The Northwest Credit High Bonds of This Section in Demand, Says Denver Financial Agent. "Northwestern bonds are in constant demand throughout the Middle West and the East," says George E. Keeler, a member of the well-known firm of Keeler Brothers, financial agents, of Denver, who has been in Portland for the last few days on business.

"We never have any difficulty in disposing of the bonds of Northwestern municipalities, counties and school districts. Eastern people have confidence in the communities of this part of the country and always are in the market for securities.

Previous to his present visit Keeler had not been in Portland for seven years. He marvelled at the remarkable change that has taken place in the business district. Had it not been for the guidance of Phil Grossmayer, an old Colorado friend, he would have become lost in the maze of tall buildings, trolley cars and swiftly moving vehicles.

Besides being in the bond business Keeler also is extensively engaged in mining operations in the Leadville, Colo. district, being one of the owners of the famous Big Chief property, which is producing constantly a heavy tonnage of carbonate of zinc. He is ex-manager of the Postal Telegraph Company and an authority on trout fishing.

He is considering now the advisability of locating permanently in Portland so that he may keep in closer touch with the Northwest.

Girl Masquerades as Boy; Caught.

Eather Romerein, a young visitor to Portland, had something of a shock yesterday, when she found herself at the police station for masquerading as a boy. With her was a youth of about 20 summers. On the investigation of a couple of worthy professors who assured all concerned that it was only a boyish lark by a girl, who was in the city for a short holiday and who was to leave today, they were allowed to leave, after they had promised never, never to do it again.
