

JOHNSON ARRESTED AS WHITE SLAVER

Negro Pugilist Taken by Officers on Federal Indictment.

$30,000 BAIL FURNISHED

Tears Show in Black's Eyes When Handcuffs Are Put On Him. Search Lasts Several Hours Before Fighter is Found.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight prizefighter, was arrested by Federal officers tonight charged with violation of the Mann act. His arrest followed the return by the Federal grand jury of an indictment on four counts, charging him with having caused the transportation of Belle Schreiber, a white woman, 26 years old, from Pittsburgh to Chicago, August 10, 1910, for an unlawful purpose.

Federal officers searched the South Side several hours before Johnson was found, hiding in a hotel, surrounded by negro guards.

Negro Guards Shoved Aside. An attempt was at first made by the guards to prevent the officers from entering Johnson's rooms, but they were pushed aside and the Government's warrant was served on the prizefighter without serious difficulty.

Johnson Finally Gets Bail. After several hours' work Johnson found a court clerk willing to act and the prizefighter was taken to the home of his aged mother on the South Side, who signed the bonds, along with several others, and Johnson was released from jail, however, early tonight, as he had been unable to find a bondsman.

After Max and David Weber had offered a $15,000 bond for Miss Cameron Judge Landis refused to accept it. Plans were made to return Miss Cameron to Rockford, where she has been held in jail.

HOCKIN "TOO BUSY EAST"

Hurry Call Sent by Telegram Is Met by Advice to Secure Local Man for "Work" in Prospect in Los Angeles.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—Four months' activity on the part of labor leaders on the Pacific Coast preceded the fatal explosion in Los Angeles, according to letters and telegrams introduced by the Government in the trial of the "dynamite plotters" today.

From telegrams and letters read to the jury the Government set forth this part of its contention as follows: Four months before the Times' building was blown up Eugene A. Clancy, a labor leader in San Francisco, who had been instructed to investigate labor conditions in Los Angeles, telegraphed to John J. McNamara in Indianapolis:

"The fight is on in Los Angeles. We are going to win. Send Hockin at once."

Hockin "Too Busy East." McNamara, after referring to the request of Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, telegraphed Clancy:

"Better get a man in Los Angeles to do the work. Hockin too busy in the East."

It was about this time, according to Clancy's confession, that Herbert S. Hockin was leader of the "dynamite crew." Clancy went to Seattle and on August 16, 1910, H. W. Pohlman, a labor leader there, wrote to J. J. McNamara:

"Clancy met his man here after waiting a week for him and he being here every day. I think I understand the situation."

Seattle Building Blown Up. James R. McNamara was then in Seattle and the Government charges that Clancy met him there. On August 21 an office building under construction in Seattle was blown up.

At this time $1000 was voted by the Iron Workers' Union executive board of the California Building Trades Council for use in promoting the union at Los Angeles.

James R. McNamara in the meantime visited San Francisco and later went to Los Angeles, where he blew up the "Times" building October 1. Clancy visited Michael J. Young, of Boston, another defendant, but, according to telegrams, hurried back to San Francisco, where he heard 21 persons had been killed.

McNamara's Mission Known. The Government contends the correspondence shows that McNamara's mission to the Pacific Coast was known to Clancy, Treitmoor and to J. F. Munsey, of Salt Lake City, who is charged with harboring the dynamite for two weeks after the explosion.

Testimony that dynamite was taken to the iron workers' headquarters in Indianapolis within a few weeks before the McNamara wire was arrested was given by Martin J. Hyland, Chief of Police of Indianapolis. He identified newspapers that had been wrapped about four packages of dynamite. They were newspapers from Cleveland,
