SEAT SALE MONDAY.

Martin-Ganz Recital Will Be Given at the Heilig Wednesday Night.

Steers-Wynn Coman series and is being eagerly anticipated.

Riccardo Martin's voice has a certain rapturous beauty of tone that is most capityating, for he has acquired the true bel canto in his years of Italian introducing an ordinance prohibiting suddy; yet it is a big voice, capable of conveying great emotional intensity as befits his American temperament, for he is American to the core, with a frank, manly bearing and an unfalling fund of humor that has made him a popular idol in light opera roles as well as in grand opera at the Metropolitan, New York, and at Covent Garden, London.

Interest yesterday centered chiefly in the testimony of the defendant. Torbet declared that it was at the request of Mrs. Bellaire, communicated through Gladys Bellaire, a daughter, that he called upon Mrs. Bellaire the morning of the homicide. He said that the woman had demanded more money and when he declared that he "would not give her another cent" had slapped his face. In her rage she had finally rushed to the kitchen for a knife, he said.

The situation now is that the defense of declares she would have testified to having seen the knife on the floor near her mother's body, while the prosecution contends that she would have stood by statements made at the time of the killing and testified directly opposite to this. Both sides have used the girl's name in argument and each side has charged that the other is responsible for the failure to locate her.

Another link in the chain of sup-pressive legislation surrounding the unassuming bootblack was placed upon the municipal anyll preparatory to councilmanic hammering yesterday.
