future home than is the case of any other state. "I do not intend to begin my cam-paign for some time. I will endeavor to visit every part of the district and learn its needs, that I may be prepared for the coming session of Congress. This I regard as of first importance and as a part of the duly and obligation I owe my constituents, whose representative I am. Then be-fore my campaign actively opens I expect to issue a statement of the measures and policies I support and fa-wor and follow it by a vigorous cam-paign, and from a very wide source of information I feel confident of re-slection." election
