ACCOUNTANTS ASK DEGREE

Bill Proposed Granting Certification to Those Proficient.

Public accountants of the state at a meeting in the grill of the Oregon Ho-tel, following the dinner given by mem-bers of the Oregon State Society of Public Accountants, discussed a proposed law, establishing a state board of accountancy, and issuing of certified public accountants certificates.

A proposed act was drawn up, which a proposed act was drawn sp, which provides that the title of certified public accountant be granted to applicants who show proficiency in "theory of accounts," "practical accounting," "auditing," "commercial law" and such other subjects as the board may determine. It is hoped that with the passage of such a law a high standard of proficiency in the profession of accountancy will be established and that business was investigated and that business was because and dealers in ness men, investors and dealers finance will benefit by having such a law. It does not exclude any from practicing as accountants, but merely gives the title of certified public accountant to men proficient in the science and art of accountancy. It provides penalties and imprisonment for these properties of a missing property and also those guilty of a misdemeanor and also the loss of the certificate and title to those of the profession for unprofes-sional conduct or other sufficient cause. Such a law is in effect in almost every state in the Union and has the support of all progressive business men in the country, who recognize the
