

COLONEL CALM AND DOCTORS CAUTIOUS

Danger of Tetanus Is Not Overlooked.

HOSPITAL STAY IS DEBATED

Surgeons Insist on Six or Seven Days, to Be Safe.

WIFE RULES MOVEMENTS

Exception to No-Visitor Rule Is Made in Favor of Jane Addams, and Again When Newly-Born Twins Are Exhibited.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(A. M.)—Colonel Roosevelt has been asleep since 11:20 o'clock. At that time his temperature was 98.4, pulse 74 and respiration 18. This is only a slight change from what it has been the greater part of the day.

The bulletin issued at 10:55 P. M., signed by Dr. John B. Murphy, Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan and Dr. Scurry L. Terrill, was:

"Pulse 82, temperature 98.8, respiration 20. Colonel Roosevelt is resting quietly. He announces that he breathes perceptibly easier. He says that he feels as well as could be expected."

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Throughout a day of unbroken calm Colonel Roosevelt lay in his bed in Mercy Hospital with virtually no variation of his condition.

It was a day of waiting, with the ever-present possibility of complications, but with lessened fears on the part of those who were on watch.

Colonel Roosevelt appeared to have recovered from the shock of the bullet, which for a time drained his vitality, and so far as a casual observer could detect he was in his normal condition, but there was no relaxation in the strict regime and his physicians said he was not out of danger.

Records Are Encouraging.

Colonel Roosevelt's physicians were discussing among themselves tonight the time necessary for the Colonel to remain in the hospital. It was thought it might be safe for him to leave for Oyster Bay Monday or Tuesday, but not even a tentative decision was reached.

The clinical record for the day showed some variation in temperature, pulse and respiration, but only such changes, the physicians said, as were normal in the case of a person suffering from a bullet wound. The hourly record told of a slight fever in the morning and a sub-normal temperature toward the end of the day. The pulse rose to 98 in the morning and again late in the afternoon, but early in the evening the count fell off.

After inspection of the record for the day, Dr. John F. Golden said it tallied in every respect with conditions which were normal in Colonel Roosevelt's case.

Tetanus Possibilities Considered.

The period of possible development of blood-poisoning has still another day to run and although the physicians said a change might occur within an hour at any time during the next day, they were more optimistic tonight as to the outcome than at any previous time.

The possibility of tetanus, or lockjaw, always to be reckoned with in the case of bullet wounds, has to be considered, and as the period in which this might develop, the physicians said, is six or seven days, Colonel Roosevelt will not be regarded as entirely out of danger should the next day pass with no signs of blood-poisoning. Dr. Scurry L. Terrill, Colonel Roosevelt's physician, said the Colonel could not leave the hospital until the expiration of this period.

Wife Continues to Rule.

All through the day Mrs. Roosevelt was constantly at the bedside, and, although her husband jestingly complained that he was the victim of machine rule, she said he must see no one except the members of his family, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Miss Ethel Roosevelt and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth talked with their father from time to time, but even these family chats were limited to a few minutes on each occasion. Twice during the day Mrs. Roosevelt made exceptions to her rule. Miss Jane Addams, of Hull House, one of the most active workers for the Progressive party, called late in the afternoon and spent ten minutes with Colonel Roosevelt. She had hardly departed when two babies, twins, who were born in the hospital, were brought in for a moment.

Mirror Gives Outdoor View.

With the aid of a mirror, which enabled him to catch a glimpse of the outer world without turning about in bed, Colonel Roosevelt looked at the street scenes, when he was not talking with Mrs. Roosevelt or reading. He was eager to be up and out of doors and spoke longingly of his horse, Sunday, on which he is accustomed to ride each morning when he is at Sagamore Hill.

He ate three hearty meals and said he felt "bully."

LOTI GOES HOME MINUS HIS ROUGE

PLAYWRIGHT STILL WEARS HIGH HEELS AND STAYS.

Chastened by American Newspaper Men, Frenchman Waves Lace Handkerchief in Farewell.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Minus rouge and eyebrow penciling, but still retaining his high heels, lace handkerchief and—rumor whispers—stays, Pierre Loti sailed today on the Province for France.

The former French naval officer departed with regret that anyone could have considered him so ungallant as to cast aspersions on American women.

To show he thought well of our femininity, he said that on a visit to high schools here he had heard the girls sing "La Marseillaise" in French and also quote in his native tongue long extracts from his books. The last, he thought, deserved special commendation.

DAD OF TWO IS "FRESHIE"

35-Year-Old Farmer Is Real 'Sport' at University of Oregon.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 17.—(Special.)—No student of the University of Oregon has more "pop" than has J. A. Loudagin, 35 years old and the father of two children, who wears a green freeman cap not much larger than a postage stamp and turns out for football practice with the varsity squad.

With Loudagin's rather belated entrance into college is connected a story of unusual ambition and perseverance. A dozen years ago he was a student in Pearson Academy, the preparatory school to Whitman College. He discontinued his education, however, before he had received a high school diploma. Since that time he has been engaged with his brother in farming their 1000-acre ranch in Whitman County, Washington, and as a result is now in comfortable circumstances.

Loudagin had always cherished an ambition to become a physician, and last summer, being then able to support himself and his family during the five years' course necessary to the attainment of a doctor's degree, he made up sufficient work in the University of Oregon Summer school to entitle him to college entrance.

WOMAN HUGS HER LAWYER

Bankrupt, Accused of Fraud, Cries as Jury Reports "Not Guilty."

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Mrs. Sarah Levy, Samuel Levy and Henry Suwols, of Aberdeen, charged by the Government with conspiracy to defraud by concealing assets in bankruptcy, were acquitted by a jury in United States Judge E. E. Cushman's court tonight.

Mrs. Levy wept as the jurors entered the courtroom. When the words "not guilty" came from Judge Cushman she cried aloud and grasped the hands of those nearest her. She embraced her attorney, George S. Vandever, ex-Prosecuting Attorney of King County, and left the courtroom alternately laughing and weeping.

The defendants must face another trial December 17 on a charge of concealing assets in bankruptcy.

The prosecution alleged that the defendants purchased about $30,000 worth of stock for their Aberdeen department store before Mrs. Levy was declared bankrupt and that they shipped most of the stock out of Aberdeen and prevented it from being included in the trustee's inventory.

SCHRANK'S BAIL HIGHER

Prisoner Makes No Effort to Obtain $15,000 Required for Freedom.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 17.—The bail of John Schrank, charged with attempting to kill Colonel Theodore Roosevelt Monday night, was increased today from $7500 to $15,000 by Judge Backus, of the Municipal Court. The bond exacted by Judge Neelen, of the District Court, has been doubled, the case having been transferred to the Municipal Court. There has been no effort by the prisoner to furnish the original bond exacted by the lower court, and no reason has thus far been given for doubling the bond.

PORTLAND MAN BUYS HOME

Dr. F. J. Bailey Pays $60,000 for Tacoma's Best Residence.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—Dr. Francis J. Bailey, of Portland, ex-Army surgeon, today bought the W. R. Russ residence, the finest private house in Tacoma for $60,000.

The house cost $123,500 and was sold two years ago for $50,000 to George Milton Savage, who sold to Dr. Bailey, who will make it his home, according to announcement made late tonight.

SENATOR HEYBURN, OF IDAHO, IS DEAD

Serious Condition Is Long Concealed.

OVERWORK, PHYSICIAN SAYS

Patient, Even After Serious Attack, Refused to Rest.

HEART UNUSUALLY LARGE

Arteries Affected and Kidney Trouble Caused Complications—Last Words Are of Having Done His Best for Country.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Oct. 17.—Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, died at his apartment in this city at 7:50 o'clock tonight. Disease of the heart, complicated with kidney trouble, is the cause assigned by the attending physicians. While his death came as a surprise to the public, as his true condition has been concealed throughout his long illness, which began in August, his family and physicians have been aware for some time that he probably could not survive.

For more than a year Senator Heyburn has been in poor health and in that time has suffered several physical collapses. The last occurred August 24, when he was opposing the Penrose-Archbold investigation resolution. Since that date Senator Heyburn has never been well, though his condition has varied from time to time.

Collapse Follows Rally.

For several days after his last collapse his condition was critical, though that fact was not allowed to become public, until he had partially recovered and was able to go to his old home in Pennsylvania. There he became worse, however, and was brought back to Washington, but again rallied under medical care, only to collapse again several days ago. Even after this collapse he rallied, and this morning was apparently in better health than for some weeks.

He had another sinking spell late today, but restoratives were administered and he rallied. He appeared to be getting along satisfactorily until a few minutes before he died.

Senator Heyburn was conscious to the end and apparently appreciated his condition. With him when he died were his wife, his brother, E. M. Heyburn, his wife's sister, Miss M. F. Yeatman, Dr. H. H. Kerr and two nurses.

Wishes as to Burial Respected.

Funeral arrangements have not been made but in accordance with an often expressed wish.

STRENGTH LIES ON COAST

Madero and His Ministers Pledge to Minimize Importance of Revolt, but There Is Uneasiness in Capital.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 17.—The land cable between Paso del Macho, State of Vera Cruz, and Vera Cruz, the capital of that state, was cut this afternoon. The last message that came over the wires said that the gunboats were again in command of Commodore Arzueta, federal, and that he was preparing to bombard. The Consuls have protested.

There is only one passenger boat in the harbor, the Monterey, and it has been asked that its sailing be deferred with a view to affording a means of escape for non-combatants.

Troops Reach Capital.

A trainload of troops from the State of Morelos reached the capital last night and will reinforce General Beltran in the campaign against General Felix Diaz.

The day before the fall of Vera Cruz the Legislature of the State of Morelos formally protested to the central government against the weakness of the federal forces in that state and requested reinforcements, in view of the increased Zapatista bands operating there.

The government, however, has determined to throw all its power against Diaz, even if it should become necessary to ignore for the present its war against other revolutionary leaders and the warring bands of rebels who are operating in many regions.

CUPID'S "C. Q. D." IS HEARD IN KITCHEN

THREAT OF LAW DEMANDING DOMESTIC SKILL WINS.

Night School for Scientific Culinary Training Crowded as Result of Educator's Hoax.

The statement made by H. C. Campbell, of the School Board, in his address at the opening of the new Lincoln High School building, that legislation was contemplated which would require every woman to exhibit a certificate of graduation in domestic science before she would be allowed to obtain a marriage license, is having the desired effect.

It is shown by the fact that 52 young women were enrolled in the domestic science night school only two days after it opened. Members of the School Board, upon hearing the report of Superintendent Rigler to this effect at their meeting yesterday, congratulated Chairman Campbell on the success of his implied threat of a life of manliness to all girls not possessed of a domestic science certificate.

The Directors dubbed the proposed legislative measure "the Campbell menace," and gravely discussed its constitutionality, agreeing that while it would be summary legislation, it was to be regretted that something of the kind could not be enacted. They gave full credit for the unexpectedly large attendance at the domestic science night school classes to Mr. Campbell's happy hoax, which is known to and has set every schoolgirl in the city thinking.

The sudden interest which has been shown in the acquisition of culinary skill determined the Board's decision to allow the Monday domestic science lectures to be held in the Lincoln High School building, as any increase to the present class of 52 would overcrowd the night class assembly room at the trades school.

The board was unanimous in declaring that any legislation of culinary provision, based on the proposed requirement that girls graduating from the grammar school shall do so in dresses made by themselves, requiring that a further qualification for matrimony be the ability of the fair candidate to design and make the gown in which she is to take the wedding vows.

ARITHMETIC IN DISFAVOR

University Professor Says More Reading Should Be Taught.

ENTERPRISE, Or., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—"Arithmetic should be pried out of its position as the cornerstone of the grade school course," Dr. Joseph Schaefer, of the University of Oregon, told the convention of the Eastern Oregon teachers here today. More attention should be given to reading, he said.

He would have a greater variety of subjects in the readers. Every great man, he said, has been a great reader, but arithmetic by itself gets the student nowhere.

President Penrose, of Whitman College, to the teachers the purpose of education was to train the child to voluntary attention and that children should be taught in the local schools to make the most of life in the home community, where they probably will live.

President Kerr, of the Oregon Agricultural College, urged that in the country schools getting more be done to train the young in special vocational lines. With a little training, he said, the farms of Oregon could be made to yield five bushels more of wheat to the acre. Officers will be elected tomorrow.

HARRIMAN OFFICIALS HERE

R. S. Lovett, Julius Kruttschnitt and A. L. Mohler Inspect Lines.

Making a tour of inspection of lines for the second time within three months, Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the executive board of the Harriman system, arrived in Portland at 11:30 o'clock last night. Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance and operation of the Harriman lines, and A. L. Mohler, president of the Union Pacific system, accompanied Judge Lovett.

Judge Lovett and Mr. Kruttschnitt are expected to remain here two or three days. It is believed that nothing unusual is connected with their visit further than that which would attach to a tour of inspection. It is not probable that any announcement will be made now as to electric line extensions in the state. It is reported, however, that the next important move in this work on the part of the Harriman people will be the construction of an electric loop line in the Hood River Valley.

WILSON IS THREATENED

Women Tell Police of Italian Who Says He Will Kill Candidate.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 17.—A large number of police officers were distributed throughout the crowd at the opera-house here tonight when Governor Wilson spoke. This was the result of a threat made by an Italian to "shoot him the same as Roosevelt was shot."

The Governor knew nothing of the affair, neither did any member of his immediate party.

This morning Chief of Police Black was notified by Mrs. Sarah Hudson, of Wilmington that while her sister, Mrs. Hattie Whitton, was leaving her place of employment yesterday she heard an Italian workman exclaim:

"Wilson will be here tomorrow and he will get a bullet through him the same as Roosevelt did. I will put one in him. I will shoot him myself."

The police know the name of the Italian, but have not located him.

BECKER DEFENSE TO BEGIN TODAY

PROSECUTION RESTS CASE

Accused Man Will Contend He Is Conspiracy Victim.

GRAFT TESTIMONY BARRED

Court Refuses to Permit Evidence About Becker's Fortune, Defense Winning Contention That Case on Trial Is Murder Only.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The state rested its case today in the trial of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker on the charge of investigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

The case for the defense will begin tomorrow, when John W. Hart, of Becker's counsel, will make his opening address to the jury.

If Becker had his way, Hart said, he will go on the stand in his own behalf. Whether his counsel will attempt to dissuade him from this desire has not been determined tonight. John P. McIntyre, his chief attorney said:

Becker Anxious to Take Stand.

"Becker is anxious to take the stand. We may allow him to, but this has not been determined."

The defense has indicated it will endeavor to prove that a clique of gamblers inspired the murder of Rosenthal and that Becker is the victim of a conspiracy.

Ex-District Attorney Jerome will be one of a dozen or more whom the defense plans to call. Mr. Jerome is expected by Becker's counsel to break down a portion of the testimony of Jack Ross in connection with an alleged telephone conversation with Becker, introduced by the state to show that Becker had guilty knowledge of the crime.

Paul Witness for Defense.

Samuel Paul, whose gambling place frequently was raided by Becker, and other members of the gambling fraternity are included among Becker's witnesses.

The accused police lieutenant expressed himself as confident of acquittal, after adjournment had been taken on the announcement of District Attorney Whitman that the people's case was complete.

Becker was in a happy mood, for his counsel had just won a victory over the prosecution. This was when Justice Goff granted a motion by Mr. McIntyre tending to show that Becker had amassed a fortune in graft obtained from gamblers.

Bankers Kept on Stand.

District Attorney Whitman had 13 bankers ready to swear that Becker had bank accounts totalling nearly $50,000, but not one was allowed to testify. Justice Goff upheld Mr. McIntyre's argument that without proof that Becker's bank account represented the proceeds of the Rosenthal murder, the evidence could not show that they constituted a motive for the killing of Rosenthal.

"Extortion and bribery are not charged in this indictment," declared Becker's attorney. "The charge is solely that of murder."

To introduce such proof, the prosecution recalled to the stand Judge Becker's alleged collector of graft, but Justice Goff refused to permit him to be examined along this line.

"Lefty Louie's" Wife Testifies

Mrs. Lillian Rosenberg, wife of "Lefty Louie," one of the four gunmen charged with the actual slaying of Rosenthal, furnished one of the sensations of today's proceedings when she appeared as a state witness. Although denying any knowledge of her husband's whereabouts on the night of the murder, Mrs. Rosenberg told of the visit Sam Schepps and Jack Ross made to her home to ask the aid of her husband in getting Jack Zelig, the gang leader, out of jail.

This testimony, corroborative of the stories of Schepps and Ross, was intended to strengthen one of the important links in the state's evidence.

Mrs. Rosenberg was one of the dozen witnesses put on by the state today to close up some of the loose ends of its case, which has taken in all seven days to complete.

Gunmen in Court.

The only appearance of the four gunmen in the case so far has been when they were brought into court to be identified by witnesses. As the quartet are under indictment and will be tried apart from Becker, it is not expected they will be called to the stand in this trial.

There was a wild scare in the Tombs tonight when Harry Horowitz, better known as "Gyp the Blood," became ill. It was at first feared he had been poisoned but a physician decided the trouble was inflammation of the stomach.

Max Margolis, who described himself as a "tipster" for newspapers, testified that he had known Becker for five months and was present at the so-called "fake" raid made by Becker on Rosenthal's gambling house and saw Becker there.

Becker had asked him to enter the (Concluded on Page 15)
