CURTIS STEPS OUT AT WEST'S DESIRE

Head of Penitentiary Said to Have Fallen From Grace on Trips.

B. K. LAWSON IS SUCCESSOR

Governor Issues Ruling Against Use of Liquor by Employes in or About Prison and Lauds Deposed Man's Efficiency.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Frank H. Curtis, superintendent of the State Penitentiary, resigned under pressure today, and following his resignation came the declaration by Governor West that there is likely to be a big shake-up among guards at the prison, who have been using liquor, and that there will be some big changes and more military discipline about the place.

Curtis will be succeeded by Colonel Burton K. Lawson, of Cottage Grove, of the Coast Artillery Service of the Oregon National Guard. Colonel Lawson served during the Spanish-American War. He was recently commissioned by Governor West to investigate conditions at Klamath Falls.

The resignation of Curtis and the threatened downfall of other employes at the prison is said to be due to "boozing." Curtis left Salem about two weeks ago for Pocatello, Idaho, to bring back a prisoner to Salem, who had escaped as a trusty.

Whereabouts Not Known.

For several days he dropped practically out of sight until he reappeared in Portland a few days ago and telephoned to the prison that he would be back to Salem that night. Then he said he had gone up the Columbia River in search of two escaped convicts from the Shellrock camp.

His long absence was attributed to a fall from the "water wagon." For this reason Governor West decided to make a change at the prison, immediately upon the return of Curtis to Salem this morning he telephoned to the Governor tendering his resignation.

News Surprise to Curtis.

The dismissal of Curtis came to him like a bolt from the blue. He had no knowledge of what had occurred until a newspaper man told him over the telephone that he had been discharged. Immediately he called up Governor West and submitted his resignation, which was accepted. As a result he resigned rather than losing his position by dismissal.

It is understood when the Governor elevated Curtis to the superintendency of the prison following the ousting of C. W. James that he notified him he must leave intoxicating liquor alone and that a breach of this instruction would result in serious consequences for the new warden.

At the time of the Pendleton Round-up Superintendent Curtis went to Pendleton to him. Assured that his long unexplained absence from the prison while on the Idaho trip was for some purpose other than business strictly connected with the duties of his office, the Governor today decided on dispensing with his services.

Governor Puts Ban on Booze.

Along with the acceptance of the resignation of Curtis today, the Governor issued a letter to the superintendent of the penitentiary that liquor is hereafter taboo. This notice is as follows:

"It is to advise you that the excessive use of intoxicating liquor by any officer or employe connected with the Oregon State Penitentiary will be considered as a cause for dismissal. Any officer or employe bringing liquor upon the premises of the penitentiary will be discharged without further notice. You are also advised that the use of liquor in or about the penitentiary is to a moderate degree, and when away from the institution will militate against him should the question of his promotion be presented to this office for its consideration.

Efficiency is Praised.

In an interview the Governor said: "Warden Beeson will remain at his post and there will be no immediate changes at the prison.

"There is never anything I have done in my life which has been so hard to do as this has been today. Mr. Curtis is an exceptionally efficient man. With work in connection with the institution he has proved himself highly capable and I have nothing but praise for Mr. Curtis and the manner in which he has handled the present situation. There has been but one difficulty at the prison and that has been just plain 'boozing.'

"There are a number of guards and employes at the prison who have been accused of indulging too freely and there will be a weeding out among them.

"This notice is being issued to the superintendent in regard to the conduct of employes at the institution I mean ward for ward, and I want to see that it shall be enforced.

"There will be no booze drinking in or around the prison and when the employes are off duty they are taking their own chances if they desire to drink."

Curtis Long at Post.

Superintendent Curtis has been at the prison since 1903. In April, of that year, he became a guard under Governor Chamberlain and was promoted to the wardenship in July, of the same year. This year, when Superintendent James was deposed, Curtis was promoted, first to the joint superintendency and wardenship, and when a question as to the legality of his holding the two positions came up he was made superintendent and John Bengen, former deputy warden was advanced to the wardenship.

How Governor West happened to select Lawson to succeed Curtis is more or less inexplicable.

"What is Colonel Lawson's politics?" the Governor was asked.

"I have no idea and furthermore it makes no difference to me whether he is a Republican, Democrat or Socialist. I think he is efficient and that is why I appointed him," he replied.

The position of superintendent was first tendered by the Governor to August Huckestein, a prominent Democrat and cigar manufacturer of this city. The tender was made to Huckestein quietly yesterday afternoon. After talking the matter over with his Democratic friends Huckestein refused.

Political History Bared.

Back of this tender lies a little political history. When Governor West was elected he promised Huckestein that if any vacancy occurred in the position of superintendent that he would give Huckestein the job, but expressed himself as being favorable to retaining James. When the question of ousting James came up, the double position which he offered Curtis brought out complications which resulted finally in Curtis being given the position and Huckestein being left out in the cold.

Now Huckestein is a candidate for the Salem Postmastership. In addition, it is highly probable the next Legislature will put the prison under the management of the State Board and take it out of the hands of the Governor. Should this happen it is more than likely that the recently appointed superintendent will lose his job. Huckestein evidently did not care to take a chance on losing the Postmastership for what appears to be at the best a short term as superintendent of the prison.

The deposed superintendent does not know what he will do, but it is probable he will return with his family to his home in Portland.

Bridge Worker Injured.

A. Carlton, working for the Northern Pacific Terminal Company, received injuries to the head and a contusion of the eye as the result of being struck by some heavy article. He was working on the bridge, he said, when something suddenly struck him, knocking him senseless for an hour. The Red Cross ambulance conveyed the injured man to the Good Samaritan Hospital.

WEST DEFENDS ACT

Roseburg City Officials Told to Enforce Statutes.

BREWING COMPANY SCORED

Governor, Replying to Criticism of City Council, Declares Local Option Laws Have Been Persistently Violated.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Declaring that Mayor Micelli, of Roseburg, stultified his oath by attempting to condone a violation of the law, Governor West sent a letter to Carl E. Wimberly, City Recorder of Roseburg, in response to resolutions which were adopted by the Roseburg City Council. These resolutions stated that the Governor has injured the name of Roseburg by the moves which he has made and asked that he conduct his campaign through the courts, rather than through the newspapers, in the future.

Replying that he intends to follow the course which he has marked out, the Governor sent the following letter today:

Governor Offers Reply.

This is to acknowledge receipt of yours of the 18th inst., enclosing copy of resolution adopted by your honorable council, and in which objection is made to the action of this office in reference to matters of law enforcement in your city.

In reply, I wish to say that neither the passage of this resolution nor any similar action on the part of your honorable council in the future will influence me in the performance of what I consider my duty. My line of action is already marked out, and I intend to follow it to the end.

Nothing that has been said or done by me recently in any way reflects upon whatever upon your fair city or its good people. If the city has suffered, it is not by reason of any act of mine. My instance has been only that the laws of this state be observed by all and maxims, and it is cordially hoped that the law-abiding citizens of your city who are outside the pale of the law.

During the past month in regard to complaints have been filed with this office charging that the local option laws were being violated and flags were being hoisted in your city in violation of the law. It is my duty to my oath and my office as Governor of this state, sworn to see that the laws are justly and impartially enforced. I called these complaints to the attention of the Attorney General and Douglas County, and asked that the charges be investigated, and such action be taken as the law may warrant.

Resulting from this investigation the officers and directors of the Roseburg Brewing & Ice Company were indicted for violating the local option law. They vehemently denied the guilt.

State's Course Explained.

It is a fact, admitting of no contradiction, that the institution of a public nuisance which openly, constantly and notoriously flaunts its disregard of the law, and its contempt of the public morals and the public peace, and which is a source of danger, and that any person standing as sponsor for or hand in such an institution, and shares in its public disgrace.

Such an institution is the Roseburg Brewing & Ice Company, the revocation of whose charter has been urged by the Attorney General of this state, based upon indictments found by a grand jury of the law-abiding and justice-loving citizens of Douglas County. Against this effort your Mayor, a stockholder and profit-sharing member of the company, has endeavored to make an illegal defense. Sworn to uphold the law, he stultified his oath by attempting to condone its violation—a violation proven of record by the pleas of guilty entered upon the docket of the Circuit Court.

No man can keep his oath and betray it. No man can fold his trust and betray it. This office is confident your Mayor knew Roseburg and by the Roseburg Brewing & Ice Company. He was a stockholder in an illegal business while sworn to uphold and enforce the law.

In view of the facts, this office sees no reason to change its course. It has a sworn duty to perform—to see that the laws of this state are enforced; and no matter whether the violators are distinguished public officials, whose whole business life is devoted to the humbling blind-piger in the back alley.

For the beautiful City of Roseburg and its thousands of good people, for its good name and fair fame, and for the highest regard of its undiscriminating citizens I have a different opinion. They are the persons, not I, who have brought unfavorable notice upon you; and they must, if the arm of justice be strong enough, make atonement to the law they have offended.

OPERA SINGER IS DEAD

Former Star, Who Retired After Zenith of Career, Had World-Wide Renown.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Mme. Minnie Hauck, former grand opera singer, died in Munich last Saturday, according to word received last night. She retired from the stage in 1896, spending most of her time at her villa on Lake Lucerne, with her husband, Baron von Hesse-Wartegg.

She is best remembered in America through her appearances in the Metropolitan Opera-House in New York up to the time of her retirement from the stage in 1896. She had in all a repertoire of 120 parts such as Carmen, Afrikanerin and Zerline. In 1882 she was married to Ernst von Hesse-Wartegg, a Consul-General.

Mme. Hauck was born in New York September 16, 1852. Her first appearance on the stage was in New York in 1869. She appeared in London in the same year, and in Vienna in 1870 to 1874, then in Berlin, where she was appointed Kammeraesängerin.

SINGER KNOWN AT HILLSBORO

Mme. Hauck Remembered by Older Settlers—Father Had Farm.

HILLSBORO, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.) Mrs. Minnie Hauck von Hesse-Wartegg, famous opera singer, who died at Munich November 16, was well known here by the old settlers of Hillsboro and Cornelius. Her father, Andrew Hauck, lived for many years at Cornelius, where Mrs. Wartegg had purchased for him a home, when he refused to return to Lucerne, Switzerland, where she had a comfortable villa.

The famous opera singer sang often at Cornelius when she was in the zenith of her operatic career. She annually sent remittances to her father and when he died a few months ago he left in cash $3147, which represented his savings from the sums the daughter sent. This money reverted to Mrs. Hauck through the banking-house of J. P. Morgan & Company. A receipt for this money is on file in the probate court here.

WRECK AT ENTRANCE OF YAQUINA BAY ENDS SIX-YEAR CAREER OF ACCIDENTS FOR GAS SLOOP CONDOR.

NEWPORT, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The gas sloop Condor, wrecked at the entrance to Yaquina Bay Sunday morning, was built at Astoria in 1906 and has been engaged in the coastwise trade since that date. The vessel had a very unusual career for accidents. She has been towed into Coos Bay with a broken shaft, beached at the mouth of the Alsea, collided with a dock at Portland, washed over a sand spit below Astoria, being four hours in a heavy surf and has called the local lifesavers into service five times in a few years.

The Condor is rapidly filling with sand, which indicates that an unequal history of misfortune is at an end.

BE SUSPICIOUS OF ANY CHRONIC ULCER

Any sore that is obstinate or slow in healing should cause suspicion and put the sufferer on guard. Many an ulcer which could have been cured if it had been properly treated, in time, has been allowed to remain open until it became infected with some degenerate poison from the outside which made it a malignant, eating sore. Most old sores come from an impure and polluted condition of the blood and can be healed if the circulation is cleansed and purified of the predisposing cause. To attempt to cure a chronic ulcer with salves, washes, lotions, etc. is trifling with what may become a serious condition. S. S. S. heals chronic ulcers in a perfectly natural way. It goes down into the blood and removes the impurities and morbid matters which are the means of keeping the place open; then the sore is bound to heal. Not only does S. S. S. cleanse the circulation but it restores its healing powers, and aids in promoting the necessary qualities for good health. S. S. S. builds new flesh tissue from the bottom of the ulcer to the outer skin and makes a permanent cure. Book on Sores and Ulcers and medical advice free to all who write and request same.
