACT STIRS

IRELAND IS SCENE OF FAC-
TIONAL FIGHT.

Conflict Is Due to Hibernians Being Admitted While Foresters Are Shut Out.

DUBLIN, July 13.—(Special.)—Once more Ireland is the scene of a squabble between rival organizations. No sooner have John Redmond and William O'Brien, agreed to "bury the hatchet" than up come the "Hibernians" and the "Foresters" prepared to wage war against each other.

This latest conflict is due to the fact that the "Hibernians" organization has been admitted an "approved" society to administer the government's new insurance scheme, while the "Foresters" are left out in the cold. While both organizations have been from their inception conducted on a friendly basis, the "Foresters" have been normally militant political and consequently more in the limelight than their rivals. Its exclusion as an approved society may be due to its political leanings, but up to the present insurance authorities have refused to give any explanation, the result being that a considerable number of the "Foresters" are transferring their patronage to the other organization.

The fact that Joseph Devlin, M. P., is a leading figure-head in the "Hibernian" movement, and the fact that the "Foresters" that he has used his influence with the government in the interest of his own society, has caused the "Foresters" to feel that they are at the moment passing between the officials which are calculated to lead to an open breach unless some pacificator gets busy.

HONOR FAMOUS GARDENER

France Will Commemorate Birth of Andre Lenotre.

PARIS, July 13.—(Special.)—Andre Lenotre, the most famous gardener of history, the creator of the gardens of Versailles, gardener-in-ordinary to Louis XIV., of France, but recently has his renowned commemorative by the erection of a statue in Paris. No more posthumous honor is to be paid him.

The French Minister of Public Instruction has appointed a committee to consider the best means of celebrating the three-hundredth anniversary of his birth. The approved scheme is a retrospective exhibition of the gardening art, simultaneously in Paris and Versailles, where a chamber in the palace is to be devoted entirely to Lenotre.

Andre Lenotre's arduous creations were not confined to France, and some of the greatest gardens of Germany and Italy are the records of his genius.

INDIA HOPE OF COTTON MEN

British Manufacturers Eager to Become Independent of America.

MADRAS, July 13.—(Special.)—India's cotton crop returns are considered very satisfactory this year by British manufacturers eager to become independent of American supplies. In the Madras presidency at the end of January nearly 2,000,000 acres had been sown, which is 25 per cent increase on the average for the past five years.

Sir Charles Macara, the well-known Lancashire cotton manufacturer, says:

"If large savings are effected by the adoption of modern methods of cultivation and prices are, as a result, reduced, the effect upon the consumption of cotton goods will be surprising, especially in the case of the 700,000,000 people in India and China. In my opinion, a stable government in China would bring about such a development in the cotton industry as would provide full employment for all the machines in the mills notwithstanding the great increase in the number of spindles that has taken place during the past few years."

Of course, it cannot be remembered that the cotton industry supplies by far the largest proportion of the clothing for the people of the world, and in the development of an export of the price of the raw material would, of necessity, play an important part. It is imperative, therefore, that the present sources of supply of the raw material should be extended, and that encouragement should be given to the cultivation of cotton wherever it can be suitably grown.

In this connection I have been much impressed with the possibilities in the Indian Empire. Climate, soil, a population of agriculturists and splendid means of transport, all combine to single out India as being the country from which the present generation of cotton spinners and manufacturers may reasonably look for a steady and much-needed increase in the supply of the raw material for their industry. India would benefit materially from such a development, which would be brought about without any interference with her food crops."

It looks as though cotton is to replace opium as a source of Indian revenue.

LONDON SLEUTHS HIT

BRITISH COURTS CENSURE OVER-KEEN DETECTIVES.

Recent Arrests of Men High Up in English Circles for Pocket-Picking Is Cause.

LONDON, July 13.—(Special.)—London sleuths are so keen to root pocket-picks just now that they have been making some serious mistakes lately and have come in for judicial censure. George Butler, secretary to Lord Furness, the northern shipping magnate, was the last victim. A detective in the Strand saw a man among the crowd put his hand on the watchchain of another man who was boarding a tube train. He followed him and later detected Butler as the culprit.

In court the Furness family and others gave the prisoner a first-class character. He had been secretary to Lord Furness for 20 years and could have had any financial assistance he needed. Butler himself denied having been in the part of the Strand mentioned by the detective. The magistrate declared a "most tremendous mistake" had been made and there was no stain on Butler's character.

In another case a city man was said by a detective to have put his hand on a handbag carried by a woman getting on to an omnibus. On testing the evidence the magistrate said "the prisoner is as innocent as I am. He is charged with the sympathy of the court."

It is a dangerous thing in London these hot days to come under the eye of a culprit-hunting sleuth over-keen to make a capture.

QUEEN MARY WANTS REST

Frogmore Chosen as Royal Residence for Relaxation.

LONDON, July 13.—(Special.)—It is understood that when the court season comes to an end with the Windsor Castle garden party, July 18, Her Majesty proposes to take a rest. The Queen is in the best of health, but the strain of the London season is a heavy burden on her robust constitution. Her Majesty proposes to reside for a time at Frogmore, which will shortly be vacated by Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, whose home at Cumberland Lodge, in Windsor Forest, has just been completely redecorated and partly refurbished.

LITTLE ONES ARE SLAIN

Stasek called to visit Uhlman. He detected an odor of gas, and after several ineffectual attempts to enter the house broke in through a window. He found the three bodies.

Neighbors flocked to the house. About that time Mrs. Uhlman arrived home. She was told that her husband and two children had been taken ill and were at a hospital. She became half crazed and it was necessary to restrain her. Until a late hour tonight she had not been told they were dead.

Wireless Shock Is Received.

PARIS, July 12.—(Special.)—Electricians at Clugny-Levallois, who touched the wires of a large station of telegraph wires not connected with any system received severe shocks. Investigation revealed the fact that the shocks were due to Hertzian waves sent out from the great wireless station at the Eiffel Tower. By pure chance the group of wires in Clugny-Levallois was in a position to receive the Tower's communications.

EVER TAKE AN INTERNAL BATH?

It is the new and scientific Nature-Cure for many ills.

A most interesting method of Internal bathing is now being shown and explained by Woodard, Clarke & Co., 124 E. B. Cascade, and is different from anything else ever used for its purpose.

You have undoubtedly noticed that constipation and biliousness, besides bringing on much more serious ills, make us feel nervous, yellow, blue—unfit to feel or work—in fact, about 50 per cent inefficient.

Accumulated waste in the large intestine always causes these troubles, and the old methods of ridding ourselves of it are only partially effective. 24 force Nature, too, instead of assisting her.

This Internal Bath, however, is taken perfectly naturally—you just use the appliance and warm water—it assists Nature instead of forcing her, yet rids the system of the poisonous matter much more thoroughly than any drug.

It keeps one regular, too. Inasmuch as many thousands are using and praising the J. B. L. Cascade, and the most enlightened physicians are prescribing it, it is a proven work.

OPEN LETTER TO PHYSICIANS

You will agree that the following presents an incurable case so far as Digitalis, Nitro Glycerine, Basham's Mixture, etc., are concerned:

Chronic Bright's Disease of the kidneys, patient in convulsions nearly every day for three weeks, twenty pounds of the patient's weight being dropped.

Patient—W. E. Strickland, address 48 Verona Place, San Francisco.

Patient's physician, Dr. Kelley, told him there was no hope.

E. L. Baldwin, president of the Ferry Drug Store, No. 20 Market street, was instrumental in having Fulton's Renal Compound put to the test in this case. There was gradual improvement thereafter, and final recovery. That it was complete may be known from the fact that this was about seven years ago and he was well at last advances a few months ago.

The motive of Fulton's Renal Compound (a mild infusion) is to stop the degeneration in renal tissues and gradually relax the obstructed kidney. Then the usual heart, eliminative and tonic treatment is helpful (there is no conflict) and the prognosis changes from despair to hope. (When not extreme many cases recover under the Renal Compound alone.) It can be had at druggists.

The substance of the formula surrounds each bottle.

John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco.

OLD FASHIONED REMEDIES

Science in surgery and electricity has advanced much in the past thirty years, but the treatment of disease by the old fashioned remedies made from roots and herbs, has never been improved upon.

This may be seen by the great success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, and known today as the great remedy for female ills.

No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine.
