CITY FIGHTS FOR SITES

PROPERTY WANTED FOR PUBLIC DOCKS IS CONDEMNED. Land Is Owned by William Reid and Is Located Between East Oak and Washington Streets.

The first condemnation suit by the city to secure sites for public docks was instituted in Circuit Court yesterday.

Mr. Reid, who has a small lien against the property, based on a judgment for $21 secured several years ago; J. B. Elwert, who is said to assert some interest in the property, and Stephen Schobert, Mrs. C. H. Kelly and R. J. Cole, who occupy buildings standing on the land.

Mr. Reid, in his complaint, asserts title to that portion of the river frontage of the property lying between ordinary high water mark and the harbor line. This title is, however, disputed in a suit to quiet title filed by Mr. Reid, through the law firm of Booth & Richardson, Thursday.

The first question to be determined, as a result of the counter suits, probably will be the title to the strip between ordinary high water mark and the harbor line. Mr. Reid states in his complaint that he secured blocks 1 and 2 in 1886 from A. H. Johnson by means of conveyance, and that Ordinance 539 of the City of East Portland gave Johnson the right to construct wharves to the harbor line.

Up in the air under the assaults of this side, the contractor fell back upon the recommendations of the City Engineer regarding specifications, and the percentage of property involved in the condemnation.
