Penrose Hints Perkins "Underwrote" Deal.

SPEEDY INVESTIGATION URGED

Archbold Is Summoned Before Senate Sub-Committee.

POINDEXTER ASKS DELAY

Pennsylvania Senator Says Colonel Ordered Return of $100,000 After He Knew That Money Had All Been Expended.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—John D. Archbold, of the Standard Oil Company, will appear tomorrow morning before the sub-committee of the Senate investigating campaign contributions.

The announcement that he would appear followed a day of bitter political recrimination on the floor of the Senate devoted to an effort to show that ex-President Roosevelt knew that funds contributed by big corporations were used to help elect him in 1904.

The attack on ex-President Roosevelt originated in a colloquy between Senator Penrose, of Missouri, Democrat, and Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who presented a resolution demanding an investigation of the circumstances set forth in his statement to the Senate yesterday, in which he charged that $100,000 of Standard Oil money went into the 1904 Roosevelt campaign fund, with President Roosevelt's knowledge.

Penrose defended Colonel Roosevelt's conduct, and said that the Standard Oil money was used to help elect him in 1904, before he was elected Senator. He got into communication with Mr. Archbold in New York by long-distance telephone and the Standard Oil official agreed to appear.

The debate between Senators Read and Penrose was marked by the readiness with which Penrose replied to Read's questions. Early in the afternoon the two Senators, with Senator Smith, of Maryland, had held a conference.

Penrose says fund was huge. Senator Penrose, in answer to questions from Senator Read, said that "according to his information" Colonel Roosevelt knew that $100,000 of Standard Oil money had been received in 1904 before he wrote a letter directing that any Standard Oil contributions be returned. A new element was injected into the political imbroglio when Senator Penrose suggested to Senator Read:

"There has come to my notice quite a lot of information leading to the thought that some $500,000 was transferred by George W. Perkins and his associates to nominate Mr. Roosevelt for the Presidency through the regular Republican party in the present campaign, for their own personal uses. Evidence regarding this matter will be submitted to the proper Senate committee for consideration. The ultimate object of this enormous fund was the control of the Republican party in the interest of the element represented by Mr. Perkins. The largest campaign fund in the history of the United States for a campaign for a nomination was raised for Mr. Roosevelt last winter."

Reed joins attackers. When the colloquy between Senators Penrose and Read was concluded Senator Read made an extended speech attacking Roosevelt.

When he concluded Senator Poindexter took the floor and characterized the day's proceedings as a "combination, an understanding and an alliance" between the machine Republicans and the machine Democrats against progressive principles. He objected to the immediate consideration of the resolution presented by Senator Penrose and a sweeping amendment presented by Senator Read, and both went over. Senator Read and Senator Williams denied any "alliance" between Senator Penrose and the Democrats.

"We hunt bull moose today," said Senator Williams, "and elephant tomorrow."

In his speech Senator Read said that Colonel Roosevelt's statement yesterday in reply to Senator Penrose and the publication of the Cortelyou letters had suggested some questions he wanted to ask. He called attention to the fact that the Archbold letter to Senator Penrose, announcing an inclosure of $25,000, bore date of October 15, 1904.

Date of letter in question. "Can the Senator state whether the $100,000 which was also paid by the Standard Oil people was paid on or prior to the 12th day of October?" he asked.

Senator Penrose said he thought it was paid "on or about that time, perhaps a little before."

The letter President Roosevelt wrote Chairman Cortelyou of the Republican National Committee, to accept no contribution from the Standard Oil Company, was sent about a week before

MISS KEEN'S HONOR IN ALASKA DOUBLE

AFTER SCALING BLACKBURN SHE SHOOT WHITE RIVER.

First Woman to Make Trip via Skolai Pass to Yukon Says Peak Climbing Not Hard.

SEATTLE, Aug. 22.—Miss Dora Keen, of Philadelphia, who led an expedition up Mount Blackburn, reaching the summit May 19 and removing it from the list of Alaska's unscalped peaks, arrived in Seattle today on her way home from the North.

The scaling of Mount Blackburn was the principal object of Miss Keen's journey to Alaska, but after she accomplished her aim she extended her efforts and traveled over Skolai pass and down the White River to the Yukon, winning the honor of being the first woman to make the trip.

"Climbing Mount Blackburn was more dangerous than difficult," said Miss Keen tonight. "We made the ascent too late in the season for absolute safety, frequent avalanches interrupting our progress. I believe that the ascent would be a simple matter if made in April, before the snow becomes soft."

Miss Keen said that she believes the height of the mountain is 17,500 feet instead of 16,140, as shown on the map.

The top of Mount Blackburn was covered with volcanic ash, probably from Mount Wrangell, which could be seen smoking in the distance.

After crossing the divide Miss Keen walked down White River 45 miles to Canyon City, a cluster of eight log huts, where her party waited six weeks for a boat to be built in which they could go down the river to the Yukon. They arrived at Dawson July 31 and then returned to Juneau, where Miss Keen took a steamer for Seattle.

SQUATTER BILL OFFERED

Lafferty Proposal Will Not Be Considered by Congress.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Aug. 22.—Representative Lafferty today introduced a bill proposing to amend the innocent purchasers bill signed by the President, by striking out section 2 and inserting a section which he urged, but which the House and Senate both rejected recently when the bill was up for consideration.

Lafferty's amendment provides that any lands recovered by the Government from the Oregon & California Railroad Company through pending suits shall be opened to entry by proclamation of the President in tracts of 40 acres, the settlers to pay $2.50 an acre.

The bill contains the old joker that prohibits settlers in future from going upon the lands prior to the issuance of the proclamation, thus protecting the squatters for whom Lafferty is or has been attorney. His bill will not receive consideration.

ASTOR WILL CASE OPENED

Infant Heir to Be Represented at Reprobating September 4.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—On the application of Douglas Robinson and Nicholas Biddle, executors of the will of Colonel Astor, Surrogate Fowler today opened probate of the will of Colonel Astor to allow the guardian for the infant, John Jacob Astor, born a few days ago, to be served with citation. Surrogate Fowler set September 4 as the day for reprobating of the will, but as yet has not named a guardian for the week-old child.

The petition recites John Jacob Astor is a minor, under the age of 14 years, and was not a party to proceedings, admitting the last will to probate and that no citation for him to attend was issued or served upon him. The state controller expects to turn into the state treasury between $2,500,000 and $4,000,000 as a result of the appraisal of the Astor estate for inheritance tax purposes.

THREE IN OCEAN 10 HOURS

Water at High Tide Reached Top of Refuge Rock.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—Edward Watson, J. Heath and Miss Mabel Slusser, three employees of the Churchill glove factory in this city, had a narrow escape from drowning at Aberdeen, near Pacific Beach, Tuesday night when an incoming tide left the party stranded on a rock out in the ocean. The three had been taking pictures and gave no thought to the tide until it was too late to retreat.

The three young people were held on the rock from noon until 10 P. M. Tuesday. When the tide reached its highest mark the water just lapped over the top of the rock. The three were exposed to severe cold, but will suffer no serious effects from their experience. It was reported in Aberdeen last night that the three had been drowned.

Mr. Knox said his trip to the Orient was solely for the purpose of attending the Emperor's funeral. He declined to discuss politics.

As a floral tribute from America, Secretary Knox has a wreath, four feet in diameter, made of magnolia and cypress leaves. The wreath was made by a Seattle floral firm on telegraphic orders from Washington.

The officers of the Maryland who were left in the Matanuska coal field when the cruiser was ordered to hurry to Puget Sound from Alaska to prepare for the trip to Japan, arrived on the steamship Alameda today in time to join their ship.

ENGLISH LASS IS BRIDE

Girl Travels Far to Become Wife of Eugene Business Man.

EUGENE, Or., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—A romance of two continents culminated here today when James Wilkinson of this city, and Miss Elsie Yeaman, who arrived this morning from England, were married by Rector P. K. Hammond, of the Episcopal Church.

Wilkinson came to Eugene two years ago and secured employment in a shoe shop and began saving his money so that he might bring to America the lass that he loved in England. Last year he thought his funds sufficient and went to his old home, but the young woman preferred that he be established in business for himself, so Wilkinson came back again, and through the assistance of friends was able to buy out his former employer's business.

Now, in addition to his business, he has a pretty little home in the part of the country he likes best, and a telegram announcing that his bride-to-be would be in Portland Tuesday evening completed the picture. He went to Portland to meet her, and the ceremony followed here.

MORE MARINES TO GO TO NICARAGUA

State Department Determined on Course.

CONGRESS IS DISREGARDED

Washington Admits Revolutionists May Be Majority.

TWO AMERICANS KILLED

Investigation of Deaths Now Under Way—Opposing Factions Not to Be Prevented From Giving Battle Regularly.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The State Department is determined to extend the fullest measure of protection to American life and property in Nicaragua.

It was announced today that if the naval forces in that country, reinforced by the naval contingent now being assembled at League Island, and the several hundred blue-jackets en route to Corinto on the California and the Denver, are not sufficient to assure that protection, more forces will be rushed forward.

The State Department is unmoved by utterances in Congress, relying implicitly and confidently on the long line of precedents, where American military and naval forces have been employed where American life and property were in jeopardy.

Special Instructions Unnecessary. The officials say that is the sole purpose of the landing of the marines and bluejackets in Nicaragua. It has not been found necessary to send special instructions to American Minister Weitzel or Captain Terhune, of the Annapolis.

When the reinforcements which will be en route to Nicaragua before the end of this week have arrived at their destination the navy will have ashore in that country the most numerous force it has ever landed in an American republic in time of peace.

Admiral Southerland, who will command the entire combined forces of bluejackets and marines upon his arrival at Corinto on his flagship Callaghan, has the confidence of the State Department, based upon the manner in which he handled the revolutionary uprising in Santo Domingo about five years ago.

Brutal Attack Not Warlike.

Government officials do not admit that the prevention of a bombardment of the unprotected town filled with non-combatants with many resident Americans and with substantial business interests within its limits constitutes warfare in the modern civilized sense, for such brutal attacks are prohibited by the rules of warfare to which the nations have subscribed under the Geneva convention.

POTASH DEPOSITS TO BE DEVELOPED

SUMMER AND ALBERT LAKES MAY YIELD RICHES.

$100,000,000 Concern Secures Lease on Valuable Beds in Oregon and California.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—It was announced today that a group of Los Angeles bankers had arranged for the bonds demanded by the state of Oregon to cover the 40-year lease of the potash deposits to be developed in that state and also to cover work in California by a $100,000,000 corporation.

It was also announced that Los Angeles will be headquarters for this organization, which has obtained for itself one of the most comprehensive charters ever procured in the United States, and which will conduct its operations under the name of the Oregon Potash Company.

The purpose of the company is to develop certain potash deposits throughout the Western United States, the principal source of supply being Summer and Albert Lakes in Oregon, which hold, according to estimates, 2,500,000 tons of potash salts in a soluble state and readily obtainable to meet market demands.

The 40-year lease on the lakes was recently granted by Governor West to Ellis Mallory and W. G. Young, of Los Angeles, and C. M. Sain, of Oregon. Ellis Mallory, a zoologist, first directed the attention of Los Angeles interests to the immense value of these lakes.

Since June 11 the lessees have been constructing evaporating vats at the lakes.

CRAP GAME RUDELY ENDED

Seven Officers Get 11 Gamblers Answering Call of "Come 11."

"Seven, come 11," chanted a horse-racer at the Country Club, yesterday, as he blithely rolled the nimble bones across a saddle blanket.

"Right you are; we are seven and you are 11, so come along," said Police Sergeant Van Over, as he broke through the rap circle of devotees of Dame Chance.

The figures were correct and not strained to fit the occasion by the officer. Seven policemen rounded up 11 attaches of the racetrack and herded them to the police station, where nine of them were booked on charges of gambling.

It has been a red hot game ever since the horses and their caretakers have begun to argue for next week's races, say the police. As if horse racing wasn't hazardous enough, the attendants have courted the dice, and at times there has been as high as $125 on the blanket, it is said. The police have been watching the quarters for some time awaiting a favorable opportunity.

CRABS NIP SOCIETY TOES

Crustaceans Worry Timid Ones in Surf at Seaside Beach.

SEASIDE, Or., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—Scattered flocks of large, grouchy crabs which appear in the ocean every day just about bathing time, and in some places for next week's races, say the police. As if horse racing wasn't hazardous enough, the attendants have courted the dice, and at times there has been as high as $125 on the blanket, it is said. The police have been watching the quarters for some time awaiting a favorable opportunity.

Several Portland society people are relating narrow escapes from the crusty old codgers, among them being Mrs. Rose Bloch Bauer and Mrs. I. N. Fleischner, whose encounters yesterday with hardshell buildups of the brine came very near being serious.

Old and experienced bathers are laughing heartily at the trepidations of those who have become disheartened. Few people, however, are willing to forego the daily advent into the surf, and those who have remained out give other reasons.

SHORTHAND RECORD MADE

New York Stenographer Averages 280 Words a Minute.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The world's best shorthand writer, Nathan Behring, wrote on an average of 280 words a minute for five consecutive minutes. The previous record was 269 words a minute.

Mr. Behring also made a new world's record for accuracy, having a percentage of 97.3. He won a silver cup, but the test was so severe that only five qualified. The dictation matter consisted of a lecture, a charge to a jury and court testimony, the rate of speed being respectively 200, 240 and 280 words a minute. A small penalty was imposed for each material error in the final transcript. Behring's percentage of accuracy on the 280-words-a-minute matter was 98.7, a new record.

TARIFF BOARD OMITTED

Conferees Agree to 400 Amendments to Sundry Civil Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Provision to continue the tariff board another year, which the Senate had inserted in the sundry civil bill, was today stricken out by the House and Senate conferees.

The House receded from its demand to consolidate the officers of receivers of public moneys and registers of the land offices. Four hundred amendments to the bill were agreed upon.

BIG LAND PRODUCTS SHOW IS ASSURED

Dairy Exhibit Joins in Elaborate Plans.

DATE FIXED NOVEMBER 18-23

Business Men Start Out to Raise Needed $26,000.

AIM IS TO AID FARMERS

Exposition, Expected to Draw 2,000,000 Visitors to City and to Be Valuable Object Lesson, Is Backed Up by Commercial Club.

The first big Pacific Northwest Land Products Show will be held in Portland November 18-23 as scheduled.

This was made positive at a meeting of the board of directors and business men held at noon yesterday at the Portland Commercial Club when it was unanimously voted to continue preparations for the show. The work of financing the enterprise will be carried on until sufficient subscriptions are received and to that end special committees will begin a canvass of the city immediately.

The dairy show, which was scheduled to be held in November, will be consolidated with the land products show. To provide funds for premiums and to meet expenses of the project it will be necessary to raise approximately $28,000.

20,000 Visitors Expected.

John S. Beall, chairman of the board of directors, declared that the show should prove of inestimable value to the entire Northwest and was of the opinion that when the real purposes of the enterprise became generally known there would be but little difficulty in securing support from the citizens of Portland. From inquiries being received from fruitgrowers, farmers and dairymen in Oregon and Washington, it is estimated that between 10,000 and 20,000 people from the outside will be attracted to the city. With a large attendance by Portland residents, Mr. Beall pointed out that the total admission fees should be sufficiently large to reimburse at least 75 per cent of the subscribers to the show fund.

"The farmers and producers of the Northwest are interested in the show," said Mr. Beall. "It is up to Portland to go ahead with the project and make it a big success. The show will not be merely a collection of fine specimens of farm products. The educational feature will be equally important. It is our aim to aid the farmers in their work and to emphasize the importance of practical farming methods."

Aim Is to Aid Newcomers.

"We want to help newcomers and settlers and show them what crops are best adapted to each locality. A higher efficiency in crop production is what we are working for. It will be one of the chief purposes of the land products show to aid such a campaign that is already under way. The advantages of the show should be clear to everyone and we ought not to have any trouble in raising necessary funds."

Enthusiastic speeches in behalf of the show were made by Edgar B. Piper, president of the Portland Commercial Club, D. O. Lively, vice-president of the Portland Stockyards, E. D. Timms, of Timms & Cress, J. Fred Larson, of Umbdenstock & Larson, Marshall N. Dana, Phil S. Bates, John F. Carroll, F. W. Power, F. L. Purse and G. E. A. Bond, secretary of the show.

"Soil education, modern farming methods, experimental stations, experimental trials and publicity of the right kind are beginning to show substantial results," said D. O. Lively.

"Through this movement the State of Oregon kept nearly $500,000 at home last year through the local production of hogs. There is no reason why we should import farm products and livestock when we have every advantage for this production in our own state. It is through the land products show that we can give visible demonstrations of soil production and show the importance of modern and practical methods in agriculture."

Railroads Promise Aid. R. B. Miller, traffic manager of the O. W. R. & N., assured the directors of the show that his company would subscribe liberally to the funds. It is expected that all the railroad lines operating in the Northwest will give generous financial support to the enterprise.

J. V. Sayre, industrial secretary of the Portland Commercial Club, was appointed chairman of the publicity committee, with instructions to conduct a vigorous publicity and advertising campaign until the date of the show.

The premium list was completed Wednesday by A. P. Bateham, president of the Oregon State Horticultural Society, and Secretary Bond. This will be published and be ready for distribution early next week.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 22.—The steamship Victoria sailed for Nome, Alaska, tonight with the last cargo of freight for points on the Upper Yukon that will be sent up the river from St. Michael. The Victoria was loaded with provisions and fresh vegetables and tons of freight were left on the pier for want of cargo space.
