

BRITAIN TO DEMAND PULING BY ARCADE

Note on Canal Dispute Sent to Embassy Indicating England's Position.

DIPLOMATIC CLASH LOOMS

Though Proposal Has Not Yet Been Received Officially, Opinion in Washington Is That Request Will Be Refused.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—It is officially announced that the British Government will make a formal demand upon the United States Government for arbitration of its contention that the Panama Canal toll act, as passed by the United States Congress, violates the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Nothing definite was known yesterday except the brief official announcement that the formal demand for arbitration would be made, but it is believed that instructions already are en route to the Embassy at Washington concerning the situation.

The British demand will be made under the arbitration convention of 1903. Great Britain's contention will be that the question at issue does not affect the vital interests, independence or honor of the United States and therefore is clearly within the scope of the 1903 convention since the matter to be arbitrated is not an act of Congress, but an interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Taft Surprised at Action: President May Not Give Decision in Matter Until Knox Returns.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 3.—The announcement that Great Britain will appeal to the Hague tribunal to settle its claim of violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty by the Panama Canal act came as a surprise to President Taft. He had heard reports that such an appeal was contemplated, but was of the opinion the matter would be taken up in the usual diplomatic way.

The President was not greatly last night to make a pronouncement about the appeal to the Hague. A decision may not be reached until the return of Secretary Knox.

It was pointed out last night that Great Britain's action does not mean that the matter must go to the Hague. The United States has as much right to refuse to arbitrate as Great Britain has to ask it. Friends of the President realize that Great Britain's action places him in a delicate position. As the arbitrator of the world, he is called upon to submit to the Hague a case that involves something in which every American feels himself vitally interested.

It was pointed out, however, that the President will have firm grounds on which to base his decision. His proposed arbitral court was to have been composed of citizens of the two countries in dispute and might therefore be expected to issue a "square deal" to the parties to the issue.

The Hague court, however, would not contain a number of Americans equal to the number of Europeans and other countries. All Europe feels much as Great Britain does about the Panama act and a tribunal composed largely of Europeans could hardly be just to America.

President Taft was aware when he approved the Panama act that further trouble with Great Britain would result. He is said to have been reluctant, but in the belief that if arbitration became necessary the work of setting up the machinery to operate and this part of the law urgently was needed and he told friends that if arbitration were resorted to and the United States defeated, the Panama Canal would have plenty of time to remedy the situation.

NO COMPLIANCE IS EXPECTED: Belief in Washington Is That United States Will Demand.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—When informed last night that the British government would make formal demand on the United States for arbitration of the dispute over the Panama Canal tolls, Huntington Wilson, acting Secretary of State, said he had no comment to make. That such a demand formally would be made had been expected in the State Department ever since the second note from the British government on the subject. From the attitude of this government, thus far, with relation to the dispute, the opinion here is general that the United States will not yield to the demands of Great Britain and its fight to relieve its coastwise shipping from tolls in the Panama Canal without a prolonged diplomatic struggle.

MAN ASLEEP, IS CHOKED

Intruder in Eugene Home Sought Victim's Wife, Is Believed.

EUGENE, Or., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—On the supposition, it is believed, that the husband was away from home, an unidentified man entered the rooms of Frank Douglas Sunday night and severely choked the man before the intrusion was discovered.

Douglas until last night had been working as a night watchman, and the police believe the intruder expected to find Mrs. Douglas alone. The officers connect the assault with the murder of Mildred Green two weeks ago.

LARGEST MAP IN WORLD

London Will Be Shown in Miniature at a Cost of $100,000.

Seventeen years have already been consumed in its preparation, and $35,000 has been expended on research and labor connected with it. A further expenditure of about $25,000 is looked forward to with equanimity by the authorities.

The great map will really constitute a twentieth century London edition of England's famous Domesday Book. For it will show practically every building in the 116 square miles that go to make up Greater London, setting forth, as far as possible, the more important owners.

It has often been said that London was owned by a few great landlords, such as the Duke of Westminster, Lord Howard de Walden, Lord Cadogan, the Duke of Bedford, and the Duke of Norfolk.

That is, of course, true in a general way, but this map shows that there are no fewer than $5,000 private owners who each possess enough property to make a noticeable showing on its face.

The map will not be issued to the public, but is really being prepared for the use of the County Council itself. Although its cost has been enormous, it has already paid for itself by providing immediate data in street widening and improvement cases in which the County Council was concerned. It has been drawn on the scale of five square feet to the square mile, so that the completed map, which, of course, will be made in sections, will measure 580x380 feet, or 1-82 of a square mile in area.

HEIRESS KILLS DUCKS

RICH BRIDE ON HONEYMOON INVADES OREGON SWAMPS.

Mrs. Malcolm Whitman, Niece Jennie Crocker, Waives Into Tules to Recover Mallard.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—Mrs. Malcolm Douglas Whitman, formerly Miss Jennie Crocker, of Huntington, Cal., drove a flock Sunday morning and killed the first duck of the present open season on Upper Klamath Lake.

Mrs. Whitman and her husband are passing a part of their honeymoon at Harriman Lodge, on Upper Klamath Lake. Their daily programme consists of hunting, fishing and other diversions.

The hunting season for ducks and geese in Oregon opened at midnight Saturday. Hundreds of visitors came here several days before to pick out choice spots in which to stay wild fowl. Mrs. Whitman, learning of this, early voiced a desire to bring down a wild duck. Accompanied by S. O. and Paul Johnson, of the Klamath Development Company, the four arose at 3 o'clock Sunday morning and went in a boat to the Vard marsh.

It was not until about 6 o'clock in the morning, with the first peep of dawn, that the party arrived at the marsh. They had descended them in the tules and within a few minutes before a brace of mallards arose. Mrs. Whitman braced herself, took aim and brought down the largest of the birds with her first shot. It was the first of the season and her only one during the party, although she remained with the party until after the evening shoot.

"I shot it," she remarked. "The bird had fallen about 15 yards away in the tules and it was rather treacherous to reach it." "I should say so," quickly responded Mrs. Whitman. "I shot it. I guess I can get it."

With much ado she clambered out of the boat, waded through tules, through which she sank over her knees with each step, and quickly brought back her prize.

Mr. Whitman proved to be a good sportsman and a good shot. On both the Sunday shoot and that this morning he bagged the limit for one day in Oregon, 35 birds.

Carrying It Too Far: Scientific management, like any other good thing, may be carried to excess.

The speaker was R. Marriott Thompson, the scientific management expert. He continued: "The scientific managers mustn't go as far as Hussler went. Hussler was the proprietor of a tremendous factory where scientific management had reduced the motions of every hand from 800 to 17. Hussler attended a very fashionable wedding one day, wedding where the ceremony was performed by a bishop, assisted by a dean and a canon, and in the most impressive part of the writ Hussler, overcome by his scientific management ideas, rushed up to the altar and pushed the bishop and canon rudely back.

'PIRATES OF PENANCE' HOLDS SWAY TONIGHT

Viola Gillette, in Her Beautiful Soprano Voice, to Sing Role of Edith in Quinn's Comic Opera at the Helbig-McFarlane Gets Chance.

TONIGHT witnesses the opening of the second opera in the series of the operas of the Helbig and Sullivan operas sent to the Helbig by the Shuberts and William A. Brady, for a song festival of one week. The offering tonight is "The Pirates of Penance," which it is interesting to note was the only one of the many operas written by the duo of competitors to have its first performance in America. "D'Ony Corte" had brought his London company to New York for an authoritative production of "Pinafore" and decided that he would produce "The Pirates of Penance" immediately following the announcement of "Pinafore" at the Fifth Avenue Theater, in New York. So on December 31, 1872, it was given for the first time on any stage and was not revealed before English audiences until April 3, 1880, when it was produced at the Savoy Theater.

BROUGHTER GIVES TIP ON MARRIED LIFE

Ex-Portland Preacher Tells How to Pick, Win and Keep a Wife.

MOTHERS-IN-LAW ADVISED

"Treat Hired Help Like Daughter and Your Servant Girl Problem Is Solved," Says Pastor in Epigrammatic Address.

SOME OF DR. BROUGHTER'S POINTED EPIGRAMS.

There is no magic power in marriage to change nature. Forget appearance and look out for quality in selecting a wife. A man can't love an application of powder and paint. Nothing breaks up a home so quickly as a mean temper. Before you marry a woman go swimming with her at the beach and make her dive, then take a good look at her. Love courtship is a guarantee of marital success. It takes more than money to make a home. Women, don't be afraid of being mischievous—don't look for a meal ticket. No supreme happiness can exist in a home where there is no confidence. Don't be suspicious, even if you have grounds. The girl who will drink with a man before marriage deserves to live in the hell which she builds. The woman who marries a known rascal should be barred from the divorce courts. Nagging never reformer a man or woman one iota. No woman should be allowed to have a dog unless she has four children. Treat your servant like you do your daughter and the servant problem is solved.

Three hundred persons learned Monday night how to be happy even though married. Their informant was Dr. J. Whitcomb Broughter, of Los Angeles, who delivered his popular lecture on marriage at the Centenary Methodist Church, East Ninth and Pine streets. He led his listeners through two hours of discourse on various phases of the marriage and home question, following the subject up from the beginning of courtship until old age. His lecture was punctuated with laughs and applause.

"Nagging never reformer a man or woman one iota. No woman should be allowed to have a dog unless she has four children. Treat your servant like you do your daughter and the servant problem is solved. "There is more potency in that word 'home' than in all the other words of the alphabet combined," he said. "I mean the old-fashioned home where real love was the foundation. I don't mean the flimsy, grouch, troublesome place that some of you people have to call your home. That is hell, not home."

Female Drinking Scored: "To make a home it is necessary to begin at the beginning of courtship. Young man, it is your duty to keep your head when you enter the pub stage and getting to looking about for girls. Use a little common sense. Don't be taken in by paint and powder, sweet smiles and a complexion that ain't. Look out for quality and forget looks. What wonders are performed in these modern times by the dressmaker, the hairdresser, the powder puff and the paint brush. It has got so that you can't tell where the hump ends and the woman begins. Use the old-fashioned home where real love was the foundation. I don't mean the flimsy, grouch, troublesome place that some of you people have to call your home. That is hell, not home."

the old folks than to marry a man for his money or for anything but love. Don't look for a meal ticket. And don't go crazy over the smell of a little gasoline. It takes more than money and automobiles to make a happy home.

Nagging No Remedy: "Marriage should be the same in the middle and at the tail end as it is at the beginning. Nagging never changed a wife or a man for the better even one iota, and it never will. Fix your eye on a star and let that star be love. Follow that star and happiness will be yours, for love is the foundation of the world. If you must be bitter, hardness, hardships, everything."

Women, keep up your appearance at all times. Do it for the pleasure in your efforts to catch a man and then when you get him, dress like a sack of flour with a rope tied around the center. If you want to keep your man keep up your appearance at home and keep up the appearance of your home. If you don't, you help our dear helpmate to meet some other woman who does."

"And now for the children. What a blessing is a house full of kids. And what an abomination is a woman who fondles a bull pup in a childless home with the children. I believe in the old doctrine of laying on the hands if you lay them on in the right place. That is the treatment which will bring about obedience."

"And now for the mother-in-law, heaven bless her lot. Don't butt in because if you do you will start trouble which will mean your finish. If you have to live with your children and have any choice, live with your daughter and not with your son, because you have trained your daughter in her life habits, but you have not trained your son's wife. Don't be a mother-in-law. Be a mother-in-love. Just be a dear old grandmother and go ahead and spoil the children, but don't try to get in on the ground floor of the house how to operate."

SENTIMENTAL MR. STONE

A Man With No Teeth, He Faces a Photographic Moment.

Gilbert Parker in the Metropolitan.

Thomas Jefferson Stone was a typical claim-holder and prospector. He came from Indiana. He had no teeth, his hair was gray, his features sallow and withered, and he looked 63 or 64. He told me, however, that he was only 45. There was a cowed, pitted, helpless air about him, and yet in his eyes there was a glimmer and a glimmer—the fire of a fading fanaticism. He was still the victim of an obsession. He had been 25 years prospecting, picking out claims, hoping to strike it rich. I asked him how he lost his teeth. He said by taking medicine good for neuralgia, but too strong for his liver. I treated him when he didn't have a false set made. He said he had had a set, but he took them out and put them in his pocket one day, where his handkerchief was, "to rest his mouth," and, happening to take out the handkerchief, he pulled out the set of teeth also and the plate fell on the floor and broke.

"Without much Jefferson Stone that I wanted his photograph, and three days afterwards he was ready for the kodak. When he came I saw he had a set of teeth in his mouth. I was a bit doubtful. We went a core of miles from any dentist or any town where a dentist could be found.

"Hello, Stone," I said, "you've got a set now. How did it come?" He gave a smile of conquest. "I borrowed 'em to be photographed," he said.

SAFETY BOXES ARE RIFLED

Attempt to Dynamite Safe Fails. $1800 in Stamps Overlooked.

YAMHILL, Or., Sept. 3.—(Special.)—Using a crowbar to pry up the sash, burglars some Sunday night gained entrance to the Yamhill State Bank through a rear window. From the diamond-shaped opening they worked their way in the brick wall of the vault. Safety deposit boxes were rifled and their contents strewn about the floor. An attempt to dynamite the safe failed. It is a late model made of manganese steel.

Sam Laughlin, cashier of the bank, says that the bank sustained no loss, and that the safety of the safe deposit vaults can only be ascertained after a thorough checkup, but it is believed that the robbers secured little, if any, jewelry, and that, with a few negotiable postage stamps of the value of $1800, deposited for safe-keeping, were overlooked.

Sheriff Henderson arrived about 10 o'clock this morning from McMinnville. Dogs were tried, but they failed to pick up the scent. The hole in the vault was cut with an axe stolen from the first engine company in McMinnville. Taken from a pile of tools belonging to Paul Opperman, a contractor who is constructing a new bank building.

An automobile was heard leaving McMinnville in the early morning hours, and it is surmised that the burglars came and left in it.

Beet-Sugar Industry.

National Magazine. Although the growing of sugar beets from which more than half of the sugar used in the world is now extracted, has been encouraged for a century in Europe, it was not until 20 years ago that it began to be seriously attempted in the United States, and only within the past decade has it risen to a position of commercial importance. How rapid the growth of the industry has been in recent years is shown by the increase in the amount of sugar produced from beets, which has grown from 72,000 tons in 1889 to nearly 1,200,000,000 pounds in the present year, an increase of over 1600 per cent.

At the present time the best sugar industry is established in 17 states with 71 factories in operation and several others in course of construction. Half a million acres are planted to sugar beets, and an $4,000,000 a year is distributed to farmers, laborers, transportation companies and sellers of supplies in the operations connected with the making of beet sugar. How far this is from representing the sugar-producing capacity of the country is shown by the fact that the area estimated by the Department of Agriculture as adapted to sugar beet growing comprises roughly 275,000,000 acres, and that the use of one acre in every two hundred of this area for beet culture would enable us to produce all the sugar we now import.
