

WILSON OPPOSES PERSONAL POLITICS

Campaigns Should Be Waged for Common Good and Be Free of Passion, He Says.

HIGHER IDEALS ADVOCATED

Governor Urges People to Fight Things, Not Persons, in Speech to War Veterans—Taft Sends Greetings to ex-Soldiers.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 11.—Political battle with less personal passion and an end to the "war" between the country by competition of classes" were the ideals which Governor Wilson set forth last night in a speech before the United Spanish War Veterans.

Forget Parties, Says Wilson.

"I belong to a political party, but I respect a political party merely as the means of handling men together for a common service in which they may forget parties."

"I wish that party battles could be fought with less personal passion and more passion for the common good. I am not interested in fighting persons, but I am interested in fighting things. I am interested in fighting things that are bad, and I am interested in fighting things that are good, and I am interested in fighting things that are better than we have now."

Taft Sends Greetings.

Greetings from President Taft were received by the veterans in a message from Chairman English last night as follows:

"Please accept for yourself, your committee and your comrades in enactment my warmest thanks for your kind message of greeting. You took part in a war for your country which, though short, involved the lives and showed the courage of many Americans and which was most momentous in its consequences to the country in giving it authority and imposing on it a duty as a world power. It was epoch-making and the world has not yet made history and are entitled to the gratitude of their countrymen."

HAMILTON'S ADMISSION TO OFFICER HEARD BY COURT.

Negro Is Said to Have Told Captain Keller He Killed Wife—Jealousy Is Excuse.

Admissions of guilt alleged to have been made by Arthur Hamilton, a negro, to Police Captain Keller on the night his wife was shot to death and he was arrested, were the principal evidence introduced by the prosecution yesterday in Hamilton's trial in Circuit Judge Gaston's court on a charge of murder in the first degree. Keller's testimony was permitted over the protests of Attorney Watrous and Dawley, representing the defendant.

"Better take a drink. It may be the last time you will ever have a chance to take one with me," is a remark which a colored woman testified Hamilton made to her about an hour before the killing. Hamilton and his wife were separated, this witness indicated, at the defendant's instigation. Finally Hamilton had arisen to leave, making further remarks about his possible inability ever to come back.

There was considerable testimony indicating that the defendant was insanely jealous of his wife and that he had beaten her several times, on at least one occasion almost to the point of unconsciousness. Stevens, the negro who was with Mrs. Hamilton when she was shot, declared that he had never been in her company before that night.

Hamilton's attorneys, who announced their intention of pleading, among other things, the unwritten law in extenuation, are a cross-examining state witnesses in an effort to gain something to substantiate their insinuation that the dead woman had given her husband cause for jealousy by her unfaithfulness to other men. Such admissions would also be of value in support of their contention that Hamilton shot at Stevens in self-defense, the bullet striking Hamilton and killing the woman, but so far they have met with little success.

"It would give me pleasure to be present and to express my entire sympathy with projects that look towards the opening of the system, the construction of our great water courses and their preparation for navigation on a great scale."

"It is undoubtedly become necessary that we should reconsider our whole transportation problem, in view of the developments which are sure to follow immediately upon the opening of the Panama Canal. We have become aware, in recent years, that our transportation facilities were not equal to the enormous demands made upon them by the great movements of trade within the country.
