MRS. FECHTL HELD

Grand Jury Will Take Up Stabbing Case Next Week. supposed, was Mrs. Fechtl, was goaded the man on. He heard bodies come heavily against the partition several times, as if in a scuffle. Then he heard groans for a long time. A Viola Mynatt, living in the room directly underneath, heard similar sounds and called the proprietor of the house. She thought the woman went for a glass of water and tried to revive the man after he fell. Detective Hyde described the appearance of the room.

VILE LANGUAGE REPEATED

Witnesses Testify of Hearing Woman Goad Her Husband On and Then of Scuffle Which Resulted in His Death. Dressed all in black and weeping continuously, while sheltered from the view of the crowd by her attorney, Mrs. Ethel Fechtl appeared in Municipal Court yesterday for preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering her husband, Otto Fechtl, by stabbing him last Sunday in the Tourney building, at Second and Taylor streets. Upon a mere outline of the case, sufficient to show probable cause, the court held the woman to the grand jury, which will take up the case next week. David Ley, who occupies the room next to the scene of the killing, balked at repeating the language he had heard the woman use to her husband.

Quarrel Scene Described

"Go ahead," said Deputy District Attorney Collier. "They're here to hear it." Ley said that from what he heard he judged that the woman, who, he

NO LOAFING IS SIGN

Chief of Police Issues Order "Go to Work or to Jail." Police Find Absence of Professional Criminals but Panhandlers and Petty Thieves are Numerous and Troublesome.

JOBS ARE TOO PLENTIFUL

"Go to work or go to jail!" So ordered Chief of Police Slover yesterday to the hordes of idle men who are hanging about the city, and to enforce his mandate he has directed the captains of the night patrols to put half their men in plain clothes, the better to come upon the idlers. "I am informed that contractors are crying out for men to take jobs at $2.50 and $3 in all parts of the city, and cannot get the men," said Slover yesterday. "Meanwhile, poolhalls, saloons and other hang-outs are crowded, and at night the streets are lined with panhandlers. Pretty soon outside work will be short and then the usual wailer cry of distress will go up. I am going to see if we cannot connect these men with the jobs, and avert much suffering later on."

Marriage Bliss Is Brief

Mrs. Ida Spenger, a widow, became the wife of J. W. Applegate, a pioneer Portland photographer, May 1. Yesterday she filed suit for divorce and also obtained an order restraining her husband from in any way interfering with her. The injunction was granted on a showing that Applegate had threatened her life. Mrs. Applegate wants her former name restored and also wants possession of a valuable lot in Multnomah Addition, which she says her husband induced her to deed to him a few hours previous to their marriage. Applegate is accused of cruelty and inhuman treatment. His wife charges that he is an habitual drunkard and irresponsible when under the influence of liquor.

CLUB HABITUES WANTED

MEN ARRESTED SUNDAY MUST APPEAR OR SUFFER.

Single Jury Will Try 45 Accused

Tuesday—Warrant for Overland Manager Not Served. All defendants arrested in the raid upon the Overland Club last Sunday must be in court or forfeit their bail when the case is called next Tuesday, pursuant to an order made by Judge Tawell yesterday. The order prevents any further complication over the identification by the police of defendants who are not present in court. While the state code provides that a defendant need not be present in court to answer to a misdemeanor, the Supreme Court has held that offenses against city ordinances are not misdemeanors within the meaning of the code, and Judge Tawell has taken advantage of this fact in making his order. It is likely to be far-reaching in effect, as defendants caught in raids where a large number are involved usually hide behind the privilege of non-appearance, and the officers are in most cases unable to identify them by name.

Popular Priest Goes to Portland

HOOD RIVER, Or., Aug. 16.—(Special.)—The parishioners of the local Franciscan Church will welcome Sunday Father Victor, the priest who will arrive the latter part of the week from Oakland, Cal., where he has been at St. Elizabeth's Church. Father Plus, who has had charge of the local church for the past two years, has gone to Portland to the St. Anthony Church. During Father Plus' administration the local parish has forged ahead rapidly. The building has been made more attractive and new pews have been installed. Father Plus was also instrumental in securing the new Catholic Church recently built at White Salmon, Wash.
