

LETTERS BETWEEN ROOSEVELT AND HARRIMAN

Half a Century Ago

The Oregonian

Published at Portland, Oregon, Postoffice as Second-Class Matter. Subscription Rates—Irrevocably in Advance. (BY MAIL.) Daily, Sunday included, one year, $5.00...

How to identify—Send Postoffice money order, express order or personal check on your local bank. Stamps, coin or currency are full, including value and date.

Portland, Wednesday, Oct. 9, 1912.

STANDING BY THE SHEP.

Every Republican is called upon this year to decide for himself how best he can serve his country and at the same time his party.

A CODE OF HEALTH.

The noted English physician, Sir James Sawyer, has laid down "nineteen commandments" which embody the hygienic wisdom of our day in a form easily committed to memory.

THEY WAX FAT AND KICK.

One of the many paradoxes of the present Presidential election year is that, though the country is seething with political unrest, it is almost bursting the buttons off its vest with swelling prosperity.

BOILING THE DIRECT PRIMARY.

Mr. Bourne believes in the Oregon system, and approves its operations, when it nominates him for office.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

The decay of Mohammedan power is due to the innate weakness of a religion which is based on the sword.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Our marines are making such a good job of cleaning up Nicaragua that they might be transferred to Mexico to clean up the barbarous Zapatistas and Orozcoistas to good advantage.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

James Whitcomb Riley may not be as old as he looks and there is no age to his writings.

our Government and our institutions rest," because the Roosevelt policy would "completely revolutionize our system and theory of government."

GOING SOME.

September 19, 1912, was a historic day in Oregon. On that momentous date the Progressive (Roosevelt) party was officially born.

DIPS OF PRIGGISHNESS.

What our public schools would come to if the fraternity spirit were permitted to rule unchecked may be seen in England at Eton and Harrow.

WANING MOHAMMEDAN POWER.

Surrender of Tripoli by Turkey to Italy marks the extinction of Turkish rule in Africa.

WHY NOT A JURY OF BALIYAPERS SUCH AS CLEVELAND WILL HAVE?

I have written on June 1st, and mentioned the other man hardly even as a suggestion, and I have no reason for believing that he would be more acceptable to the people on the Pacific Coast, and I would not recommend him the more capable of the two.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Another letter from Harriman, of the same date, is referred to in my "prompt action in Arizona" last year, as having done "more to save lives and property than anything that has been done for a number of years."

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

I did not intend to direct attention to what I believe to be inevitable, but I may as well say that I do believe it to be so, not only believe it, but hope for the desired result.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Mr. Harriman's letter of June 23 contains no suggestion of a desire for an interview with me, but I believe that every one who reads it will be as heartily as I.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discuss certain government matters not connected with the campaign.

Mr. Bourne cannot justify his ex post facto candidacy. There is, for every man, a limit to the privilege of the rule of the people in a primary if they are to be overruled whenever a disappointed candidate is not satisfied with their finding or the method by which it is procured.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Mr. Selling had a popular plurality over Mr. Bourne in the April primary at more than 6000 votes. It was decisive and overwhelming.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

There is no hurry about my seeing you, for the only thing that could be pressing upon me at the moment is not so present. I was interested in the statement you enclosed.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

There follows a letter from Harriman dated October 2, 1902, in which W. C. Ralston for appointment as Naval Officer at San Francisco.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

It is hardly of importance enough for me to make a special trip to Washington and give you undue trouble.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

There was either a suspension of, or a hiatus in, the correspondence until May 17, 1904, when Roosevelt wrote.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Like the late Jeremiah R. Ream, of Albany, the people who prefer to have their earthly remains cremated usually belong to the more intelligent classes.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Mr. Harriman's letter of June 23 contains no suggestion of a desire for an interview with me, but I believe that every one who reads it will be as heartily as I.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discuss certain government matters not connected with the campaign.

Mr. Bourne cannot justify his ex post facto candidacy. There is, for every man, a limit to the privilege of the rule of the people in a primary if they are to be overruled whenever a disappointed candidate is not satisfied with their finding or the method by which it is procured.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Mr. Selling had a popular plurality over Mr. Bourne in the April primary at more than 6000 votes. It was decisive and overwhelming.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

There is no hurry about my seeing you, for the only thing that could be pressing upon me at the moment is not so present. I was interested in the statement you enclosed.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

There follows a letter from Harriman dated October 2, 1902, in which W. C. Ralston for appointment as Naval Officer at San Francisco.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

It is hardly of importance enough for me to make a special trip to Washington and give you undue trouble.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

There was either a suspension of, or a hiatus in, the correspondence until May 17, 1904, when Roosevelt wrote.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Like the late Jeremiah R. Ream, of Albany, the people who prefer to have their earthly remains cremated usually belong to the more intelligent classes.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Mr. Harriman's letter of June 23 contains no suggestion of a desire for an interview with me, but I believe that every one who reads it will be as heartily as I.

THE DECADE OF THE FUTURE.

Before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discuss certain government matters not connected with the campaign.

LETTERS BETWEEN ROOSEVELT AND HARRIMAN

Half a Century Ago

Correspondence Submitted at Clapp Committee Hearing Throws Important Light on Roosevelt-Harriman Controversy—Significant Letters.

Much light is thrown on the Roosevelt-Harriman controversy by the correspondence which was submitted to the Clapp committee by Mr. Tegethoff, Harriman's former private secretary.

The first of the series of letters is from Roosevelt, dated October 2, 1902, and is an invitation to Harriman to dine or lunch with him, with the explanation: "There are two matters I should like to go over with you."

There is no hurry about my seeing you, for the only thing that could be pressing upon me at the moment is not so present. I was interested in the statement you enclosed.

There follows a letter from Harriman dated October 2, 1902, in which W. C. Ralston for appointment as Naval Officer at San Francisco.

It is hardly of importance enough for me to make a special trip to Washington and give you undue trouble.

There was either a suspension of, or a hiatus in, the correspondence until May 17, 1904, when Roosevelt wrote.

Like the late Jeremiah R. Ream, of Albany, the people who prefer to have their earthly remains cremated usually belong to the more intelligent classes.

Mr. Harriman's letter of June 23 contains no suggestion of a desire for an interview with me, but I believe that every one who reads it will be as heartily as I.

Before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discuss certain government matters not connected with the campaign.

LETTERS BETWEEN ROOSEVELT AND HARRIMAN

Half a Century Ago

Correspondence Submitted at Clapp Committee Hearing Throws Important Light on Roosevelt-Harriman Controversy—Significant Letters.

Much light is thrown on the Roosevelt-Harriman controversy by the correspondence which was submitted to the Clapp committee by Mr. Tegethoff, Harriman's former private secretary.

The first of the series of letters is from Roosevelt, dated October 2, 1902, and is an invitation to Harriman to dine or lunch with him, with the explanation: "There are two matters I should like to go over with you."

There is no hurry about my seeing you, for the only thing that could be pressing upon me at the moment is not so present. I was interested in the statement you enclosed.

There follows a letter from Harriman dated October 2, 1902, in which W. C. Ralston for appointment as Naval Officer at San Francisco.

It is hardly of importance enough for me to make a special trip to Washington and give you undue trouble.

There was either a suspension of, or a hiatus in, the correspondence until May 17, 1904, when Roosevelt wrote.

Like the late Jeremiah R. Ream, of Albany, the people who prefer to have their earthly remains cremated usually belong to the more intelligent classes.

Mr. Harriman's letter of June 23 contains no suggestion of a desire for an interview with me, but I believe that every one who reads it will be as heartily as I.

Before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discuss certain government matters not connected with the campaign.

LETTERS BETWEEN ROOSEVELT AND HARRIMAN

Half a Century Ago

Correspondence Submitted at Clapp Committee Hearing Throws Important Light on Roosevelt-Harriman Controversy—Significant Letters.

Much light is thrown on the Roosevelt-Harriman controversy by the correspondence which was submitted to the Clapp committee by Mr. Tegethoff, Harriman's former private secretary.

The first of the series of letters is from Roosevelt, dated October 2, 1902, and is an invitation to Harriman to dine or lunch with him, with the explanation: "There are two matters I should like to go over with you."

There is no hurry about my seeing you, for the only thing that could be pressing upon me at the moment is not so present. I was interested in the statement you enclosed.

There follows a letter from Harriman dated October 2, 1902, in which W. C. Ralston for appointment as Naval Officer at San Francisco.

It is hardly of importance enough for me to make a special trip to Washington and give you undue trouble.

There was either a suspension of, or a hiatus in, the correspondence until May 17, 1904, when Roosevelt wrote.

Like the late Jeremiah R. Ream, of Albany, the people who prefer to have their earthly remains cremated usually belong to the more intelligent classes.

Mr. Harriman's letter of June 23 contains no suggestion of a desire for an interview with me, but I believe that every one who reads it will be as heartily as I.

Before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discuss certain government matters not connected with the campaign.

LETTERS BETWEEN ROOSEVELT AND HARRIMAN

Half a Century Ago

Correspondence Submitted at Clapp Committee Hearing Throws Important Light on Roosevelt-Harriman Controversy—Significant Letters.

Much light is thrown on the Roosevelt-Harriman controversy by the correspondence which was submitted to the Clapp committee by Mr. Tegethoff, Harriman's former private secretary.

LETTERS BETWEEN ROOSEVELT AND HARRIMAN

Half a Century Ago

Correspondence Submitted at Clapp Committee Hearing Throws Important Light on Roosevelt-Harriman Controversy—Significant Letters.

Much light is thrown on the Roosevelt-Harriman controversy by the correspondence which was submitted to the Clapp committee by Mr. Tegethoff, Harriman's former private secretary.

The first of the series of letters is from Roosevelt, dated October 2, 1902, and is an invitation to Harriman to dine or lunch with him, with the explanation: "There are two matters I should like to go over with you."

There is no hurry about my seeing you, for the only thing that could be pressing upon me at the moment is not so present. I was interested in the statement you enclosed.

There follows a letter from Harriman dated October 2, 1902, in which W. C. Ralston for appointment as Naval Officer at San Francisco.

It is hardly of importance enough for me to make a special trip to Washington and give you undue trouble.

There was either a suspension of, or a hiatus in, the correspondence until May 17, 1904, when Roosevelt wrote.

Like the late Jeremiah R. Ream, of Albany, the people who prefer to have their earthly remains cremated usually belong to the more intelligent classes.

Mr. Harriman's letter of June 23 contains no suggestion of a desire for an interview with me, but I believe that every one who reads it will be as heartily as I.

Before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discuss certain government matters not connected with the campaign.

LETTERS BETWEEN ROOSEVELT AND HARRIMAN

Half a Century Ago

Correspondence Submitted at Clapp Committee Hearing Throws Important Light on Roosevelt-Harriman Controversy—Significant Letters.

Much light is thrown on the Roosevelt-Harriman controversy by the correspondence which was submitted to the Clapp committee by Mr. Tegethoff, Harriman's former private secretary.

Much light is thrown on the Roosevelt-Harriman controversy by the correspondence which was submitted to the Clapp committee by Mr. Tegethoff, Harriman's former private secretary.