

MISS CROCKER HAS POLICE BODY-GUARD

On Wedding Eve Precautions Are Taken and None Are Allowed Near Home.

REPORTERS TO BE BARRED

Letters Said to Have Conveyed Threats to Heiress—Moving Picture Men to Take Films of Elaborate Ceremony.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—(Special.)—While there is no corroboration of the report that Miss Jennie Crocker, the millionaire heiress who is to be married tomorrow, has received threatening letters, it is a fact that she is attended by a body-guard of detectives and that elaborate precautions have been taken to protect guests.

The grounds of Uplands, Miss Crocker's country place at Hillsboro, are guarded and not even tradesmen are allowed to approach the house. Every one is halted at the gates and unless a pass is forthcoming no one secures entrance.

Miss Crocker refuses to talk about these precautions, but the gossip of the millionaire colony of Hillsboro is that she has received several threatening letters from cranks and is not taking any chances.

Her father, Colonel Fred Crocker, had much antagonism because of his "public-be-damned" attitude and his great wealth, derived from the Southern Pacific Company.

Miss Crocker has issued only 200 invitations for her wedding and strict orders have been given to permit no one to enter the grounds without an invitation. It is even said that no reporters will be admitted.

Striking contrast to the fact that a moving picture company has been allowed to take views of the wedding at the church and of the reception, is the fact that the grounds which will follow. Whether these views will be exhibited, like Paul Rainey's hunting pictures, remains to be seen.

Besides the exquisite color scheme of pink lavender orchids in the church decorations that will be recorded by the machine, the other details shown will be the wedding gown, which will be worn by Vivian, a cousin, who became the bride of Lord Darnley, and which is said to be as costly and beautiful as the one worn by Vivian, a cousin, who became the bride of Lord Darnley, and which is said to be as costly and beautiful as the one worn by Vivian, a cousin, who became the bride of Lord Darnley.

TIMBER INDUSTRY LOOMS

Klamath Region Business Shows Up in Fine Condition This Year.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., July 15.—(Special.)—The timber industry of the Klamath region looms large this year. The new mill at Algoma, a few miles from Klamath Falls, on the eastern shore of Upper Klamath Lake, is being rushed to completion. The superintendent, R. H. Hovey, expects to begin work next day and expects to be cutting lumber by September 1. It has a million and half feet of logs which were cut last winter, and will start a logging crew cutting more about August 1.

A new mill is being built at Chillicothe, about 30 miles northwest from here, which will soon begin operations. Forty men are at work in the box factory of the Klamath Manufacturing Company. That company is building a large warehouse, and it is planned to build a large sawmill in connection with the plant. The box factory will be operated through the season.

GRADE MAY BE CHANGED

Southern Pacific to Alter Eugene-Coos Bay Line.

MARSHFIELD, Or., July 15.—(Special.)—It is generally understood here that the Southern Pacific will change the grade of the Eugene-Coos Bay line at points between North Bend and Gardiner. In consequence of these changes it is announced that no further work will be done in the way of clearing the right of way until the changes have been made and definitely decided upon.

It is thought, however, that the delay in starting the work will not be a long one. The representatives of the contracting firm are still making preparations to start work. Material and machinery have not yet arrived but it is expected that the contractors will be here soon to receive a shipment of machinery.

BOAST IS ALLEGED

Franklin Talked of Offenses, Say Witnesses.

DETAILS ARE GIVEN OUT

One Impeachment Witness for Defense in Darrow Trial Relates How He Was Told Some One Else Would Suffer.

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(Special.)—Bert H. Franklin, confessed bribe giver, talked very freely about his offenses, according to a half-dozen witnesses who took the stand for the defense in the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow today.

In all his numerous quotations he was emphatic in his avowals of Darrow's innocence, according to the same witnesses, all of whom were called to attack the veracity of Franklin, who, while on the stand, had denied making such an assertion.

Mr. Darrow took a leading part in conducting his case and on several occasions he engaged in verbal clashes with the state forces. Twice he accused the District Attorney of trying to win through trickery.

Piotte Closely Examined.

P. J. Piotte, a postmaster at the suburb of Venice, was the most important witness of the day and he was subjected to a searching cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney Ford, which had not been concluded at adjournment time.

Piotte testified to having held several conversations with Franklin in which the latter had said Darrow never had given him the money, with which to bribe Juror Lockwood.

The witness said he was told by Franklin that money was being used to bribe Juror Lockwood. Franklin, according to the witness, also said that he had sent a message to Darrow the morning of his arrest, and that if any one called him on the telephone to ask him to go to the scene of Franklin's arrest, it was Detective Brown of the District Attorney's office.

Piotte testified that Franklin had told him at another meeting that he was not worried about the outcome of the charges against him.

"They don't want me; they are after Darrow," he told the witness.

"He said that he had pleaded guilty to the charge of bribing Juror Bain," said Piotte. "It had not cost him anything, as the state had paid his fine, but they were holding the Lockwood case over him so that he would testify against Darrow."

"Franklin told me that Fredericks was under great political obligations to him," said the witness, "because he had given him the money when political enemies were trying to get some documents connected with some trouble Fredericks was in some years ago, Franklin, who was in the United States Marshal's office, had created them."

Adam Dixon Warner, a former attorney and lecturer, testified that Franklin had said to him in the presence of the McNamara case: "I am going to win this lawsuit myself. There is an angle to this that Darrow nor anyone else knows anything about."

Alleged Boast Relined.

Joseph Musgrove, another impeachment witness, said Franklin had told him: "I will get out of this all right. I am playing the cards and before I go to the penitentiary I will put it on someone else."

Other witnesses who testified today were Tom L. Johnson, an attorney who acted as intermediary between Franklin and the District Attorney's office, and Carl F. White, a newspaperman, both of whom testified that Franklin in conversations with them had absolved the defendant of any complicity in the alleged jury bribing.

CHAUTAUQUA IS HISTORY

Successful Session of Ten Days Completed at Albany.

ALBANY, Or., July 15.—(Special.)—Completing a successful session of ten days, Albany's third annual Chautauqua Assembly closed last night. Both in good programs and in attendance this assembly excelled its predecessors and the growing influence of Albany's Chautauqua is evidenced by the fact that the number of people attending the assembly from other cities and towns was far larger than in the two former years.

Lectures in the afternoon and evening by two of the leading ministers of the Pacific Coast formed the only programmes of the closing day. Rev. E. H. Hughes, D. D., of San Francisco, a bishop in the Methodist Episcopal Church, spoke in the auditorium in the afternoon, and Rev. W. B. Hinson, D. D., pastor of the White Temple, of Portland, spoke in the evening. Dr. Hughes talked on "The Fifth Commandment in America," and Dr. Hinson on "What Albany Most Needs."

11 HURLED INTO OCEAN

JETTY TRESTLE GIVES WAY AT ABERDEEN—THREE HURT.

Crew, Pile Driver and Engine Go Down as Morning Work Is Started—Drift Wood Saves.

ABERDEEN, Wash., July 15.—(Special.)—Eleven men, the jetty engine and the big pile driver were hurled into the Pacific Ocean early this morning when the trestle work at the end of the north jetty gave way. Eight men of the engine and pile driving crew were rescued uninjured, while Engineer Ernest Nute, Driver Frank Hole and Assistant Fred Leisner were brought to Aberdeen aboard the Government tug Wilson.

The condition of the three men who are at St. Joseph's Hospital is uncertain but it is believed that they will recover.

The accident occurred early this morning, or just as the engineer, fireman and pile driving crew began work. According to statements made in Aberdeen this morning by members of the Wilson's crew, the engine used in hauling stone from the barges left the dock with a load of stone for the jetty end. When nearing the point the trestle work suddenly gave way, throwing the engine and driver together with their crews into the ocean.

The news of the accident was immediately conveyed to the Wilson and Captain Green ordered the boat to the jetty end. One of the lifeboats of the Wilson was at once lowered and the work of picking up the unfortunate men began.

Eight of the party clung to driftwood until the lifeboat reached them and soon as they were safe informed the boat crew of the probable fate of their companions, who at that time were believed to have gone down with the engine and pile driver.

Nute, the engineer, was found clinging to a timber. When picked up it was discovered that three of his ribs were crushed and that he was suffering from internal injuries. Hole and Leisner, who were given a first aid treatment, jumped from the trestle before the big pile driver crashed into the ocean, were carried down with the machinery. In the fall Leisner's right leg was badly crushed, while Hole was badly bruised about the body and lower limbs.

While the direct cause of the accident cannot be confirmed authentically, it is the general impression that the slight tide together with the drifting sand undermined a portion of the trestle work yesterday.

EMERGENCY CLAUSE GOES

Salem Passes Act Granting Southern Pacific-Weich Franchise.

SALISBURY, Or., July 15.—(Special.)—With Councilman Jones casting the only dissenting vote, the franchise for the Weich lines here, now owned by the Southern Pacific, went through with an emergency clause attached. A fight was put on the emergency clause by outsiders, R. A. Harris, state printing expert, being one of the leaders.

It is now the plan of Harris and his associates to call a mass meeting at the earliest possible moment and agitate the question of ferreting out the emergency clause attached.

WATERS RECEDING IN FLOODED CITY

Workmen Hunt in Debris at Denver for Further Victims of Cloudburst.

UNTRUE RUMOR ALARMS

Railroads Rushing Labor to Colorado Metropolis—Packing and Warehouse Districts Are Worst Sufferers in Disaster.

DENVER, July 15.—With upwards of 15,000 men at work repairing the damage done by the flood of yesterday, an army of city employees and individuals clearing away the wreckage of buildings and bridges, rescuers still searching the banks of Cherry Creek for further possible victims and the city fire department lending aid in the pumping out of flooded basements in the downtown wholesale districts, Denver rapidly is assuming normal conditions.

Railroads Rush Repairs.

Throughout the day all railroads entering Denver have been rushing additional labor from throughout this state and Kansas. Hundreds of men played in Denver have been given work on private enterprises which were demolished or badly damaged.

The reported break in Castlewood dam, emanating from an unknown source about noon today, caused consternation in the city and persons along the lowlands were warned. Scores of families moved their effects before authentic information was obtained that there was no danger of the dam bursting.

Water Rapidly Receding.

All danger from further floods is believed to be past and the water in the creek is rapidly receding. The packing-house district probably suffered the most of any individual interest. Motors and other machinery in the refrigeration plants were put out of commission. The wholesale district also suffered extensively, cellars containing consigned shipments of fruit and commodities being flooded. The aggregate loss in the wholesale district is yet impossible to estimate accurately.

Zoe Wallace, reported missing, appeared today at her home, unhurt. She had been visiting friends outside the flooded district.

SENATE HEARS CHARGES

ARCHBALD IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS IMPRESSIVE.

Representative Clayton Reads to Upper House Members List of Alleged "High Crimes."

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The impeachment of Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the Commerce Court, was formally laid before the Senate today by the committee of managers from the House, headed by Representative Henry D. Clayton, chairman of the judiciary committee.

Shortly after the Senate assembled, the House managers walked in a body to the rail before the presiding officer's desk and announced their mission. The Senate chamber and galleries were fairly well filled to witness the proceeding. It had not been paralleled since the impeachment of Judge Swaine in 1905.

Mr. Clayton read the resolution under which the House had directed its committee to present the impeachment to the Senate. About him were grouped the other members of the committee. Representatives Floyd, of Arkansas; Webb, of North Carolina; Davis, of West Virginia; Norris, of Nebraska; Sterling, of Illinois, and Howland, of Ohio.

As Clayton finished and before he could begin upon the articles of impeachment, Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, pointed out that the rules provided for a proclamation by the Senate sergeant-at-arms. The House managers retired to the rear of the chamber and Colonel Daniel Randall, sergeant-at-arms, in a voice that exactly reached the Senate galleries made the formal proclamation:

"Hear ye! Hear ye! Hear ye! All persons are commanded to keep silence on pain of imprisonment while the House of Representatives is exhibiting to the Senate of the United States articles of impeachment against Robert W. Archbald."

Clayton proceeded with the formal reading of the long document of impeachment, with the demand of the House of Representatives that the Judge be tried of "high crimes" and "misdemeanors" against the United States.

The document accused Judge Archbald of securing favor from those interested in litigation before the Commerce Court.

A resolution by Senator Clark, of Wyoming, to have the impeachment referred to a select committee of five was adopted, and Senator Gallinger, as president pro tem, appointed Senators Clark, Nelson, Dillingham, Bacon and Culberson.

The impeachment must be again brought up tomorrow. The selected committee will provide rules for the trial and report to the Senate and it will be determined whether the trial is to proceed at once or go over until Fall.

A postponement seems certain. Representative Clayton gave notice that the House reserved the right to amend its articles of impeachment, or to make reply to any representations of Judge Archbald, and adduce testimony.

All Well at Nushagak Camp.

ASTORIA, Or., July 15.—(Special.)—A letter was received by the Alaska Fishermen's Packing Company today from Dan Young, foreman of the company's cannery at Nushagak River, Alaska. The letter was written on June 27 and says that beginning on June 7, which was during the recent volcanic eruptions, severe earthquake shocks were felt there and they continued for 60 hours. The vibrations were so great that they shook the buildings and every one left them, but no damage resulted. Every one was well at the cannery and the fishing was good.

The letter also says that from there constant practically the same information, but add that on account of the direction of the wind none of the ashes from the volcanoes came to Bristol Bay.
