

HENEY LABEL SUIT COSTS ARE HEAVY

William H. Crocker Asks That Plaintiff Be Compelled to Give Bond for Costs.

BIG LIABILITY PENDING

Though Only Part of Testimony Before Commissioner Has Been Taken, Bill Already Has Run Up to $3500.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(Special.)—An affidavit filed in the Supreme Court today shows that the trial of a suit for $250,000 damages for libel brought by Francis J. Heney against William H. Crocker, of San Francisco, because of a letter written by Crocker criticizing Heney's conduct of the graft prosecution, will be one of the most costly ever conducted in the Supreme Court here.

HENEY DECLARED EXECUTION PROOF. Nathan A. Smyth, counsel for Crocker, asked Supreme Court Justice Blachoff to compel Heney to file security for costs of the case, on the ground of non-residence, and in his affidavit said that it has been necessary to engage two rooms in San Francisco for the taking of testimony before H. E. Hancock, as commissioner, and although only part of the testimony had been taken, the cost has already reached $3500.

TRIAL WILL BE LENGTHY. Counsel for Heney opposed the motion. Justice Blachoff decided that while Crocker would have been entitled to security for costs as a matter of right if he had applied soon after the action was brought, that security cannot be required when the case has proceeded so far.

COUNSEL FOR CROCKER REPLIED THAT he had no idea until just now that the trial would prove so costly. It is expected that the trial will last a month.

FRUIT LAND IS GOLD BRICK

Wenatchee Commercial Club Goes After Fake Realty Brokers.

WENATCHEE, Wash., July 24.—(Special.)—"Fly-by-night" real estate brokers operating near Malaga in the Wenatchee Valley have recently handed out scores of "gold bricks" to land speculators in Oregon and other Northwest states. It was discovered today by the Wenatchee Commercial Club Association that the brokers had been using the name of the good name of the Wenatchee Valley against the alleged fake operators.

GIRL HURLS ACID IN CAFE

Spokane Man's Face Disfigured for Life by Woman's Act.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 24.—(Special.)—Without any cause that could be learned by the police and without a moment's notice a girl entered one of the boxes in White's Cafe a few minutes before 8 o'clock Tuesday night and threw a partially filled glass of carbonic acid into the face of George Copelli, burning his entire face. Had she not closed his eyes he would have been blinded, according to physicians.

AFTER SHE HAD THROWN THE ACID, which will disfigure Copelli for life, the girl, before she could be stopped, dashed to the front of the cafe through a throng of other guests and disappeared into the street.

SNOW BAFFLES PARKER

ATTEMPT TO ASCEND MOUNT M'KINLEY TO TOP FAILS.

After Spending More Than Month in Efforts to Scale Alaska Peak Effort Is Abandoned.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 24.—Professor Herschel Parker, of Columbia University, and Belmont Browne, of Tacoma, arrived at Tolovana on the Tanana River late Monday night and reported that they failed to reach the summit of Mount McKinley. Two attempts were made, one on the north and the other on the south peak. An altitude of 20,300 feet was reached on the south peak and 19,000 on the north peak.

FORMER ASCENSIONS RELATED

Two Parties Asserted to Have Reached Summit in 1910.

SEATTLE, July 24.—The failure of the Parker-Browne Mount McKinley expedition recalls the fact that this was the third ascent of the Alaskan peak, two parties having reached the summit in 1910, when the discussion over Dr. Frederick A. Cook's claim of having scaled the mountain was at its height. The first ascent was accomplished April 3, 1910, by a party of four, led by Thomas Lloyd, of Fairbanks, Alaska. The Lloyd party attacked the mountain from the north side, starting from Fairbanks in the winter so as to reach the mountain before the snow began to melt.

IN THE SUMMER OF 1910 TWO OTHER parties, one led by C. E. Rusk, of Chehalis, Wash., and the other by Professor Parker and Mr. Browne, attempted to ascend the mountain from the southwestern side, following the route over which Dr. Cook claimed to have reached the summit. Both parties reported the mountain inaccessible from that side.

PROFESSOR PARKER EXPRESSED DOUBT concerning the success reported by the Lloyd party, but this year decided to follow the course laid out by Lloyd and approached the peak from the north. The party left Seward on the Alaska coast, early in February, and spent much time working around to the north side of the mountain.
