MORAL RISK SEEN IN OWL CAR PLAN

State Sunday School Association Petitions Mayor to Veto Ordinance.

BOYS' LATE HOURS FEARED

Residents on Trolley Lines Also Ask Executive to Kill Measure on

The Monks "owl car" ordinance call-ing for hourly car service between 1:30 and 6:30 A. M. has not yet been signed by Mayor Rushlight and is held under advisement, with considerable probability of a veto, partly on ac-count of certain defects which he maintains exist in its form and partly because of a storm of protest against it that broke over his office yester-tions, came not from the street railway Multnomah, people whose homes are near the carlines and who are strongly opposed to having their rest broken by the passing cars at all hours of the night.

understand that the 'owl ordiwe understand that the own ordi-nance' is or will be before you for approval. We sincerely believe that it will be for the best interests of the homes and boys of Portland if you should use your veto on this measure, for we fear that the late cars tend to encourage late hours, and while there is a small number of people who have legitimate use for such service, we feel that it would be a greater evil than good, hence take this opportunity to urge you in the interest of a great number of Christian and moral people to veto this measure.

"Realizing the very difficult prob-lems that you in your official posi-tion are continually meeting, we pledge our moral support in all mat-ters that affect the social and home life of this city for the better.

LORING C. PALMER DIES

WEALTHY VANCOUVER VETERAN STRICKEN BY PARALYSIS.

Man Who Marched With Sherman to the Sea Succumbs in Mansion on Columbia River.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 20 .- (Special.)—In less than two years after re-tiring wealthy from the lumber busi-ness, in which he was engaged at Bridal Veil, Or., Loring Curtis Palmer, 66 years old and a veteran of the Civil War, died at his beautiful home overlooking the Columbia River, three miles east of Vancouver, early today. He has not been well for six months, when he suffered a paralytic stroke.

Mr. Palmer was born in Clinton County, Iowa, June 9, 1846. When but 17 years old he joined the Third Wisconsin Volunteers, Infantry, in 1863, and served until peace was declared. He fought in many famous battles, includ-ing Resaca, Kenesaw Mountain, the siege of Savannah, the fall of Atlanta and was with General Sherman on his Bradley and J. M. Leiter and others and came t Portland under electric power.

In preparing its specifications the company has departed from the usual methods of logging road construction in that they demand grades, curvature and rails that will permit operation of standard equipment. In the 25-mile line the road attains an elevation of 2700 feet, but does not use a grade in excess of 3 per cent. The prevailing grade is 2 per cent, with a maximum curvature of 10 degrees. This will permit the use of standard M. C. B. flat cars. The Southern Pacific has mina, Or.; and Misses Elvie and others later became interested.
