139 POOR CHILDREN ENJOY RIVER TRIP

J. D. Farrell Provides Day of Supreme Pleasure for Unfortunate Little Ones.

VAUDEVILLE IS FURNISHED

Young Guests Allowed to Go All Over Vessel and Enjoy Everything. Officers Ward Off Danger

Innocent sport and happiness reigned supreme on board the big steamer T. J. Potter yesterday afternoon, when 139 children from the various homes and orphanages about the city were the guests of J. D. Farrell, president of the O.-W. R. & N. Company, on a pleasant four-hours' cruise down the Willamette and Columbia Rivers.

When the steamer left the Ash-street dock at 1:30 it bore, besides its precious human cargo, great quantities of sous numan cargo, great quantities of ice cream, cake, oranges, bananas, sandwiches and lemonade—enough to satisfy each little excursionist with enough left over so that each might take home a supply for the brothers and sisters who were not fortunate enough to be members of the party. Besides all this there was music on board—a real yaudeville show quartet board—a real vaudeville show quartet and a piano. The happy youngsters and a plane. The happy youngsters gathered around the vocalists—timidly at first, then with a little more cour-age—and heard them sing the child-hood classics and the popular airs of the day without seeming to grow tired of them.

Freedom of Ship Is Given.

While they were not engaged in feasting or in hearing good music they romped about the steamer, climbing the stairs, looking over the rail into the excited water below and going almost wherever their enthusiasm might direct them. Under the careful guidance of officers of the boat and the attendants under whose care they were, they were allowed all the privileges of the occasion without becoming subject to possible danger. Even the boiler rooms and the rooms where the giant engines, with monotonous motion, put life into the vessel, received attention. When first they came in sight of the machinthen they came in sight of the machin-ery some of the children were awed— then they were entertained.

But principal interest centered on the upper decks, where the bulging baskets of good things were stored. And as soon as they were unpacked and their delicious good things spread out before the little folks scent atout before the little folks scant attention was given to other parts of the ship.

As there was more than enough to go around there was no occasion for crowding. They were all well-behaved little boys and girls anyway, and they just waited their turns until all had been supplied.

Then for a few minutes there was no sound excepting that produced by the steady munching of sandwiches, cake and fruit by the army of little pleasure seekers

Company's Officers Receive.

Time allowed a trip far down the Columbia. The return journey did not find the enthusiasm of the passen-gers abated and regret was written on every little face when the vessel neared the dock for the final landing. As President Farrell himself con-ceived the idea of taking the dependent children of the city on this trip and as he made it possible for them to go, he came in for the greatest share of praise. Unhappily he was not able to be on board, business preventing. He was represented when the steamer departed by R. B. Miller, traffic manager, and W. D. Skinner, assistant traffic calling. and W. D. Skinner, assistant traffic manager of the O.-W. R. & N. Company. A. A. Morse, special representative of company, was on board and assisted personally in administering to the wants of the delighted party. In-cluded in the crowd were 67 from the Boys' and Girls' Ald Society; 56 from the People's Institute, and 16 from the Detention Home. The boys and girls of the Children's Home were unable to enjoy the trip on account of the presence of whooping cough there, presence of whooping cough there, while the Catholic institutions are too far from the dock to permit them to take advantage of the excursion. Miss fontgomery, of the People's Institute, Superintendent Baker, of the Deten-Home and Superintendent Gardner of the Aid Society accompanied the little ones. Captain Works, Purser Van Horn, Steward Durbin, the stewardess and all other officers of the vessel assisted in making their guests happy.

The revision committee, at a meeting at the City Hall last night, decided upon a few minor changes, and instructed the cil is to be asked to pass an ordinance calling a special election, the date be-ing left to the discretion of Mayor Rushlight. Members of the committee desired that it be as soon as possible. however, which according to the law would be 61 days after the proposed charter is filed. City Attorney Grant already has prepared the proposed or-dinance calling the election. George A. Thacher suggested to the committee last night that provision ought to be made in the proposed char-ter for an additional police judge, to sit at night and hear minor cases. The committee decided that such an addi-tional judge is needed, but that it is not necessary to have a special provision for it in the new charter, as in its present form it gives the commissioners power to appoint such a judge City Engineer Hurlburt, a member of the revision committee, urged that the proposed charter be submitted to the voters before the Presidential election, as he said it would more likely pass.

VETERANS DINE TONIGHT

The expense of the revision committee has been $369.52. Of this amount $250 was for the services of a stenographer, $14.52 for printing, $100 for 5000 copies of the official paper con-taining the draft of the proposed charter and $5 for postage.

Members of the committee present last night were: Mayor Rushlight, City Attorney Grant, City Engineer Hurlburt, William F. Woodward, W. C. Benbow, W. B. Ayer, P. L. Willis, R. W. Montague and Sigel Grutze,
